The London Daily News claims that the Tory papers have tacitly admitted that there may be something after all in its revelations of the Churchill-Chamberlin Home Rule measure.

Buildings in New York occupied by Pitman & Co., table manufacturers, and Stornberg & Unger, cigar box makers, were burned yesterday. Loss $200,000.

Since Sept. 1, 1885, twenty-six vessels belonging to the Gloucester District fleet, valued at $161,000 and insured for $118,400, have been lost. The loss of life aggregated 104.

The body of William Macdonald, laborer, aged 35, a native of Glasgow, was fished out of the Welland Canal near Port Dalhousie yesterday. Macdonald fell into the canal on Sunday. He was drunk at the time.

Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire iron manufacturer, has been lying ill at Cresson for several days and his condition was so bad yesterday that the attending physician thought it not advisable to acquaint him of the death of his brother.

Mr. R. H. Holland, P.M., returned on Saturday night from Montreal, where he had been for a week soliciting subscriptions for the Williams Memorial Fund. Mr. Holland, notwithstanding the election excitement, succeeded very well, collecting a very considerable sum. He was received in the most cordial spirit by the citizens of Montreal.—Port Hope Times.

Mr. Schwartz, owner of Oliver K., declines to accept the challenge of the owner of Majolica to trot over Fleetwood Park. Mr. Schwartz, however, offers to wager $10,000 to $2000 that Oliver K. can beat Majolica on any good track in America except Fleetwood, and he agrees to go 300 miles farther than Mr. Strauss will, or he will allow Mr. Strauss to name the Hartford track. His second proposition was to match Oliver K. against Harry Wilkes for $5000 a side, and trot on any good track except Fleetwood this fall.

The Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1886.

THE Liberals of East York, on Saturday, held a convention and unanimously nominated Hon. Alex. Mackenzie as candidate for the representation of the riding in the House of Commons.

IT may not work equally well both ways, but the Conservative party and press are "laying it on." Mr. G. W. Stephens, was defeated in Montreal West by the appeal to the prejudices of the French Canadians, made by Mr. Tasse's organ, La Minerve, which denounced him as a Protestant and a Franco-phobe. Mr. Carnegie and his political allies are endeavoring to secure support on the same grounds upon which Mr. Stephens, a Protestant Liberal, was defeated in Montreal. It would be a very nice arrangement, but it is a hocus-pocus sort of policy that will not commend itself to the good sense and sound judgment of the electors.

THE Mail has the following: "Sir Richard Cartwright has been in Peterborough conferring with the local Reformers with a view to a nomination." There is not a word of truth in this statement. Sir Richard has been here twice within a few weeks. On the first occasion he was in town on private business. The last time he passed the night in town, en route to Kirkfield, where he delivered a public address. The Mail might save its solicitude. When the time comes Sir Richard will find a constituency, from the representation of which all the Mail party's boodle brigade cannot keep him.

Some idea of the character of the Quebec campaign may be formed from the statement of the Montreal Witness regarding Montreal West that "while the Gazette is inflaming "the minds of the English-speaking electors "against Mr. Stephens (the Liberal candi-"date) on the ground that he skirked the "Riel question to please the French, La "Minerve is appealing to the French-Cana-"dians of the district to vote against him on "the ground that he is a Protestant and per-"secutor of the French. If Mr. Stephens is "defeated, therefore, it will be on the "ground that he is too fanatical an enemy "of the French for the French people, and "too warm a friend of the French for the "English people, on the ground that he is "too fanatical a Protestant for the French "Roman Catholics, and that he is not "enough of a Protestant for the English "Protestants." It will thus be seen that where the Conservative think they can gain votes by raising the race cry, they do not omit to do so.

The Canada Life.

A Prosperous and Progressive Assurance Corporation—What the Annual Report Reveals.

The exhibit made by the 39th annual report of the Canada Life Assurance Company is, in all respects, a most satisfactory one to both share and policy holders. The new business of the past year shows a marvellous growth compared to its predecessor. The following summary will be of interest:—Out of 2,634 applications last fiscal year 2,448 were accepted for $5,486,456, with annual premiums of $188,023, and 112 were completed later. The total business at 30th April was $39,511,347, under 20,073 policies on 15,613 lives, a great showing. The income for the year was $1,493,405, and after paying all claims, including the splendid profits of $455,407 to holders of policies, the assets were increased to $7,396,777. With an exhibit like this it is no matter of wonder that the institution stands high in public favour. Its excellent management has placed it in the foremost rank of insurance corporations on this continent, and its continuously increasing profits to policy holders and its increasing stability, augur a still more prosperous future.

The management of the Eastern Ontario branch, heretofore solely in the hands of Mr. Geo. A. Cox, is now in the hands of Messrs. Geo. A. and E. W. Cox. The latter gentleman has developed an aptitude and capacity for the insurance business that justifies the wisdom of his association in the management.

Ennismore.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Immediately after the breaking up of our rain storm on Thursday last, a fearful gale set in from the south-west, which continued with unabated fury during the night. On Friday the wind changed to the north-west, still continuing to blow with only a little less force, leveling fences and trees, and leaving about seven-tenths of our fine crop of apples on the ground. On Thursday night the Mud Lake floating bridge was broken in two places by the gale, which will considerably interfere with travel until it is repaired.

Possible Changes in the Cabinet.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—The Evening Journal publishes a story to the effect that Sir Adolphe Caron, Minister of Militia, becoming tired of the turmoil of political life, will shortly retire to accept the lieutenant-governorship of the Northwest Territories, and also that Senator Haldimand will be appointed a member of the Federal Cabinet without portfolio and a Castor receive a portfolio in order to obtain the support of wavering extremists.

The Switchmen's Strike at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 19.—At a meeting of a large number of citizens Sheriff and influential citizens last night, resolutions were passed condemning the state of affairs which permit the business of the city to be stopped by the switchmen's strike, and calling upon Mayor Ames to appoint enough special policemen to effectually protect the railroads.

Jake Sharp in Jail.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Inspector Byrnes this morning arrested Jake Sharp, of Broadway Railway notoriety, at his home, on an indictment found against him by the Grand Jury for bribing the "boodle" aldermen to vote for the Broadway Railway franchise. James Richmond, president of the Broadway Railway, and Jessie W. Fosdey, ex-president, were also arrested.

Fighting in Burmah.

RANGOON, Oct. 19.—A large force of insurgents attacked Nyngyan in Burmah, but were repulsed by the garrison. During the conflict a small force of the British column was driven back into the town.

A Big Fire in Troy, N. Y.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 19.—The building owned by the Leonard Smith estate and occupied in part by A. L. Hotchkiss, furniture dealer, and W. H. Reynolds, paper hanger, was burned to-day. The loss is Converse Collins, Merrill & Co. is estimated at $20,000. The loss on the building is $4,000. Hotchkiss loses his stock.

The Fisheries Dispute Discussed.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 19.—At the cabinet meeting this afternoon the Canadian fisheries complications and the scope and policy of the President's annual message to Congress were the principal topics considered.

That Terrible Aqueduct.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The cage in which the workmen in one of the shafts of the new aqueduct are borne to and from their work in the tunnel fell this morning from nearly the mouth of the shaft as six men were ascending in it. The rope broke and the cage went down with a crash on the rocks 50 feet below. Thos. Burke was killed and three others terribly injured.

Honored With the Lyre.

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—A certificate of honorary membership in the St. Ananias Club of Topeka has arrived for Prof. E. Stone Wiggins. Surrounding the seal are the words "St. Ananias Club, Topeka," and in the centre is a picture of the instrument known as the lyre. It is said that the Professor has received notice from the authorities that he must either quit prophesying or the civil service.

Fatal Attacks.

Among the most prevalent fatal and sudden attacks of diseases, are those incident to the summer and fall, such as Cholera Morbus, Billious Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, etc., that often prove fatal in a few hours. That ever reliable remedy Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, should be at hand for use in emergency. 2w42&d

All his assumed ease had vanished, and he sat before us now as abject a craven as I have ever seen. Blake's secret had worked like magic. In a faltering voice the wretched creature asked if he might have "a drop of brandy" before he began his story, and I was by no means sorry to supply him with it. Then he began and unfolded the marvellous tale which I shall repeat in his own words, merely omitting his redundancies of speech.

"They have been plotting against Mauleverer ever since I've known him, and that is seven years. Whom do I mean by they? I mean Dr. Branksome and his gang; that is, Flinter and the girl Daisy, and a lot of fellows in Australia, and now they have got this Fosdyke in the business. You see it has been a regular company, and they have been working it for years. Talk of gold mining; but there is no gold mine in all Australia that will yield half so much as Mr. Mauleverer. So you need not wonder that the whole party—there are some of them still over there—have been working at the business for years past. At one time I know they meant to make an end of the old man in his own house at Wengeera. But you see some of them had got a bit blown upon there, and they were afraid that if anything happened it would not do; so then the doctor hit upon a plan of bringing him away to England and getting rid of him quietly, at a time when the worst members of the gang were at the other side of the world."

"But how could it profit Dr. Branksome to kill Mr. Mauleverer? He was not his heir."

"Not that is just it. But the plot began a great deal sooner than you seem to suppose. It began nearly twenty years ago. At that time Mauleverer had no heir. His only sister had died childless, and there was neither kith nor kin to come after him."

"His sister childless! Why, Miss Stancliffe had been born then."

"Just so; only in those days she was Miss Somebody-else; Miss Stancliffe, as you call her, had not been thought of at that time."

Harding uttered a low cry of amazement. I found it difficult to put the next question.

"What in heaven's name do you mean?"

"I mean," he said doggedly, "that it was a plant from the very beginning! Dr. Branksome and his party were determined to get every farthing of the old man's money. He had no heir, and so they found one for him, and planted her on him successfully."

"But why should they have fixed upon Miss Stancliffe? What good did they imagine it would do them, supposing that he did leave everything to her?"

The sneering smile appeared on the fellow's face again.

"Really," he said, "you are not very bright. They must have found it easy to make a fool of you. Daisy was adopted by the doctor's wife when she was little more than a baby. She lived in the doctor's house for a dozen years or more, and Branksome got such an influence over her that he knew he could twist her round his fingers exactly as he pleased. Why, I bet you two to one that she has made her will in his favor since her arrest."

I could not command my countenance entirely when I heard this direct guess at the truth. It brought with it to my mind a terrible confirmation of the truthfulness of this unwilling witness.

"I see you know something about it," he continued. "Well, it is just as I thought it would be. They never meant the girl to share with them. She was to have all the kicks, while they got all the ha'pence. It would have been different, though, if she had listened to me."

"I don't want either to throw doubt upon your story or to seem to accept it without further inquiry; but I must ask you to tell me who, in your belief, Miss Stancliffe is?"

"Did I not tell you just now? No. Well, she is the daughter, I am told, of a poor old parson named Sheldon, who died at Melbourne twenty years ago. His wife lived twelve or eighteen months after him, and then she died, too, and Daisy was left a little child, without a friend in the world. It was then, as I've said, that Mrs. Branksome took pity on her, and adopted her. She was a good woman, was the doctor's wife, and he never dared to carry out his plot about Daisy until she was gone. God knows whether he did not help her off in the end. He was equal to it. At all events, as soon as she died, Branksome goes to poor old Mauleverer, and tells him the whole tale—the tale he had made up—how he had kept the secret of Daisy's real birth until then, partly because of his promise to her mother, and partly for his wife's sake, as she would never have parted with the girl. Mauleverer swallowed the bait whole, and from that time Branksome had complete command, not only over Daisy, but over the old man also."

"How have you got to learn all this?"

"That's my business," he said in sullen tones. But immediately some swift fear of the consequences of giving me offence took possession of his mind. "If you must know, I learned it all from an old servant of Branksome's whom I got hold of. I always suspected there was something wrong, and after Branksome quarrelled with me, and got me dismissed by Mauleverer, I wormed the truth out of the old woman."

Harding and I were so much astounded by the extraordinary revelation thus made to us that neither of us felt capable of carrying Gregson's examination further. Strange as it may seem, we had no doubt as to the truth of his story. Rascal as the fellow unmistakably was, he had told his tale in a manner which compelled our acceptance of it. I sat bewildered, almost paralysed, by the nature of his statements. Daisy not the niece of Mauleverer! And Branksome the head of a gang of scoundrels, whose diabolical plot against the life of the millionaire had only now been carried out, after years of careful preparation! It seemed incredible, and yet in my heart I felt certain that it was true.

Harding was the first to recover the full use of his faculties.

"Will you be good enough," he said, addressing Gregson, "to give us your opinion, if you have one, as to the way in which Mr. Mauleverer was murdered?"

"I thought you knew all about that. Daisy Stancliffe gave him the poison instead of his powder that night."

By a look Harding warned me to keep calm. "Do I understand," he pursued, "that in your opinion, Miss Stancliffe—you think, we may still call her—administered the poison knowingly?"

"Why, just is to your own sense, sir. Somebody gave the old gentleman his dose that night. It was not done by Branksome, or by Flinter, or by Fosdyke, nor by Mr. Foster here. Who did it? Not any of the English servants at Great Lorton. There's none of them in the secret from here. Don't you see it must have been done by the girl who had been brought up for that very purpose—ever since she was a baby?"

"No!" I cried, regardless of Harding's appealing glance. "I do not see it. God only knows how the thing was done, but if Miss Stancliffe was the accomplice of these villains, she was an unconscious and an innocent one."

"Then will you tell me how the thing was done? Why, you know yourself that neither Branksome nor Flinter had been near the hall for weeks before the old man died; and they were a thousand miles away when the dose was given."

I put my hand to my forehead wearily.

"Ah, if I could only tell you how it was done! I have thought, and thought, even everything till my brain has grown giddy. There is only one theory that has even a chance in its favor, and of that, alas! if it be the true one, we can never obtain the proof."

(To be Continued.)

"We say at night, 'Would God the day were here,'
And we at dawn, 'Would God the day were dead.'"

How well Swinburne has emphasised the feelings of thousands of Earth's fairest daughters, who are held prostrate by disease's fell hand. But, instead of the appeals of despair, what a song of joy ascends from the hearts of those ladies who have used Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," and by its means been restored to the glorious sunshine of health. It is a positive remedy for those derangements, irregularities and weaknesses so common to our best female population. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists. 6dw42

"Where are we to look for our rising young men? Not in the street car, anyhow," exclaimed Mrs. Shodd. "No, my dear," replied Mr. S, "You will find them in the elevators."

"What is McGregor's Speedy Cure for"? It is for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Biliousness, and it is the finest blood purifier in the known world to-day.

"Does it give satisfaction?"

We cannot point to one instance where it did not.

"Where does it make the largest sale?"

Right in the city of Hamilton, where it is manufactured, there has been over one thousand dollars' worth sold in the last year retail, and the great majority of the sales are by one recommending it to another. For sale at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle, by John McKee. eodw42

A California youth squeezed his girl so tight that he broke two of her ribs, but was comforted when she said "Go on, Hank, and bust the other twenty-two."

West's World Wonder or Family Liniment is a remedy that no well regulated household should be without, as it is a positive cure for rheumatism. It is invaluable for sprains, cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, and all diseases requiring external application. 25c. and 50c. per bottle. All druggists. dwo

CAPTAIN WILLIAM SLATER, No. 37 Granville Street, Halifax, N.S.

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Specialist, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—When you visited me in the latter part of January of this year I had been given up to die of consumption by a consultation of Physicians, Drs. Reid and Oliver, prominent physicians of Halifax who considered that my recovery was simply impossible. I had no hope myself nor had my family. When you expressed a hope of my recovery it was received with a doubt. Confined to my bed, very low, weak wasted, with a weak very bad troublesome cough, raising large quantities of matter—in fact every appearance of a speedy death. After using your Respirator and Spirometer and medicine I began to recover very fast, so much so that during three hard winter months I have gained from 20 to 25 lbs., and was able to walk out on Easter Sunday. My strength is daily increasing, and I shall be able soon to be at work. To you I owe a debt of gratitude, and am anxious for others who are suffering as I was to consult you. You can make what use of this letter you see fit, and thanking you for what I consider a most wonderful treatment,

I remain, yours truly,

CAPT. WM. SLATER.

Later,—Fully recovered and at work.

Change of Title.

At a recent meeting of the Powel & Jones Company the name was changed to "The Peterborough Stove and Furnace Company."

Hunters on the War Path.

Last night another hunting party left for the north, their destination being the vicinity of Jack's Lake. It consisted of Messrs. A. Grossman, Geo. Hibbard, F. C. Loshs, and Dan. Stroh, of Rochester; Wm. Kennally, J. Byrne, and Patrick Cassidy of Peterborough. They will be joined at Young's Point by Mr. Geo. Chalmers. The party take with them nine hounds.

The Prize Pumpkin.

The contest among the farmers for the $12 overcoat to be given by Gough, the wonderful cheap man, for the largest pumpkin deposited in his store by November 1st, waxes warm. Several huge bulbs which took prizes at the different township fairs have been brought in, but these have been put in the shade by a monstrous specimen brought in just the other day. Unless something better is forthcoming that pumpkin wins the overcoat.

Annexation.

There are two rank annexationists in town. Mr. W. VanEvery, of the "City Depot," Hunter street, and Mr. W. J. Brisbin, flour and feed, in the adjacent shop, have united their forces and amalgamated their businesses, and the united business will hereafter be carried on under the title of the "City Depot," under the joint management of two live business men. Both shops will be kept, one for flour, feed, pressed hay, grain, and all supplies of this sort, while the other will comprise groceries, provisions and everything required for hotel or domestic consumption. The "City Depot" coalition makes a strong commercial team.

A Dangerous Sport.

Last night some boys were playing around the electric light pole on the corner of George and Macdonnel streets, when one of them, in passing, brushed against an iron rod connected with the apparatus and received a severe electrical shock. The fact once known that the pole was electrified, a crowd gathered and hundreds of people, prompted by curiosity, touched the iron and were shocked. The same thing occurred a few weeks ago at Mr. McKee's hardware store, the iron door-step becoming impregnated with electricity, and excited a great deal of merriment, but the novelty is altogether too dangerous. A person unaware of the fact in leaning heavily against the pole last night might have received a shock that would have resulted most unpleasantly.

Boys' Boarding and Day School.

Mr. Edward Duff, who has for some time been in charge of the Hazela Brae Branch of Dr. Barnardo's Homes, recently resigned that position. His resignation has been accepted and he is making arrangements for the establishment in town of an educational institution, to be called "The Peterborough Boys' Boarding and Day School," and, judging from a perusal of the numerous testimonials of Mr. Duff's qualifications, character and fitness for successfully conducting such a school, there is no doubt that it will be under very efficient management, and consequently receive liberal support. The following among other testimonials, equally commendatory, may be quoted.

"Mr. Edward Duff was the principal for some years of the leading Nonconformist Boys' School of this town. His predecessors in the conduct of the school were men of high ability and Mr. Duff was esteemed by competent judges to be a worthy successor to them in every respect, both of teaching power and discipline. I had abundant and prolonged opportunities for observing his success in his work. Many of the lads were the children of my friends and relatives. My own son, who, a few years ago graduated at Glasgow University as B. S. C. E., (Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer), was prepared for his college course by Mr. Duff. He has had considerable experience in passing pupils in the Oxford and Cambridge local examinations, and I consider Mr. Duff as a conscientious, well educated, "all round" teacher. An extensive circle of friends regarded his removal from town, enforced by depression in trade and agricultural failures—as a great loss to the cause of education here.

Big Bargains in Boots.

The stock of boots and shoes purchased Wednesday by Mr. R. Neil will be rushed off at wonderfully low prices at the store lately occupied by Mr. W. Miller, in the market block. Go there for bargains.

The Newest and Best.

For the best teas Morrow & Tierney cannot be beaten. They have just received a large stock of new season teas, in which they are offering special inducements. Camping parties' supplies and fancy groceries a specialty.

Market Items.

There was a small market this morning, but sales were pretty lively. Up to 10 o'clock not a single bag of potatoes had been offered. Apples were a drug, the result of the recent hurricane, and sold from 50 to 70 cents a bag. There was the usual quantity of vegetables and roots, the prices of which seldom vary. Butter sold at 20c., chickens 35 to 40c, a pair, geese 55 to 65c.

Put it on Your List.

Be sure you are able to say "I've got it on the list"—that is the Mikado social to be held in St. John's school room on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Oct. 27th and 28th. It will be a rarely enjoyable and interesting entertainment. Tickets only 25c. The splendid musical programme to be presented, under the management of Mr. Seward, including Mikado selections, will be worth the hearing. Everything Japanese. Don't fail to include the Mikado social in your list of engagements.

Attention!

We would call attention to the offer made by Joseph Gavin that during the next thirty days he will sell the whole of his summer stock of boots and shoes at cost. A few lines will actually be sold below cost. Look at the following quotations:—

An Enterprising Firm.

This week Messrs. Sherwood Bros., general commission merchants, Water street, removed to the premises lately occupied by Ostrom & Ostrom, under the Parlour Roller Rink, nine doors south of their old stand. This removal—the second within a year—was necessitated by the rapidly increasing business of this young but enterprising firm, which, though but a year old, already leads the trade, their circuit of patronage embracing the whole Midland district. They deal principally in staple groceries, paper and paper bags, which they buy at and ship directly from the manufactories, thus being enabled to sell at wholesale prices. Their present larger premises afford greater facilities for the prompt and satisfactory transaction of business, and they are better prepared than ever to meet the demands of trade. They are constantly adding new lines to their business.

The Programme.

The dairy-maids' social to be held to-morrow evening in the Charlotte street Methodist church promises to be an interesting event. Special Excursion to New York.

A grand special excursion to New York will take place on Tuesday Oct. 26th per G. T. R., Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg, and Hudson River Railways. Tickets will be on sale at T. Menzies, Agency Peterborough, on Oct. 25th and 26th. The tickets from Peterborough are $11.15 and are good to return, on connecting roads till November 1st inclusive and on the Grand Trunk till November 3rd inclusive. Parties of 40 and upwards can have a special day coach reserved from Ogdensburg to New York, by applying to Mr. T. Menzies before Oct. 21st. All trains have first class coaches. The scenery along the route of this excursion is exceptionally grand. The trains land at the Grand Central depot. The city is now at its full height of commercial and amusement activity and altogether the excursion in its unparalleled cheapness, is one well worth taking in. Secure your tickets at Mr. T. Menzies' agency, George street.

An Ingenious Invention.

Mr. Charles Dawson, late foreman of the Central Iron Works, has just patented a force pump which, though of insignificant proportions, yet possesses gigantic strength. It is known as a lane pump, working on the rotary principle, and performs its work most satisfactorily. One of the pumps is in operation in Mr. Paterson's tannery on Aylmer street. There it forces water from the creek to a tank 35 feet above. For fire purposes it is specially adapted, a stream being thrown during a test on Monday afternoon to a height of about 60 feet through a 7-16 inch nozzle, with a 2½ inch belt. Pipes are laid to three sides of the building, where the hose can be connected, thus affording ample protection from fire. The machine pumps 40 gallons a minute. One of its greatest virtues, however, is the fact that it can be manufactured at about half the cost of the ordinary steam pumps. They can be made in all sizes and capacities, from 7 to 500 gallons. Messrs. Whyte & Co. are placing one of the pumps in their foundry, and there is one in complete operation at Omemee. Mr. Dawson intends shortly starting a manufactory at Millbrook, where the best of facilities are at hand. He shows a small model pump for feeding a boiler, which creates surprise that such a small piece of mechanism—about the size of an ordinary hat crown—can accomplish so wonderful a result. It is to be hoped Mr. Dawson will reap the benefit of his invention.

Foresters' Reception.

The Visiting Grand Officers Accorded a Warm Welcome—Complimentary Supper—The Toasts List.

Yesterday evening Messrs. R. Elliott, of Listowell, R.W.H.C.R., and A. E. Gammage, R.W.H.S., Brantford, grand officers of the Canadian Order of Foresters, arrived on the 6.42 C. P. R. express from the east on their return from a visit of inspection and instruction to the courts of the Order in the eastern portion of their jurisdiction. They were met and welcomed by a delegation of the local brethren.

In the evening a session of Court Peterborough was held, at which were present the visiting grand officers and a large number of the members of the Court, as well as many members of Court Little John. Matters of interest to the Order were discussed, and a very pleasant and instructive session was held. Shortly after nine the Court adjourned to Mr. J. J. Daly's restaurant, where a was given in honor of the distinguished visitors. In addition to the guests of the evening there were present several representatives of other societies—Messrs. W. Cluxton and E. E. Henderson, for the Oddfellows; Mr. E. J. Toker, for the Masonic Order; Mr. A. Clegg, for the A. O. U. W., and others. A company of between fifty and sixty sat down to a most abundant, well served, and tastefully arranged and abundant supper. After the serious subject of the discussion of the viands was disposed of, there followed the more intellectual portion of the evening's entertainment.

Mr. A. McFarlane, C.R., Court Peterborough, occupied the chair, and Mr. A. McNeil, R.W.H.V.C.R., the vice-chair. The Peterborough orchestra furnished excellent music during the evening, adding very greatly to the enjoyment of the guests. The following toasts were proposed by Mr. McFarlane:

"The Queen"—Orchestra, "God Save the Queen."

"The Army and Navy and Volunteers"—Orchestra, "The Red, White and Blue."

Mr. A. McNeil, in a neat speech, proposed the toast of

"Our Sister Societies"—The orchestra and chorus, "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

This toast brought out brief, timely and warmly fraternal responses from Mr. Wm. Cluxton and Mr. E. E. Henderson, representing the Oddfellows, Mr. A. Clegg, P.M.W., representing the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and Mr. E. J. Toker, W.M., of Corinthian Lodge, 101, representing the Masonic fraternity.

The orchestra gave an operatic selection in excellent style.

"Our Guests"—Mr. R. Elliott, R. W. H. C. R., in response to the toast, which was most enthusiastically received, gave explanations of the origin of the Canadian Order of Foresters, and stated that it was an entirely Canadian society. Since its origin, the Order had paid out in endowments, sick benefits, etc., over $150,000. He cited, as a point of superiority over other similar societies, the sinking fund as peculiar to the Foresters, now amounting to $23,000, (applause) to be used only in case of an extra assessment being required. But in seven years not a single extra assessment had been necessary. There were in the province of Ontario 5,000 members.

Mr. A. E. Gammage, R. W. H. S., in a brief speech returned thanks, and pointed out the benefits, apparent and ultimate, resulting from the benefactions of the Order.

"The Press" received suitable acknowledgments from representatives of the EXAMINER and Review.

After the exhaustion of the regular toast list, Mr. Toker proposed the toast of "Court Lakefield," which was responded to in a most humorous speech, full of rhyme and reason, by Mr. R. Q. Dench.

Mr. E. E. Henderson proposed "Court Peterborough," which brought responses from Mr. A. McNeil, P.C.R., and A. McFarlane, C.R.

"Our Host and Hostess" brought a neat reply from Mr. J. J. Daly, and the proceedings of a most enjoyable evening were brought to a conclusion by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" in the time honored manner, followed by "God Save the Queen" and three hearty cheers for Her Majesty.

The entertainment was a successful one in every respect. The spread provided by Mr. Daly, though prepared on a moment's notice, was an excellent and elegant one. The spirit of congeniality and good fellowship among the members of the several sister societies represented was a pleasing feature of the evening. Altogether, the occasion was a most enjoyable one, and the High Court officers cannot but be pleased with the cordiality of their reception, and the brethren and guests must congratulate themselves on being fortunate enough to have had an opportunity of being present.

Personal.

Messrs. T. R. Hewson, D.L.S., and R. S. Latimer left this morning for Stony Lake, where they will be engaged for the next three weeks in connection with the completion of the survey of the islands.

Messrs. Alex Elliott and D. H. Moore are on the highway to recovery and will soon be able to be about.

Mr. T. Munro, of Belleville, a former resident of Peterborough, is in town to-day.

Police Court.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 20th.

The charge against T. Cavanagh for violating the Scott Act, tried yesterday afternoon, was dismissed.

R. Nicholls and T. Ritchie, two drunks, were before the Cadi this morning. Dismissed.

Jas. Condon, who keeps the temperance house on Simcoe street, was fined $50 this morning for violating the Canada Temperance Act. It was proven that liquor was sold on his premises Sunday night last. A similar charge against his son, John Condon, was dismissed. The defendant, in the first case, claimed that his son, who was out of town at present, was the lessee of the hotel, and, therefore, responsible for any infringement of the Act. The magistrate, however, held that though nominally leased in his son's name, the hotel was, in reality, controlled by the defendant himself, and he gave judgment accordingly.

Poison's Nerviline.

Hundreds who have experienced the wonderful power of Nerviline in subsiding pain have testified that it is the most potent remedy in existence. A Modern Miracle.

In a recent letter from R. W. Dawton, of Deloraine, Ont., he states that he recovered from the worst form of Dyspepsia after suffering for fifteen years; and when a council of Doctors pronounced him incurable he tried Burdock Blood Bitters, six bottles of which restored his health. 2w42d

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilised countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

Paid Politeness.

Mrs. Converse (to neighbor's nurse girl)—"I wish I had such a polite, well-behaved girl for my children. I notice that you always address your charges as 'Miss' and 'Master.'" EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. * * * have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

AWAITING HARMONY.

JOHN BRIGHT DECLINES TO ATTEND A LIBERAL DINNER.

His Very Flimsy Excuse for His Conduct—He Prefers to Remain Silent Rather Than Talk Against Old Friends.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—John Bright, who was invited to attend a presentation to Mr. Schnadhorst at Birmingham, writes that he greatly approves the services of Mr. Schnadhorst and the manner of marking them, but asks to be excused from attending the ceremony because, as he would be expected to speak, he does not wish to cast blame upon former friends, and therefore thinks it best to remain silent until the former harmony of the Liberal party has been restored.

A TRIPLE AGREEMENT.

Austria, Russia and Germany in Accord on the Bulgarian Question.

SOFIA, Oct. 20.—Gadban Effendi, the Turkish representative, has informed the Bulgarian Ministry that he has been instructed to act in concert with Gen. Kaulbars the Russian agent. He strongly advises the Bulgarians to concede the Russian demands and postpone the meeting of the great Sobranje to elect a successor to the Bulgarian throne. As soon as Gadban Effendi's information had been received a special Cabinet Council was held to consider what he had presented. Gadban Effendi was informed that the Bulgarian Government would no more brook Turkish than it would Russian interference, but would resist both with the comforting conviction that any misfortunes likely to overtake Bulgaria would never compare in seriousness with the retribution awaiting the infatuation of Turkey.

It is reported in Zankoff (pro-Russian) circles that Gadban Effendi has confidentially stated that the Czar has made an arrangement with the Porte, the Czar guaranteeing integrity of the Sultan's dominions, reducing the Turkish indemnity and obtaining permission to garrison and fortify the Dardanelles and to occupy Bulgaria with Russian and Roumelia with Turkish troops.

Alarm is felt at Sofia over the massing of Turkish troops which is at present in progress along the Bulgarian frontier. The Regency have published a decree convening the Great Sobranje on Oct. 27. All the foreign consuls excepting the Russian representative will attend the opening.

A Triple Agreement.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—The Journal Des Debats says that the three empires have come to an understanding on the Bulgarian question on the following basis, namely, that Russia shall not occupy Bulgaria and that Austria and Germany shall not recognize either the regency or the prince elected by the Sobranje without the assent of Russia.

ENGLAND'S INEFFICIENT ARMY.

A Letter of Alarm From the Commander-in-Chief.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Gen. Lord Wolseley, Adjutant General, has issued a circular to the officers of the English army intimating that the Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief, is dissatisfied over the small progress made in their military training during the recent inspection. The circular states that the Duke observed that many officers of all ranks evinced much want of knowledge of the duties vitally important to military efficiency, and he strongly insists that the officers shall devote more time and attention to the instruction of their troops.

The St. James' Gazette says: "The Duke of Cambridge in the freedom of private conversation expresses the opinion that many of the officers in the British army are 'not worth their salt,' and he finds that he has been obliged to address them in a circular which would scandalise the whole army and alarm the country."

A Tory Idea of the Supplement.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Standard says Mr. Gladstone's latest contribution is not calculated to strengthen his position. Nobody denies that the Irish Parliament of 1800 was bribed. That is no reason for abandoning Ireland now to the tyranny of the League and American conspirators. Referring to the coming struggle on the land question between the League and Lord Cranbrook, the Standard says: "There would be little occasion for regret if the League resolved to precipitate a conflict that would be certain to end in its own defeat."

Caught in Their Cups.

DUBLIN, Oct. 20.—A tenant named Hurley, assisted by a band of neighbors, successfully resisted eviction at Clonakilty, County Cork, yesterday. To-day the whole band left the house to enjoy their victory at a neighboring tavern. The police, who had retreated into ambush, put themselves between the abandoned house and its defenders and succeeded in arresting all of the latter.

The police subsequently seized a quantity of dynamite near Hurley's residence.

Those Experimental Farms.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—The work of preparation is progressing rapidly on the Central Experimental farm established by the Government near this city. Sites in other provinces are being examined and a general scheme as adopted by Parliament at its last session is being placed in practical shape under the direction of Prof. Wm. Saunders, of London, Ont., appointed Chief Director of Dominion Experimental farm stations.

IRELAND'S ENEMIES.

BISHOP NULTY OF MEATH DENOUNCES THE MOONLIGHTERS.

An Appeal from the Pulpit to Offenders to Obey the Law—Ireland on Trial—Home Rule's Hopes in the Future.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Rev. Dr. Nulty, Roman Catholic Bishop of Meath, in a sermon in Dublin on Sunday denounced in the strongest terms the acts perpetrated by moonlighters and called them the greatest enemies to Ireland to-day. He said the outrages they committed served but to perpetuate landlordism, which otherwise he declared was doomed. He asked the moonlighters to restore their arms and the other property they had stolen to the rightful owners. "You can do this quietly," continued the Bishop. "You can make this restitution through me if you wish, or you can make it through your parish priests, who will not betray your secrets." Continuing Bishop Nulty said: "If the moonlighters fail to desist from their outrages I am determined to organize a committee to watch them and bring them to justice. I know many of these men myself. It is impossible for them to escape. Our country is on her trial. Her prosperity and happiness for centuries depend on the good behavior of her people during the coming winter. As soon as Ireland shall have proved herself able to govern herself we shall have the whole English democracy on our side. Then Home Rule will be certain."

The Times says the Bishop's utterance was outspoken and vigorous, but it comes too late. It puts the whole matter on a true basis, setting morality and the repression of crime before all political changes whatever.

REFUGEES OF TWO COUNTRIES.

How Unextraditable Scoundrels Fare in Canada and Across the Line.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—Charles Walters, the Baltimore bank clerk who is wanted for forgery, the McMahon brothers of Lynn, Mass., the fraudulent debtors, Goldstein, the runaway jeweler of Albany, Bartholomew, the New England bank president, and John C. Eno are here and make no secret of their whereabouts. They use no endeavor to conceal their identity, and they may be seen daily sunning themselves on St. James-street, reading the ticker quotations "on the street," or smoking a cigar in the rotunda of the Windsor, the fashionable uptown hotel. When "extradition" is mentioned they jauntily reply that they cannot be taken "over" on a misdemeanor.

The New York boodlers continue to live in princely style. Keenan has a suite of six rooms at the Windsor. He drives a fast team, has a governess for his girls, and a McGill College professor to coach his boys every day. DeLacy lives at the same house, and while not so grand in his manner of living, spends not less than $40 a week. At the St. Lawrence Hall, "Billy" Maloney, with his buxom wife and pretty daughter, is quartered. His two boys have entered the Jesuit College, while his youngest girl is a boarder at the Ville Marie Convent, one of the most expensive educational institutions in the province.

Dempsey and Sayles are also guests at the "Hall," and many is the bottle of wine they make away with. The same house boards Moextzer and Goldstein, while at the Richelieu, in the French quarter, a perfect colony of smaller "boodlers" are found keeping company with the actresses of the second-class theatres.

But while Canada is full of American refugees it must not be supposed that the United States is free from its contingent of Canadian scoundrels. Boston possesses Hunter, the defaulting Montreal notary, who swindled his clients out of $400,000, while Chicago gives a refuge to his son; who aided and abetted his father's frauds. New York harbors Craig, the absconding President of the Exchange Bank of Canada, who ruined the institution and overdrew his accounts to the tune of $200,000 while his brother, the ex-Treasurer of the Montreal Loan and Mortgage Company, finds an asylum in Detroit. Three defaulting corporation officials from this city are now located in New York: O'Meara, ex-city clerk; DeCourcy Harnett the ex-collection attorney; and Merrill the ex-cashier. It also harbors the absconding Montreal lawyer, F. B. Keller, who is now a practicing attorney of Gotham, the two defaulting notaries Alfred Isaacs and S. B. Houle, and numerous commercial swindlers.

Philadelphia has a guest, Nathan Isaacs, who a few months ago absconded from Montreal, after swindling the banks and his creditors to the tune of $170,000, by means of false invoices. The above are but a few of the many criminals who, by reason of the absence of reciprocal criminal laws, are enabled to carry on reciprocity of crime and enjoy safe harbor of refuge on either side of the line.

FROM MONTREAL TO NEW YORK.

Reported New and Important Connections Made by the C.P.R.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—It is rumored here that the Canadian Pacific road has completed arrangements for a direct route from Montreal to New York by the acquisition or control of several local roads in New England, including the Old Lebanon Springs road, reorganized last year as the New York, Rutland and Montreal. It connects on the north with the Bennington and Rutland and through that with the Central Vermont road, which will have soon two connections with Montreal, one over the Grand Trunk at St. Johns and the other over the Canadian Pacific at Lachine. The Central Vermont is at present controlled by the Grand Trunk Company, which holds a large amount of its stocks, but a working arrangement may be made with the Canadian Pacific as a smaller evil than forcing it to build a competing line. The Central Vermont, the Bennington and Rutland and the Old Lebanon Springs Railway would form the northern section of that new air line from the chief port of the St. Lawrence to New York. Only ten miles of new road will have to be built, and this is now in course of construction, to extend to Lebanon Springs and the State line between Massachusetts and New York State, where connection may be made with the Housatonic Railroad. The idea is to use this road down to Norwalk, Conn., a distance of fully 100 miles through Connecticut, and from Norwalk to enter New York by the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

THEIR BUSINESS COMPLETED.

Adjournment of the Knights of Labor Last Evening.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 20.—At the afternoon session of the Knights of Labor by a unanimous vote the General Executive Board was authorized to purchase a home for the family of the late Uriah S. Stevens, founder of the order of Knights of Labor. The home is to be purchased in Philadelphia, and the amount to be paid for it is left to the discretion of the Executive Board.

All business having been disposed of Mr. Powderly made a brief speech, congratulating the members of the assembly upon their good work during the session and urging them to part with a determination to push the work of inculcating the principles of the order.

Tom O'Reilly, of the Telegraphers' District of New York, then sang "The Ode of the French Proletarial," the delegates present joining in the chorus and the General Assembly was declared adjourned sine die at 5.40 p.m.

Two Killed and Others Injured.

ASHVILLE, N.C., Oct. 20.—A wreck occurred on the Ashville and Spartansburg Railroad this morning, four miles out from this city. While the train was ascending an 85-feet grade at Robertsfill, the highest grade on this mountainous railway, the track spread and the express and smoking cars were derailed. The latter fell top downwards over the embankment, striking a large rock and bursting off the car roof, which carried with it the conductor and one passenger, while the remainder of the car bounded down the declivity and lodged on the verge of an immense excavation. The first-class coach and the engine did not leave the track. Some of the unfortunate passengers in the smoking car sustained serious and it may be fatal injuries.

Mrs. Mary Thompson, of Toronto, was afflicted with Tape Worm, 8 feet of which was removed by one bottle of Dr. Low's Worm Syrup. dwoot

THE REVIVALISTS STILL BUSY.

They Preach Four Sermons Yesterday to Overflowing Congregations.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—The revivalists got in four sermons yesterday, and the work continues to make good progress. The class of people who attend regularly are mostly church-goers high up in the religious category. Hardened old sinners who need reformation don't attend, or if they should happen to go, there is no room for them.

It is a pity some effort is not made to reach a different class of people. The meeting in the Rink on Sunday night will be under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, and they will personally invite young men from boarding houses and workshops.

Rev. Sam Small preached to a good congregation in the morning on the hellishness of society. His text was: "Lot pitched his tent towards Sodom," and from it he drew many useful lessons. Mr. Jones spoke for a few minutes at this service.

In the afternoon Mr. Jones preached to a large gathering in the Metropolitan on the text in 1 Thessalonians v: 16: "Rejoice evermore; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

The usual audience filled the "Tabernacle" in the evening to hear Rev. Sam Small. Sam was got up in faultless style, with closely-shaved chin, white tie, well brushed hair, and smooth black frock coat. He preached his previous night's sermon over again by request. It is such a hard subject—all about hell—and calculated to fill the youthful mind with terror. The text was in Hebrews x: 27:

He that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses. Of how much sorer punishment shall he be thought worthy who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the spirit of grace.

Mr. Small maintained the doctrine that there was an awful hell awaiting the impenitent in the next world. Science had not been able to prove there was no hell; Bob Ingersoll was a miserable failure, except to make money out of the fools who went to hear him; and the theory that men suffered for their sins in the flesh was all bosh. Hell was a dead certainty, and he urged his hearers not to be misled by false teaching.

The sermon was particularly applicable to the many young men who read a few pages of Voltaire, Paine or Spencer and then pose as philosophers, and go about confounding people with conundrums.

Rev. Sam Jones preached to a packed congregation in the Metropolitan Church in the evening. His sermon was a characteristic one and was based on the words: "Let us not be weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

Rev. Sam Jones will preach this morning at 10 o'clock in the Metropolitan to ladies and especially wives. Mr. Small will preach in the afternoon and Mr. Jones at the Rink in the evening.

A GENERAL LOCKOUT IN NEW YORK.

A Threatened Labor Movement that is Causing Much Anxiety.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A rumor was set afloat to-day to the effect that on election day all of the surface railroads in this city as well as the elevated railroads would be "tied up;" that most of the factories and workshops in the city would be closed, and that in this way the laboring men would show their power. It was said that the men thus released from work would take possession of the polls early on the morning of election day and that other voters would be kept from voting either by fear or by a disinclination to wait for two or three hours, and that the practice of "repeating" would be adopted in many of the Assembly districts.

A Cold Wave at Hand.

Returns show that fewer crimes and outrages were committed in Ireland last week than the average weekly number during the last four years.

Dr. Dedekind of Walfenbuttel, an active partisan of the late King of Hanover, has been arrested. It is supposed the charge against him is high treason.

Charles Ward of Rockaway Beach has challenged any man of 40 years of age or over to race him three miles with a turn for $50 a side. Ward is 55 years of age.

The Torontos are after Slattery of the New England League, and it is reported that the Buffalos have signed Easterly, a third baseman of the Eastern League.

At the Glenview sale at Louisville, Ky., last week Dr. R. F. Preston of Carlton Place, Ont., purchased Eden Lassie, ch. m., 17 years, at $300, and Mary Kinkead, b. m., 12 years, at $425.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of Emperor William's coronation, and the fifty-fifth anniversary of the birth of Crown Prince Frederick William was observed quietly by the Imperial family.

The general meeting of the Central Traffic Association yesterday passed a resolution whereby all the members of the association pledge themselves to restore the rates to tariff, and refrain from rate cutting in the future.

The Cork and Waterford branches of the Irish National League state that the harvest in their sections have been so bad that farmers demand a reduction of 45 or 50 per cent. in their rents, failing which they will be unable to pay at all.

The jury in the case of Wm. Drury, charged at Barnstable, Mass., with manslaughter, in causing the death of Charles August by a blow with a baseball bat, returned a verdict yesterday morning of not guilty, there not being sufficient evidence to convict.

Gen. Bacon Montgomery, of St. Joseph, Mo., was killed at New Presidio yesterday. He was about to drive to the mines and was putting a gun in the buggy when it was accidentally discharged. Deceased was a brigadier general of the union volunteers during the rebellion.

Pierre Lorillard, jr., is organizing a first racing stable. In addition to Cannon and Yreonda he has a string of fifteen ——. The youngsters were tested on —— Several of them are very promising. Byrnes, Dwyer Brothers' late trainer, will have charge of the racers at his farm near Monmouth Park.

The new system of umpiring was to be tried in yesterday's game at Chicago. There was a referee and two umpires. One umpire acted for the Chicagos and did the umpiring when the St. Louis men were at the bat, and the other for St. Louis when the Chicagos were at bat. In case of a close decision either umpire has the right to appeal to the referee, whose decision shall be final. The two umpires and referee were chosen by the Board of Trade. The referee stood between the pitcher and second baseman. This is the new plan. Under the old system the number of umpires was greater. In games at Toronto there have been 3000 umpires, all with decisions quicker than the regular man. However, one umpire like Cushman was just as good as 3000. Herald, Times.

The Cycling Times, published in London, Eng., says of W. G. Hurst of Toronto, who is appearing at the famous Alhambra Palace, London, Eng.: "This daring rider, who is now in England, is a native of Toronto, Canada, and without further preamble we may at once say that, having seen his performance, we are convinced that he is far and away the most daring and clever trick rider that has ever yet appeared before the public in this or any other country. He is far away in advance of either Canary, Kaufmann or McAmy, and as a matter of fact has ever and ever again challenged them to meet him, but as yet without success. His command over his machine is simply marvelous, and he can do anything he likes with it but make it talk. When we say that he can perform for two hours right off and never repeat a trick we think we have almost said enough to show how remarkably clever he is."

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1886.

PROMPT ACTION CALLED FOR.

The atmosphere is full of political unrest. Rumors of coming elections fill the air. No sooner are the Quebec elections over than it is asserted that the defeated Government will advise the Lieutenant-Governor to dissolve the lately elected House, and, of course, another election will, in that case, take place almost at once. It is also stated that the Dominion elections will be brought on so as to be run concurrently with the Quebec local elections. All this may or may not take place, but we all know that the Dominion Government is capable of springing a surprise upon the country in the shape of an election contest at any moment if it is thought that thereby its chances of success will be improved. At any rate there must be a general election after the next session of both the Dominion Parliament and the Ontario Legislature. Reformers must not be caught napping, but be prepared for any emergency that may arise. All over the province in different ridings, the Liberals are selecting candidates, and there is no reason why the Liberals of East and West Peterborough should not be taking steps, to follow their example. The leading Reformers —that is the men who do the work for the party whenever work is to be done—should be canvassing the subject. In one sense the selection of a candidate is an easy matter. It should, however, be looked to that the man selected shall be one that has the best prospect of carrying the riding. All personal ambitions, every feeling of jealousy or self-seeking, should give place to a desire to make a selection that will be for the best interests of the party of honest government. With the conditions of ability and fitness for the duties of the position answered, the man who will poll the most votes is the man for the candidate. And while selecting the Commons candidates it would be as well to consider the subject of the local candidates as well. True, the latter election will not come on till next year, but no harm can arise from being prepared in good time. Time will only improve the chances of a good candidate and strengthen his position. Let the Liberals of both East and West Peterborough look this matter squarely in the face, talk over quietly and dispassionately the probable chances of available candidates, so that when the proper time arrives they will be prepared to nominate the strongest men for the positions. It is possible to so discuss the probable prospects of a candidate as not to injure his prospects in any way nor wound his self-respect.

A DESERVED COMPLIMENT.

The Ottawa Citizen, while it cannot help inferentially disparaging Liberals generally, admits the great financial ability of Sir Richard Cartwright. Commenting on its unwilling tribute, the Montreal Herald says:

It is seldom that the Ministerial mouthpiece of the capital frankly endeavours to do justice to an opponent. It is not necessary to agree with the Citizen and we do not agree with it, in its assertion that Sir Richard is the "only man," etc., etc., but that he is well able to do the financial criticism of the Liberal party probably Mr. McLellan fully understands. It is much to be hoped and entirely to be expected that Sir Richard will be in the next Parliament for he is wanted there not merely by his party, but by the country. There are a certain number of men on both sides that the country will always be glad to see in their places. There are some men who, on the understanding that they would remain quiet during the contest, might well be allowed to return without opposition. No one should desire to see Sir John Macdonald or Mr. Blake kept out of the House by a mere majority in one constituency. Because people differ from a man on questions of public policy, or on methods of Government or criticism, it does not follow that they desire to see such a man excluded from the Legislature. They may desire to see them kept out of power while acknowledging the value to the country of their ability and experience. Sir Richard Cartwright is one of these statesmen. The Liberals believe in the soundness of his financial views and wish to see him Finance Minister; the Conservatives think otherwise and prefer Mr. McLellan, but those of that party who are not eaten up by rancour or blinded by partisanship would regret the loss of one of the admittedly ablest financiers of the Dominion. Fortunately there is little danger of this. The Liberal party have too keen an appreciation of Sir Richard's value to their party to permit his remaining out of Parliament.

—The traffic receipts of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the week ending October 14th was $238,000, an increase of $30 compared with the corresponding week last year.

He Could Not be Bought.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—Mr. Champagne, Liberal and Nationalist candidate in the late election for Hochelaga county, was, it is stated, immediately after nomination day offered a cheek for $1,000 in his hand, and $2,000 more in a few days if he would withdraw from the contest, which he most indignantly refused to do, and intends, he says, as soon as the recount is made, to take criminal proceedings against his would-be briber.

'Tis Time for Revenge.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—La Revanche, one of the new organs of the extreme anti-German party, today publishes a violent article addressed to Gen. Boulanger, Minister of War. The article declares it is high time that France raised her voice and was prepared to reconquer her lost provinces.

An Earthquake in India.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Severe and prolonged shocks of earthquake occurred in Seringar, Cashmere, this morning. There were frequent tremors during the night, lasting till sunrise. The shocks created a panic amongst the people. The extent of the damage to property is not known.

Forty Thousand Who Will Not Parade.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—A deputation representing forty thousand workmen waited upon Mr. Phillips, a large employer and a member of the city corporation, and announced their intention not to take part in the Socialist procession on Lord Mayor's day.

All Quiet at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 20.—All is quiet in the striking districts. There have been no interference with the roads to-day and all switch engines are running. New crews are being obtained as fast as possible. Among those are a number of old men, who went out reluctantly and are coming back.

The Effect of Cider in Maine.

ALFRED, Me., Oct. 20.—Frank Woods, of Union Falls, yesterday said a cask of new cider to Civil Engineer Winfield T. Dennett, of Saco. Dennett's son James, aged 19, Dennett and wife tasted it. All were taken sick. The son died. Mrs. Dennett is very sick. The cask was purchased from a Biddeford undertaker and originally contained embalming fluid.

The Equitable Life Company.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—In connection with the action taken against the Equitable Insurance Company to deposit $65,000 with the Dominion Government, and which amount is said to be short as required by law a special despatch from Ottawa states that the company has a surplus of $36,609 on deposit with the Government over what is required by law.

Polson's Nerviline.

Hundreds who have experienced the wonderful power of Nerviline in subsiding pain have testified that it is the most potent remedy in existence. Nerviline is equally efficacious as an internal or an external remedy. Polson's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills, spasms, cholera, cramps, headache, sea sickness, summer complaints, etc. Nerviline is sold by all druggists and country dealers. Only 25c. a bottle. A Modern Miracle.

In a recent letter from R. W. Dowton, of Deloraine, Ont., he states that he recovered from the worst form of Dyspepsia after suffering for fifteen years; and when a council of Doctors pronounced him incurable he tried Burdock Blood Bitters, six bottles of which restored his health. 2w42&d

A Speedy Cure.

As a speedy cure for Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, Colic, Cramps, Sick Stomach, Canker of the Stomach and Bowles, and all forms of Summer Complaints, there is no remedy more reliable than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Dealers who sell it, and those who buy it are on mutual grounds in confidence of its merits. 2w42&d

Growing Shorter.

The skirts of the English riding habit for ladies grow shorter every year, and it is predicted by society journals that they will be finally done away with altogether in the craze for "mannish" clothes that seems to obtain among women.

Fatal Attacks.

Among the most prevalent fatal and sudden attacks of diseases, are those incident to the summer and fall, such as Cholera Morbus, Billious Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, etc., that often prove fatal in a few hours. That ever reliable remedy Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, should be at hand for use in emergency. 2w42&d

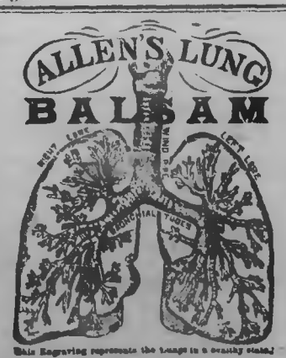
ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM



This Engraving represents the Lungs in a healthy state.

THE WAY IT WILL AFFECT YOU.

It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucous; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. SUCH IS THE IMMEDIATE AND SATISFACTORY EFFECT that It is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours time, if not of too long standing. It is warranted TO GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION, EVEN IN THE most confirmed cases of Consumption! It is warranted not to produce costiveness (most remedies cause this trouble) or affect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. It is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by Consumption, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time. To Physicians having consumptive patients, and who, having failed to cure them with their own medicine, we would recommend to give ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM a trial. Sold by all Druggists.

"And what may that theory be?" asked Gregson, with an air of interest.

I hesitated as to whether to reveal my idea to him. It was one which had occurred to me more than once during the long sleepless watches of the night; but I had said nothing of it to any one, chiefly, I think, because it was but, and in the nature of things never could be anything more than, a theory. Unless a miracle were to happen, no proof of it, short of the confession of the criminals, would ever be adduced. Still, it might be well to hear Gregson's opinion of it.

"May it not have been possible," I said, "for a powder containing strychnia to have been secretly substituted by Flinter for one containing Mr. Mauleverer's proper medicine? In that case Flinter might be able to prove an alibi, although he was really the culprit; and Miss Stancliffe may have given the poison to Mr. Mauleverer, although perfectly innocent of any knowledge of its nature."

I heard a low chuckle and looked up. Bielski had entered the room while I was speaking and had heard my theory:

"I beg your pardon, gentlemen. I knocked twice, but I could not make you hear me. You'll excuse me, Mr. Fenton, but I should like to tell you that you have got on the right track at last. As soon as Mr. Harding told me the facts I saw the trick had been done in that way. But lor! What a pity Mr. Belmore didn't bring it out before the jury!"

"Got all you want out of this gentleman?"

"I hinted at it to him," I replied, "but he seemed to think it would only damage our case, as no proof could be tendered in support of it."

"True, that is the weak point; but you know, sir, I suppose, that murder has been done that way before? Aye, and an innocent man guillotined for the crime of which he knew no thing. I think, after all, Mr. Belmore was right not to suggest this while the mystery of the strychnia that the young lady had bought was unexplained. It would have been too far-fetched then. But things are different now, and the home secretary will have to think whether, after all, the evidence will justify him in refusing a reprieve. For my part, Mr. Fenton, I'll put my money on a respite."

Bielski looked round at Gregson and evidently judged from the state of that gentleman's features that the screw had been applied to him not ineffectually.

"Got all you want out of this young gentleman?" he asked. "Enough for the present, eh! Well then, my good fellow, take your hook into the next room and wait there till I come to you. Don't trouble yourself about the door. It is locked and I have the key in my own pocket."

The detective winked knowingly at the curiously Gregson and in this unceremonious manner dismissed him from our presence.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE SECRET OF THE CIPHER.

"Gentlemen," said Bielski, when we were alone, "I think I have something to say that will surprise you. He held in his hand the little memorandum book, the mysterious contents of which he had been studying while we had been engaged with Gregson.

"Have you discovered the cipher? Does it betray anything of the fellow's secrets?" I asked with eagerness.

"Yes, sir; I have found the clew to the cipher. Do you know what it is? It is an old fashioned system of short hand, with some new abbreviations and arbitrary signs. You see I had to learn short hand for my own purposes, so I know all about it."

"And do you mean to say you know this system?"

"Oh, dear, no! We are going a little too fast. It you'll excuse me, sir. It may take weeks to unriddle this; for at the best of times it is not always easy to decipher short hand. Ah! the name, I hope we may pick the lock in a shorter time than that. I have a friend in London who will help me."

"And this is the surprising news you have to tell us, Bielski!" interjected Harding.

"No, sir, no. It is something more than that. You gave me the book as Winter's. But I find that it is not his at all. It is written by Francis Branksome, M. D.' Here's his name upon the first page." He pointed to some hieroglyphics that to Harding and myself were quite unintelligible.

"And have you read that already?"

"Yes, that is quite easy to understand. It is written in a system that I know something of myself. What makes me most suspicious about this book is that the cipher has been altered in many ways as the writer has gone on with his entries. It is tolerably clear and simple at first, but it becomes more difficult and complicated as we proceed. That shows that the man was determined to hide from everybody what he was writing. Why should Dr. Branksome be so anxious to do that?"

"We have heard something about Dr. Branksome this morning which may perhaps throw light upon that question," said Harding.

"Was the young man outside there?"

"Yes," and then I related to the detective the strange story which had been told by Gregson.

"By Jove! gentlemen," he cried, clapping his thigh in his excitation, "this is really magnificent. What a case I'll have when I get that in hand! It's been a pity to fail's trails for me, though; and I don't care so much about that."

"But what light will it throw on Miss Stancliffe's case? How will it assist her?"

"How will it assist her? I should say nothing could assist her more. It is the very evidence we have been wanting to weaken the motive for the murder. You must hand the young man over to me now, gentlemen. I must get that story of his down in duplicate."

(To be Continued.)

"We say at night, 'Would God the day were here,'
And we at dawn, 'Would God the day were dead.'"

How well Swinburne has emphasized the feelings of thousands of Earth's fairest daughters, who are laid prostrate by disease's fell hand. CAPTAIN WILLIAM SLAVEN, No. 37 Granville Street, Halifax, N S

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Specialist, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—When you visited me in the latter part of January of this year I had been given up to die of consumption by a consultation of Physicians. Drs. Reid and Oliver, prominent physicians of Halifax who considered that my recovery was simply impossible. I had no hope myself nor had my family. When you expressed a hope of my recovery it was received with a doubt. Confined to my bed, very low, weak, wasted, night sweats very bad, troublesome cough, raising large quantities of matter—in fact every appearance of a speedy death. After using your Respirator and Spirometer and medicine I began to recover very fast, so much so that during three hard winter months I have gained from 20 to 25 lbs., and was able to walk out on Easter Sunday. My strength is daily increasing, and I shall be able soon to be at work. To you I owe a debt of gratitude, and am anxious for others who are suffering as I was to consult you. You can make what use of this letter you see fit, and thanking you for what I consider a most wonderful treatment.

I remain, yours truly,
CAPT. WM. SLAVEN.

Later.—Fully recovered and at work.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $980,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

The Mortgages may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing on same on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed.

Our prices this season have been unparalleled (considering the fine warm worsteds,) in making up Ulsters, Mantles and Dolmans from our very complete stock.

The autumn chills, the winter snow,
The heavy dew, the pattering rain,
The frosts that bite, the winds that blow,
Invade our Ulsters all in vain.

The rounding form, the curving line.

LOCAL NEWS.

Vandalism.

This morning Mr. J. W. Flavelle, flour and feed merchant, Simcoe street, found a large boulder lying on the floor half way down his shop, which had been hurled through the plate glass window in the front of the shop some time during the night. Pieces of the glass were scattered all over the place, and the window is rendered an almost total loss. A hole was also made with a stone in one of the convex panes of the semi-circular windows of the Y. M. C. A's rooms over the post-office block. These acts of vandalism are credited by Mr. Flavelle to the revengeful spirit of certain anti-Scott Act partisans who, however, in this case, in attempting to do injury to Mr. Flavelle, a prominent advocate of the Act, have defeated their own intentions, the building being owned between Messrs. Geo. A. Cox and Mayor Stevenson. It is to be hoped the perpetrators of the outrage will be brought to justice. The damage to the glass is covered by insurance.

Enlarged Again.

The counsel for the defendant in the case of Cochrane vs. Roddy, for an infringement of the Scott Act, at the police court this morning, asked for a further adjournment in order to secure the attendance of a necessary witness for the defence, who arrived in town from Rochester, N. Y., last night, but had failed to appear this morning. The magistrate thought it very strange that a witness, upon whose testimony rested the exculpation of the defendant, who had come all the way from Rochester and was at present in town, had yet failed to appear in court. In order, however, to give the defendant every chance, he adjourned the case till to-morrow morning. A warrant has been issued to compel the attendance of the derelict witness. R. E. Wood, C. C. A., for prosecution; W. H. Moore for defence.

Curling.

The semi-annual meeting of the Representative Committee of the Ontario branch R. C. C. C. was held at the Walker House, Toronto, Tuesday afternoon. Peterborough was represented by Dr. Boucher. The committee presented a system of grouping for the primary competition for the Ontario tankard, group No. 8 to consist of Brockville, Ogdensburg, Belleville, Cobourg, Lakefield, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Whitby, Lindsay, Keene, Bobcaygeon, with Peterborough as umpire. Their report was received and adopted.

To India's Coral Strand

Monday evening next at the Opera House the following members of the Salvation Army: Major Jai Bhai, Sergts. Nauror Gopal, Capt. Marian Das, and Nauror Ali, the saved Mahommedian Merchant; eight Canadians, four lads and four lasses, who have given up their lives to "fight for Jesus" in far-off India, together with a similar brigade from the States, who will appear in Indian costume, will hold a farewell missionary meeting. It will be a most interesting affair. The meeting will commence at 8 p. m.; admission 10 cents.

Their Harvest.

Stove dealers are now in the midst of their harvest, and all hands are kept busy fulfilling the demands of suffering humanity for more warmth during this chilly and changeable weather. Merchants who make a specialty of woollen goods and winter clothing now wear a broad smile the day through, and will continue to wear it as long as the rush for comfortable woollens continues. The plumber is rubbing his hands together in anticipation of a golden harvest this winter, while the coal and wood dealers are in high glee over the prospects of early frosts.

Range and Rifle.

The annual matches of the East Durham Rifle Association were held at the ranges at Port Hope Tuesday. Competition was open to the province, says the Guide, "barring Peterborough and Northumberland counties, whose action in keeping their own matches open only to themselves thus shut them out of this." Had any of Peterborough's crack shots been present the scores would, of course, have been higher. As it was, however, very fair figures were made.

A Local Vanderbilt.

Every week the Bon Marche presents some fresh and startling bargains to the public. There one sees a ticket of a staple line of teas marked, "6 pounds for $1," and one wonders how such value can be given for the money. This is but a solitary instance of the surprising bargains to be had at the Bon Marche. Mr. Carton must be a veritable Vanderbilt in the wholesale market, as he seems able to "bull" or "bear" it to suit the pockets of his customers.

The Children's Concert.

A delightful concert and entertainment was given in St. John's school room last night by the children of the school, under the direction of a committee of ladies, who, considering the very pleasing success of the affair, must have discharged their duties most efficiently. There was a fair sized audience present, who listened with pleasure to the presentation of an excellent programme, introduced by Master White, second son of Mr. A. H. White, who made a model chairman. The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, dialogues, and tableaux. Some of the performers scored brilliant successes. Masters Charlie Halliday and Arthur Bell, attired as pages, manipulated manfully the curtains that answered the place of stage scenes. The pianoforte duet by the Masters English, sons of Mr. Wm. English is worthy of particular mention, as well as the dialogue of the little Misses Pratt and Cox, but in fact all the little performers acquitted themselves admirably, and both they and the ladies in charge of the entertainment are to be congratulated on its success.

The Dairy-maids.

To-night at the Charlotte street Methodist Church the Ladies' Aid Society will hold their long-looked-for and anxiously-awaited Dairy-maid social. The refreshments will consist chiefly of dairy products, and will be dispensed by ladies attired in complete dairy-maid costume. The programme has been gotten up with the greatest care and cannot fail to give satisfaction.

PROGRAMME:

Special Excursion to New York.

A grand special excursion to New York will take place on Tuesday Oct. 26th per G. T. R., Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg, and Hudson River Railways. Tickets will be on sale at T. Menzies, Agency Peterborough, on Oct. 25th and 26th. The tickets from Peterborough are $11.15 and are good to return, on connecting roads till November 1st inclusive and on the Grand Trunk till November 3rd inclusive. Parties of 40 and upwards can have a special day coach reserved from Ogdensburg to New York, by applying to Mr. T. Menzies before Oct. 21st. All trains have first class coaches. The scenery along the route of this excursion is exceptionally grand. The trains land at the Grand Central depot. The city is now at its full height of commercial and amusement activity and altogether the excursion in its unparalleled cheapness, is one well worth taking in. Secure your tickets at Mr. T. Menzies' agency, George street.

Attention!

We would call attention to the offer made by Joseph Griffin that during the next thirty days he will sell the whole of his summer stock of boots and shoes at cost. A few lines will actually be sold below cost. Look at the following quotations:—

Women's Pebble Oxford Shoes,		70c.
"	buff do do	80
"	pebble—tie or buttoned	90
"	India kid shoe	$1.00
"	patent Oxford	1.20
"	polished calf tie shoe	1.25
"	do do Oxford	1.25
"	do do buttoned	1.35

All the above goods are solid leather. All other goods will be sold equally cheap. Now is the time to secure bargains.

Proposed Baseball League.

Eastern papers are agitating the formation of a Canadian baseball league with Ottawa, Kingston, Brockville, Port Hope, Belleville and Peterborough in it. Such a league could be economically maintained, and each of the places, with a capital of $1,000 or $1,500, could have a good club. The proposition should be considered and details at once arranged. It was suggested that Toronto and Hamilton be asked to join the league, but the indications are that they will continue with the international; and, anyway, as a venture, it would be unsafe to have the clubs so far apart.

Put it on Your List.

Be sure you are able to say "I've got it on the list"—that is the Mikado social to be held in St. John's school room on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Oct. 27th and 28th. It will be a rarely enjoyable and interesting entertainment. Tickets only 25c. The splendid musical programme to be presented, under the management of Mr. Seward, including Mikado selections, will be worth the hearing. Everything Japanese. Don't fail to include the Mikado social in your list of engagements.

A Weighty Matter.

The big iron case of Bertram vs. Massey is still going on at the Toronto assizes. In order to decide the merits of the case it has been found necessary to bring into court 230 exhibits of different sizes and qualities of iron, aggregating in the whole many hundred pounds' weight. The trial will probably be concluded to-morrow. The decision will be awaited with much interest.

The "city" committee to begin talking over their report.

And a cold wave from the west.

The Prodigal of Old.

The prodigal son mentioned in the Bible was obliged to live for a time upon the husks of the corn fed to the swine, but the ladies of the George street Methodist Church do not intend treating patrons of their corn social, to be held in the Opera House Tuesday evening next, in like manner. The viands, though manufactured of corn as far as possible, will be of the best and most palatable nature; the programme will be found both interesting and instructive. It promises to be one of the best entertainments of the season, and should secure a liberal patronage.

A Charming Entertainment.

Several of the young ladies of St. John's congregation are deep in the mysteries of the Japanese costume, preparing their dresses against the Mikado social to be held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Oct. 27th and 28th. This will be one of the most unique and charming entertainments ever presented in the town. The fact that Mr. Seward has the musical programme in hand is a guarantee of its great excellence. Admission, 25 cents. Don't fail to attend this concert.

Stuart Rogers Coming.

Arrangements have been made for Stuart Rogers, the well-known dramatic reciter and impersonator, to appear in the Opera House, Peterborough, on Friday, November 5th. Mr. Rogers gives inimitable character representations of Gladstone, Irving, Booth, Cushman, Sam. Jones, etc., in addition to brilliant readings and recitations. The entertainment is both novel and refined.

Mr. Wm. White, lately connected with the eastern division of the C. P. R., has been promoted to the general managership of the western division. Mrs. White passed through town last night from Toronto to join her husband at Winnipeg.

Mr. Thomas Ryan was presented with a handsome marble clock by his fellow-employees at Thos. Thompson & Son's, King street east, Toronto, on the occasion of his marriage to Miss Halpin, of Peterborough.

Keene.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The funeral of the late Dr. McCrea was largely attended, the whole township and many from a distance coming to do the last honors to one that was so many years their helper and friend. There were seven medical men in the procession, and the mournful cortege was led by two clergymen, Rev. Mr. Andrews, who conducted the services, and Rev. Mr. Johnston. The EXAMINER has already given a just estimate of the doctor's character and life, and we will only add that his sudden call from amongst us has cast a gloom over the whole community, who sympathize deeply with the bereaved family.

Another sudden death is that of Mrs. Thompson McDonald, late Miss Annie Shortt, only child of Mr. Richard Shortt, Esq., who expired in a moment, almost, on Monday evening about five o'clock. She was recovering (apparently) slowly but surely, from a distressing illness of both mind and body, when she took this sudden spell or spasm, requested to be raised up, and was dead, almost in a moment. She leaves an infant five weeks old, and a sorrowing husband and parents, who are almost prostrated by this great trouble. They have the sympathy of all who know them in this deep sorrow.

Gavin Shearer, jr., met with an accident on Sunday evening, by which his right shoulder was put out of joint. He was jumping out of his buggy and his foot caught in the lines, throwing him heavily on to his shoulder. The injury was attended by a medical man, and he is doing as well as can be expected.

The high wind on Thursday night laid down many fences, etc., but did not otherwise do any very serious damage that we can learn.

Benfort.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

The anniversary services in connection with the Methodist Church here were held on Sunday last, when Rev. W. Williams, of Cobourg, preached two impressive sermons to congregations which were very large considering the bad state of the weather. (It may be mentioned that Mr. Williams used to preach at Benafort over 20 years ago, when he had eleven appointments to fill unaided.)

A special collection was taken up in aid of the building fund, which, at the forenoon service, reached the sum of $67. With the evening collection (the exact amount of which we did not learn) and subscriptions promised, the debt on the handsome new church, not yet three years built, has been reduced to less than $150. This has been greatly owing to the energy of the pastor, Rev. B. Greatrix, who seems to have the happy knack of extracting the shekels from the pockets of his parishioners and leaving them pleased by the operation. His popularity here as a preacher is attested by the large congregations which meet him every Sunday. Few circuits have better provisions for public worship than has the Fraserville circuit. Three new churches and a good parsonage, all put up within a very few years, is a record which not many circuits can show, and which reflects great credit on the practical Christianity of the Methodists of South Monaghan.

—West's Liver Pills, the world's best remedy for liver complaint, sick headache, indigestion and dyspepsia. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, 30 pills, 25c. All Druggists. dwcst

—Beware of calomel and mineral poisons. West's Liver Pills are purely vegetable. Always reliable and effectual. All liver diseases readily yield to this magic power. All druggists. dwcst

—West's Cough Syrup, pleasant to take and always gives satisfaction. Do not be put off with any other, but insist upon having West's Cough Syrup, genuine wrapped only in blue, three sizes. All druggists. dwcst

—The Reeve of Norwood and several prominent men of Norwood recently purchased the fire engine, hose and apparatus of Omemee fire brigade. It is also proposed to light the town by electricity, the power at Finley's hub factory to furnish the necessary motive power.

—The Port Hope Times is greatly exercised over the injustice done defendants in recent Scott Act prosecutions at that place. It states that Mr. Doyell, druggist, was put to great expense in retaining legal counsel during three adjournments where there was not the slightest chance of a conviction against him. The Times thinks the charge was laid to gratify personal spleen.

In Good Repute.

James McMurdock, writing from Kinsale; says: "B. B. B., as a remedy for diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, has an excellent reputation in this locality. I have used it, and speak from experience, as well as observation. It is the only medicine I want, and advise others afflicted to try it." 2w-42&d

High Praise.

The well-known firm of N. C. Polson, & Co., of Kingston, writes that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has long been considered the best remedy for Summer complaints in the market, and adds that their customers speak in the highest terms of its merits. Wild Strawberry is the best known remedy for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and all bowel complaints. 2w42&d

In a Dangerous Condition.

Any man, woman or child is in a dangerous condition when neglecting a constipated state of the bowles. There can be no perfect health without a regular action of this function. Burdock Blood Bitters cure constipation by imparting a healthy tone to all the secretions. 2w42&d

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

More Deaths at the Aqueduct.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The nitro-glycerine in an agitator at shaft 16 of the new aqueduct above Yonkers, exploded yesterday, killing John Skahill, Charles Eideck and James Martin, the engineer. Two men were slightly injured. Zideck's head was blown off, and a stick was forced through his body.

A Woman's Just Revenge.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Antonio Cegnararo this morning visited his wife, from whom he was separated, in "Little Italy," and after having beaten her until he was tired he started to leave. As he crossed the threshold the enraged wife shot him dead. The woman was arrested.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless. Have tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spring-less trusses made in New York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort, even to sleep with. The rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child under; And 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undesigned. Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building plots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1886.

MR. BLAKE AT GALT.

THREE THOUSAND PEOPLE GREET "THE FUTURE PREMIER."

GALT, Ont., Oct. 21.—One of the largest political rallies ever held in this county was that which crowded to the Imperial roller-skating rink to-night to honor the great Liberal leader, the Hon. Edward Blake. Fully 3000 people were present, about 200 of whom were ladies and the large majority young men. The rink was fittingly decorated with flags and bunting. Over the platform were the words in large letters "Welcome to Edward Blake, Our Future Premier." Underneath were engravings of Mr. Gladstone, Messrs. George Brown, Alex. Mackenzie, Edward Blake and Oliver Mowat.

Although the applause was hearty when a good point was scored the audience was not entirely Reform, many of the townspeople having come out of curiosity. The meeting was a success if the joy that beamed in the faces of the Reform marshals can be taken as an indication.

When the Hon. Edward entered with Mrs. Blake and the Hon. G. W. Ross they were accorded an ovation.

Hon. James Young, M.P.P., occupied the chair, and welcomed Mr. Blake as a man of pure and lofty ideas, clean hands and great ability and as an honor to Canada and the Liberal party. He expressed the belief that they were about to see the last of Sir John and his wasteful and corrupt government, and spoke of the bright day when Mr. Blake would sway the sceptre of power from shore to shore.

Mr. James Somerville, member for the North Riding of Brant in the Commons, said he was glad to see so many Conservatives present. It was a sign that they were susceptible to conversion. Instead of the country being governed by the people for the people, it was run by Sir John for Sir John and for Sir John's followers. He hoped Sir John would get his deserts before he died. He should be spurned from the position which he had disgraced. Mr. Somerville said several other hard things about corruption, iniquity, disgrace, etc.

Mr. James Laidlaw, M.P.P. for South Wellington, in a short speech polished off Mr. Meredith, who, he said, had disgraced his province by servility to the Ottawa administration.

Mr. John Callie, Secretary of the Reform Association of the riding, then read an elaborate address to Mr. Blake.

On coming forward to reply Mr. Blake was cheered again and again. He made one of his usual masterly speeches, replete with facts and figures, but the good effect was somewhat dampened by its length. He spoke for nearly three hours. Some of the points discussed were the financial condition of the country, its taxation, expenditure and public debt, the constitution of the Senate, strongly advocating its abolition, the condition of the Indians under the present Government, and the latter's responsibility for the recent rebellion. Mr. Blake deprecated the race and religious prejudices that were being fostered, and expressed himself favorable to Home Rule for Ireland. He concluded at eleven o'clock amid much applause.

After the slight disturbance that ensued from people leaving, Hon. G. W. Ross made a short address, in which he showed that the fourteen years of Mowat rule in Ontario had been without blemish.

The chairman presented a resolution of confidence in the Provincial Government, which was carried and the meeting adjourned with cheers for Messrs. Blake and Mowat shortly before midnight.

Among others on the platform were Messrs. Robert Scott, the Mayor, Jas. Somerville, M.P. for Brucs, Rev. J. K. Smith, Moderator of the General Assembly, J. E. Bowman, ex-M.P. of North Waterloo, Isaac Masters, M.P.P. for South Waterloo, and others.

Mr. Blake will address a meeting in Berlin to-morrow evening.

PINKERTON'S HIRED ASSASSINS.

A Resolution Passed by the Knights of Labor at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—At a meeting of District Assembly No. 24, Knights of Labor, last night the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, A band of mercenary cut-throats, known as Pinkerton detectives, have again shed innocent blood; therefore

Resolved, That District Assembly No. 24, Knights of Labor, condemns in unmeasured terms any city, county or state officials that will quietly sit down and allow this band of hired assassins to murder innocent citizens, and

Resolved, That we, as law abiding citizens, make the request of the proper authorities to bring all parties to this foul conspiracy to trial that justice may be meted out to them in accordance with law.

UNDER THE ALTAR.

The Strange Things Found in a German Church at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The police yesterday found beneath the altar in the German Catholic Church at 18th and Robey streets, about twenty dynamite bombs, eighteen revolvers, some raw dynamite and a quantity of other anarchistic implements and ammunition. Father Kellar, pastor, was horror-stricken when convinced by the officers that the church had been put to such uses.

THE CZAR IN DANGER.

HIS MAJESTY IN A STATE OF TREPIDATION.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Rumors are current that a terrible state of confusion and alarm exists in the Czar's household owing to the hallucination of imaginary dangers to which the Czar is subjected. It is said that on seeing an adjutant walking rapidly toward him recently, the Czar seized a revolver and shot the adjutant dead. Other accounts say that the adjutant made an attempt to kill the Czar and the latter fired in self-defence.

Gen. Kaulbars to be Superseded.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.—The Czar has summoned General Gourko, military commander of Warsaw, to proceed to the imperial palace at Gatchina to receive instructions preparatory to replacing Gen. Kaulbars as Russian military agent in Bulgaria.

The Powers Desert Him.

SOFIA, Oct. 21.—Owing to the apparent indisposition of the powers to actively support Bulgaria, which will have the effect of driving her to a reconciliation with Russia, there is a general feeling here that if Gen. Kaulbar's shows signs of friendliness the Government will offer to postpone the meeting of the Sobranje.

RELIEF OF THE UNEMPLOYED.

A Socialist's Proposals Through the Public Press.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Henry M. Hyndman, the Socialist leader, has written to the press the following proposals for the relief of the unemployed of London:—That no workers for Government railways or similar public monopolies be kept at their duties more than eight hours a day, thus enabling a greater number of men to obtain employment. That all uncultivated Crown lands suitable for cultivation be tilled and harvested, and the profits thereof divided among those whose labor produced the crops. That all possible public works be commenced immediately, the cost of their initial proceedings and payment of wages to those employed to be borne equally by ratepayers and State. That free dinners be given to the needy, and that school children whose parents are unable to support them be boarded at the public expense.

INDIA AND BURMAH.

Sir Fred. Roberts to Succeed Sir Herbert Macpherson.

BOMBAY, Oct. 21.—Gen. Sir Frederick Roberts, Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in India, will succeed the late General Sir Herbert Macpherson as Commander of the army of occupation of Burmah.

Intelligence has been received that the Johur ordeal has been again put in practice in a Brahmin village in Bengal. Two human lives were sacrificed, the object being to avoid the Toak durbar assessment. The two victims calmly ascended the funeral pyre and bravely met their death. Their charred heads were afterwards carried by the villagers to Oudeyhore.

Advices from Teera, in the State of Cutch, say that a tribal war is imminent there.

UNDERWRITERS IN SESSION.

Reduction of Rates in Quebec and an Increase in Belleville and Kingston.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—At the half-yearly meeting of the Canada Fire Underwriters' Association reports were received from sub-committees in Toronto and Montreal on schedule rating, postal rates, underground insurance, uniform policy conditions and insurance legislation. In Belleville and Kingston, Ont., where incendiary fires have occurred lately and where there are no proper appliances for extinguishing fires, it is intended to raise the rates from fifteen to twenty per cent. Quebec City rates will be reduced by about fifteen per cent.

CHICOUTIMI THE CRITICAL.

The Tory Candidate Ahead as Far as Heard From.

QUEBEC, Oct. 21.—Only two divisions, Grand Brule and River au Sable, have so far been heard from. In both of those St. Hilaire, the Tory candidate, is ahead, in the first by 40 and in the second by 25.

A Schooner Wrecked off Goderich.

GODERICH, Oct. 21.—The schooner E. W. Rathbun, bound from Toledo to Goderich, with a cargo of coal consigned to Oglivies and Hutchison, while making this port last night during a heavy gale, went ashore on a shoal, off the mouth of the river, the sea washing over her, carrying away her spars and rigging. The crew clung to her until daylight this morning, when the Government life boat under command of Capt. Wm. Babb, went to their rescue, and brought them ashore. The crew consisted of five men and one woman, the cook. The vessel has broken up, nothing being saved. She was owned by Wm. Lee of Goderich, and was uninsured.

Gen. Booth at Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 21.—General Booth, the leader of the Salvation Army, arrived in town to-day. He was met at the depot by the local detachment of the army, headed by the band. After marching through the principal streets, and after luncheon, the General started for the new barracks, which he formally opened. To-night the General lectured on "What I know about the Salvation Army." The General goes to Palmerston to-morrow.

Russia's Ramifications.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A traveler from Bokhara who reached Peshawur reports that the Russians have completed the Merv and Oxus Railway to within five miles of Sarakhs. He also states that the Russians intend to establish a military cantonment for 30,000 troops near Bokhara. Russian officers disguised as Usbeck merchants are actively engaged in Badakshan inspecting the citadel and passes to India. The Czar is displeased at the Ameer of Bokhara for refusing to enlist Russians among his troops.

The Murder by Pinkerton Men.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The inquest on the body of Terence Begley, killed Tuesday by Pinkerton men, was begun to-day. Captain Markey, of the Town of Lake Police, who was on the train which carried the Pinkerton men, testified that the crowd into which the shots were fired, made no threatening gesticulations or demonstrations whatever against those on the train, and that no stones or other missiles were thrown.

Reform Nominations for South Grey.

DURHAM, Ont., Oct. 21.—The Reformers of the South Riding of Grey held their convention here to-day, when the largest number of delegates that ever assembled unanimously chose Dr. Landerkin, the present member, for the Commons, and Wm. Irvine of Benkiook, President of the Association, for the Local.

Movements of European Celebrities.

Count Schouvaloff, the Russian ambassador at Berlin, has started for St. Petersburg.

Mr. Gladstone felled a tree at Hawarden yesterday.

Lord Churchill has arrived in London. He is stronger and stouter than he was before he started on his continental tour.

Lord Hartington and the Earl of Fife will leave London for India on November 11.

MURDER IN RAGLAN.

DAVID GOUGHLIN TELLS THE STORY OF HIS CRIME.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—David Goughlin, the German who committed the shocking murder recently reported from Raglan, Renfrew County, has made the following confession:

"Between 9 and 10 o'clock on Monday morning, after quarrelling, I ordered the woman and children to leave the house. The house was about thirty feet from my house, and belonged to me. The woman's husband was there at the time I ordered them out. The husband then went away with a gun to hunt. About two hours after this I went to the barn to cut some straw. While I was doing this Mrs. Werckenthal was taunting and defying me to such an extent that I could stand it no longer. I then went to the house and ordered the woman and children out. She told me she would not go and used very indecent and insulting language. She then went into the house with the children and I then nailed up the door. I had turned to leave and had got as far as the corner when she broke open the door with an ax. I then thought the only way to get them out was to burn down the shanty. So I walked over to my house and got a coal of fire and threw it into their shanty. I went around the corner of the house and the woman went in the opposite direction, and we met at the back of the house. She said: 'You devil, is this the way you intend to kill me?' and then she picked up a stick of wood to strike me. I also picked up a stick of wood and struck her on the forehead. She turned her back and I struck her two more blows on the back of the head and she fell to the ground. I then went to my house and said: 'Good bye, wife and children, you won't see me any more. I am going to put an end to myself.' I went to the bush to starve myself. On Monday and Tuesday I lost my way in the bush. After finding out my location I started for the Mississippi River with the intention to drown myself. After I got to the river and stood on the brink I prayed to God to guide me. At this time two grey birds flew down to me and I took it for an omen not to drown myself, so I started back and struck the Palmer Rapids and some man took me across the river and accompanied me to Rockingham, when I gave myself up. When I struck the woman I did not intend to kill her. She was not dead when I left her. I did not know she was dead until I reached Rockingham. The reason I left was because I was afraid of her husband, as he had three times before threatened to shoot me. If I had remained there and the husband had found his house burned and that I had struck his wife, he having a gun in his possession, would without hesitation have shot me. If it was so destined that I should hang for the crime, I am resigned to my fate."

Goughlin is a muscular man, dark complexioned, 44 years of age, stands 5 feet 8 inches and weighs about 180 pounds.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1886.

FOOLISHLY FALSE ALARMS.

An intemperate Tory journal, in commenting on the result of the Quebec elections, which brought about the downfall of a corrupt Conservative Government, uses this rabid drivel:

"The people of this Province (Ontario) are asked to become the mere serfs of Frenchmen and Crees, who are to have the power of life and death over us without responsibility to the law."—Peterborough Review.

Here is political gratitude for you. While the Quebec Canadians were supporters of Sir John Macdonald—and they largely held the balance of power in his favor for a quarter of a century—they were all that was noble as allies and fellow-citizens, but when they declare a lack of confidence in Sir John Macdonald, when his misgovernment and mal-administration prove too much for a political indulgence that has lasted twenty-five years, then the French-Canadians are everything that is vile—no abuse is rank enough, no vituperation foul enough to express Conservative detestation of their French-Canadian fellow-citizens. The fact is the result of the recent Quebec elections implies a return of the Lower Canadians to their first love. They are naturally Liberals—they were such in the days of Papineau and Lafontaine, and now, because they have come to their right mind politically, they, all at once, according to Conservative reasoning, become fire-brands and an evil element in the family of Confederation. This kind of talk is the merest rubbish and will deceive nobody worth deceiving. When they have become wedded to Liberal principles, which involve equal justice to all classes and creeds, the French-Canadians are not dangerous, as they would be, if they were influenced by the dominating spirit of greed and grab, office and perquisite that are the essence of your thorough-paced Toryism. Our French-Canadian fellow-citizens are now in position to go quietly on their way disturbing nobody. They have, in all conscience, had enough provocation from the brutal abuse of the Mail and other Conservative organs of its kidney to make them take to something desperate. If, under such an irritating course of vituperative exasperation, they have held themselves in control, there is no fear that, with the fair fraternal treatment which one race of our mixed population should accord to another, they will prove a disturbing element. The cry of French domination is one of the silliest, most sensational and foundationless cries imaginable. Where is the danger except in the mouths of the blatant mischief-mongers working for petty political ends, who, to promote the interests of their party, do not scruple to try to arouse a spirit of discord and hatred between races that must exist together, under one regime, either in peace or at variance? There is, in reality, neither danger nor fear of French domination. The Conservative political organs are frantic at the thought of Quebec having shaken off its allegiance to Sir John, and in their fury give vent to their feelings in hysterical ravings. The cry is raised for a political purpose. If the people of Ontario can be induced to believe that their liberties are in danger, it is hoped by the Government party that they will give, at the coming elections, their support to the party that poses as the champion of that liberty—as against the French. And fine champions of the people's liberty the Tory party was, when it outraged the people's rights by supporting Lord Gosford's theft of £14,000 sterling of the people's money from the public chest in Lower Canada, and assisted the tyrannous oppression of the Family Compact in Upper Canada. The race and revenge cry is an absolute failure. The intelligent electors of Ontario cannot be frightened with a scarecrow. They will judge the Dominion Government on its merits—if such a word, by the greatest stretch of courtesy, can be applied to a political combination maintaining its hold on power by bribery, double dealing, and monstrous malversation of office.

Exculpatory.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR,—In order that the unknown glass-breakers may not get more censure than they deserve, kindly allow me to state that the breaking of the glass in our window was purely accidental. I am

She Wouldn't Have To.

A couple from the humbler walks of life came before a justice of the peace to be married, when, the ceremony being over, the bride began to weep copiously. "What's the matter?" asked the new husband. "I never told you that I don't know how to cook," sobbed the bride. "Don't fret; I'll not have anything for you to cook. I'm a poet."

Poison's Nervilene.

Hundreds who have experienced the wonderful power of Nervilene in subduing pain have testified that it is the most potent remedy in existence. Nervilene is equally efficacious as an internal or an external remedy. Poison's Nervilene cures flatulence, chills, spasms, cholera, cramps, headache, sea sickness, summer complaints, etc. Nervilene is sold by all druggists and country dealers. Only 25c. a bottle. Try it. 6dw42

The Way It Works.

Two little boys were discussing the strength of a bee. "He can pull more'n a fly," said one of them. "Well," said the other, "I dunno how much he can pull, but when he backs up to you and pushes, I guess you'll fall back every time."

A Modern Miracle.

In a recent letter from R. W. Dowton, of Doloraine, Ont., he states that he recovered from the worst form of Dyspepsia after suffering for fifteen years; and when a council of Doctors pronounced him incurable he tried Burdock Blood Bitters, six bottles of which restored his health. 2w42d

Polite But Truthful.

The conductors of the Paris omnibus are witty as well as polite. The other day a woman of immense size stood on the sidewalk, and hailed a passing vehicle. "Is there room for me?" she asked. "No, madame," replied the conductor, with great suavity. "There is only room for two."

A Speedy Cure.

As a speedy cure for Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, Colic, Cramps, Sick Stomach, Canker of the Stomach and Bowles, and all forms of Summer Complaints, there is no remedy more reliable than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Dealers who sell it, and those who buy it are on mutual grounds in confidence of its merits. 2w42d

A Novel Whisk Holder.

To make a pretty whisk broom holder cover the pasteboard case smoothly with silesia and edge the top and bottom with cord. Drape a bright scarf edge with sequins gracefully on the other side so that none of the case shall be visible, and suspend by cord or ribbon. The silesia should be the color of the scarf.

Fatal Attacks.

Among the most prevalent fatal and sudden attacks of diseases, are those incident to the summer and fall, such as Cholera Morbus, Billious Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, etc., that often prove fatal in a few hours. That ever reliable remedy Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, should be at hand for use in emergency. 2w42d

The Fire Bells

Ring out an alarm and it is heeded. This is to notify you that base substitution is practised when the great, sure-pop corn cure is asked for. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor never fails to take corns off. It makes no sore spots and gives no pain. Be sure and get "Putnam's." 6dw42

Ladies troubled with Pimples, Blotches, Rough Hands or Face, or Sores of any description, should use McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. FIVE MILLION POUNDS.

By T. WEMYSS REID.

Bidiski was quite excited over the prospect of the hunt, which he had apparently already allotted to himself, of unravelling the whole mystery of which Gregson professed to have given us the outlines. For my part, I cared little or nothing about that mystery in itself. All that I wanted was evidence which would deliver my darling, not only from a shameful death, but from that stain of criminality which the verdict of the jury had cast upon her. We had gone far, I felt, towards arriving at the truth; but nothing short of the complete exoneration of Daisy would satisfy me, and that, alas! was apparently still remote.

When the detective had taken Gregson off to his own hotel to cross-examine him at his leisure regarding the story he had told us, Harding and I sat together discussing all that had now come to light. Our chief feeling—or mine at any rate—was one of wonder at the fact that Dr. Branksome should be such a villain as Gregson represented.

Never, surely, was there a man in this world who looked less like a villain, who bore himself less like one, who seemed to all around him to be more completely above suspicion. I recalled all my dealings with him from that first day when we met in the Grand hotel at Scarborough, and I could not remember a single incident, a look or a tone of the voice, that had been calculated to awaken suspicion in my mind. He was always the same—cool, self-possessed, gentlemanly, frank in manner, brilliant in talk. He had never played the part of Joseph Surface and assumed the functions of a champion of morality; but I remember no one whom I had met in the course of my life who had made a deeper impression on me, or who had more completely won my confidence and regard. Even now I could hardly bring myself to believe that he was a villain—much less a villain of the cold, cruel, calculating type depicted by Gregson.

I remembered, however, that my first quarrel with him had arisen when he dropped to me a hint of his belief that Daisy was guilty. It was only then that, in my overpowering love for her, I had broken through the glamour which had hitherto invested him. I believe that even now, when I had heard Gregson's story, I should have rejected it with my whole heart if it had not been for Branksome's assertion of Daisy. That often-e I had never forgiven; and the fact that he had been guilty of it enabled me at this moment, despite all my experience in my personal relations with him, to accept the apparently incredible story of his crime which I had received from the lips of Gregson. I saw, too, quite clearly, the strong confirmation of that story, which was to be found in the fact that he had acted just as Gregson had predicted that he would act. In the event of the sentence of the law being carried out upon Daisy, he would step into undisputed possession of Mauleverer's millions. Yes; I felt convinced, in spite of all my prepossessions, that I had indeed been, as Gregson had declared, the veriest dupe throughout this business—but the dupe of a man whose villainy was such as to defy all ordinary sagacity.

Bidiski, with his usual rapidity of movement, darted off that very night to London, hauling the unfortunate Gregson along with him. It was on the following morning that I had my second interview with my darling.

I found her more altered than I had anticipated. The strain upon her mind had evidently been terrible during that week which she had passed in the grim solitude of the condemned cell, with nothing but a shameful death staring her in the face. How my heart overflowed with love and sympathy, when I saw her, pale and worn, standing upright in the gloomy cell, awaiting me with a pathetic smile upon her white lips! It was long, long before I could murmur even the first words of greeting.

And even then, when I had found my voice, and when I had answered some of the many questions she addressed to me, I labored under a serious embarrassment. I dared not tell her how I had been engaged during those days which had passed since we met before. I had written to her immediately upon my return from the hall to let her know that the strychnia had been discovered, but I did not venture to speak of those other discoveries for which we were indebted to Gregson. And yet I could not leave her without some ray of hope to lighten her miserable cell. I am afraid that, ere I quitted her side, I had imparted to her a share of the agitation by which I myself was possessed. And yet I could not be sorry, when that brief interview of mingled bliss and agony came to an end, to think that her dear face no longer wore that sad look of pathetic apathy and resignation which had distinguished it when we met.

It was on my return to the hotel that I found a telegram from Bidiski: "Cipher discovered. Most important." The detective evidently did not waste words in telegraphing. He consumed with eagerness to learn what the important news might be to which we had now got the key.

"A gentleman to see you, sir." It was the evening of this same day, and I was sitting by myself in my room. The waiter held the door open, and Dr. Branksome, who must have adopted some special means thus to insure his admission to my apartment, entered.

"Dr. Branksome!" I said, in astonishment.

"You here!"

He muttered with the grave air that I knew so well, and, removing his glove, offered his hand to me. What was the magnetic influence which the man exercised over all who came in contact with him? I cannot tell. I only know that, while I cursed myself for my weakness, I did not refuse his outstretched hand.

He seated himself with great composure, and said:

"I must apologise for my untimely intrusion, but I think you will forgive me when you know the purpose of my visit. You have seen Daisy, I understand, to-day. I have not had that privilege myself. I want you to tell me how the poor child is."

Daisy's name acted as a spell to save me from the strange influence of the man.

"Yes," I replied, "I have seen Daisy. Dr. Branksome, but I can say nothing to you about her."

His cerebral big eyebrows in mute surprise. "I think you carry your resentment too far. I admire it, but it is useless."

"Hypocrite!" I cried, my temper for the first time for many a day getting the better of my carriers of prudence. "Hypocrite and liar, I know you now. Why do you come to me with your smiling face, and your simulated tenderness for the girl whom you have made your victim—the girl whose very life you have been ready to sacrifice to your devilish plans! Go to somebody else, and smile, and smile, and play the villain with them. Don't come to me. I tell you, I know you."

"We say at night, 'Would God the day were here,'

And we at dawn, 'Would God the day were dead.'"

How well Sutherne has emphasized the feelings of thousands of Earth's fairest daughters, who are held prisoners by Queen's fell hand. CAPTAIN WILLIAM SLATER, No. 27 Granville Street, Halifax, N.S.

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Specialist, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—When you visited me in the latter part of January of this year I had been given up to die of consumption by a consultation of Physicians, Drs. Reid and Oliver, prominent physicians of Halifax who considered that my recovery was simply impossible. I had no hope myself nor had my family. When you expressed a hope of my recovery, it was received with a doubt. Confined to my bed, very low, weak wasted, night sweats very bad, troublesome cough, raising large quantities of matter—in fact every appearance of a speedy death. After using your Respirator and Spirator and medicine as I began to recover very fast, so much so that during the hard winter months I have gained from 30 to 35 lbs., and was able to walk out on Easter Sunday. My strength is daily increasing, and I shall be able soon to be at work. To you I owe a debt of gratitude, and am anxious for others who are suffering as I was to consult you. You can make what use of this letter you see fit, and thanking you for what I consider a most wonderful treatment.

I remain, yours truly,

CAPT. WM. SLATER.

Later.—Fully recovered and at work.

GO.

It is remarkable how our Ulsters, Mantles and Dolmans go.

Our success this season has been unparalleled (considering the fine warm weather,) in making up Ulsters, Mantles and Dolmans from our very complete stock.

The autumn chills, the winter snow,
The heavy dew, the pattering rain,
The frost that bites, the winds that blow,
Invade our Ulsters all in vain.

In careless fold's our Ulster thrown,
But, round the human form divine,
The perfect fit will still disclose
The rounding form, the curving line.

Faultless Fit, Correct Styles, Good Variety, Excellent Work

LOCAL NEWS.

A Pleasing Event.

The ladies of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church are to be congratulated on the gratifying issue of their efforts to make the dairymaids social held last night a most pleasing success. The school room of the church was over crowded for comfort, but though everyone was confined to close quarters the greatest harmony prevailed and the concert passed off without the slightest unpleasantness occurring to mar its enjoyment. The programme as published was carried out to the letter, and gave intense satisfaction. The opening solo and chorus, "Home from the Woodlands," was sung by about twenty young ladies of the church, charmingly dressed in dairy maid costume, who as they stood erect in two lines, their blooming countenances contrasting forcibly with the plain white and black of their dresses, presented a picture of purity and attractivness not easily forgotten. Their singing, too, throughout showed careful practice and individual interest in the selection. Miss Davis rendered "A little Maid milking her Cow," in good voice, followed by an excellent solo by Miss Johnston, the first part of the programmme being concluded by a solo and chorus, "The Cowbells in the Lane"—a very amusing piece—by the dairy-maids. Realism was added to the presentation of this chorus, by the imitation of the familiar tinkle of the time-honored cowbell melodiously jingled "behind the scenes." After refreshments the young ladies rendered another solo and chorus, "Star of the Twilight," followed by Miss Brundrett in "The Cows are in the Corn," which was very nicely sung. A solo and chorus, "Good Night, Farewell," was sung by the dairy-maids, after which "God Save the Queen" closed the entertainment. Mr. L. Seward presided most efficiently at the piano, and is deserving of considerable credit for the success of the social, having had charge of the musical training for the last two weeks.

The Nuptial Knot.

Last evening about 5.30 Mr. W. J. Sherwood, of the firm of Sherwood Bros., commission merchants, Water street, was married to Hattie, daughter of the late Mr. A. R Ward. The wedding took place in St. John's Church, the nuptial knot being tied by Rev. Mr. Rock. The church was well filled with spectators though the marriage, which was to have taken place a week later, was unexpectedly accelerated on account of the severe illness of the grandfather of the bride, Dr. W. H. Burritt, of Peterborough The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Ward, sister of the bride, while Mr. Ernest Sherwood performed a like office for the groom, his brother. Immediately after the ceremony half a dozen cabs bore the wedding party to the C. P. R. station, where the newly-wedded couple took the 6.42 train for New York. Both young people are well known in Peterborough, where they have many warm friends, who will most heartily join hands in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood the utmost happiness and prosperity in years to come.

Through to the Pacific.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company is now running a first class excursion to the Pacific coast, Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., and San Francisco, Col., and return, on the 29th and 30th October next, from all stations on the line for the low rate of $90. This will afford families and others a cheap and enjoyable way of spending the winter on the Pacific Coast. Tickets, which are good for seven months and enable the holder to stop over at any point on the line, may be procured in Peterborough at Mr. Alex. Elliott's up-town C. P. R. ticket agency, George street.

The Mud Lake Bridge.

The following paragraph, referring to the bridge over Chemong Lake, is clipped from the Bobcaygeon Independent: "The bridge might more properly be called the Sinking bridge, and means will soon have to be provided for giving more floating power. The timber is becoming so water logged, that a loaded waggon has to keep moving. To stop for a few moments to fix the load or harness, is to let the waggon sink to the hubs. A loaded waggon passing an empty is done with some danger, as the heavy side sinks so far as to render the waggon liable to slip off the bridge."

Boots and Shoes by Auction.

Messrs. Sherwood & Co., will offer for sale by auction, commencing at one o'clock p. m. to-morrow, Saturday, October 23rd, and in the evening at 7.30, the whole of J. W. Miller's bankrupt stock of boots and shoes at his old stand under the Town Clock

"On the List."

Analysis of the Voters' List of 1886.

The voters' list of the town of Peterborough, under the Ontario Franchise Act, is completed and printed, and from it can be extracted some interesting items. The total number of names on the list is 2,302, distributed amongst the four wards as follows:

Ward No. 1	841
" " 2	616
" " 3	466
" " 4	379
	2,302

The total is divided into three classes thus: Part 1—Those "entitled to vote at both municipal elections and elections to the Legislative Assembly." Part 2—Those "entitled to vote at municipal elections only." Part 3—Those "entitled to vote at elections to the Legislative Assembly only."

The result of this classification is shown in the subjoined table:

	Part I	Part II	Part III
Ward No. 1	443	140	58
" " 2	282	210	34
" " 3	448	154	64
" " 4	236	98	29
	1417	602	185

The number of women entitled to vote (under part 2) are as follows:

No. 1 Ward	60
No. 2 "	76
No. 3 "	85
No. 4 "	42
	263

Under the Act, as amended last session, the following "Wage Earners" and "Landholders' Sons" are added to the list; viz.:

Wage earners:

No. 1 Ward	3
No. 2 "	15
No. 3 "	9
No. 4 "	6
	33

and landholders' sons:

No. 1 Ward	20
No. 2 "	16
No. 3 "	46
No. 4 "	18

Police Court.

FRIDAY, Oct. 22nd.

Under the provisions of a by-law recently passed by the Town Council, imposing a fine on owners of cattle whose animals are found running at large, A. Williams pleaded guilty and was fined $2 and costs for a violation of the by-law a few days since.

THE FRASERVILLE ROBBERY.

The charge of burglary against Charles and Clara Reynolds was ventilated before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning. Albert A. Goodfellow, the plaintiff, gave testimony which corroborated the facts of the case as given in the EXAMINER of Monday. The stolen articles, an overcoat, pair of pants, pocket handkerchief, pair of braces, pair of boots and three pair of socks, plaintiff identified as belonging to him. The prisoner stated, in self-defence, that on Sunday evening last he and his wife were walking along the track towards Peterborough, when the latter was taken suddenly ill, and they sought shelter for the night in a small shanty in the woods near the track. Early in the morning they were awakened by two men who claimed to be peddlers, and left in their possession the goods found when arrested, stating that they were going to Peterborough, and asked them (the prisoners) to take care of said goods till they came back. They not returning, he started to town in search of them, but failing to find them, returned to the shanty after making some purchases in town. The story of the pursuit and arrest are well known. The prisoners were committed for trial at the fall assizes.

A SUIT FOR WAGES.

Jas. Steele entered a suit against Wm. McMaster to recover $39 wages due the plaintiff, a carpenter, for work done for Mr. McMaster. The case not coming under the jurisdiction of the Police Magistrate, it was dismissed with costs. J. Green for plaintiff, R. E. Wood, C. C. A., for defendant.

THE SCOTT ACT CASE.

At the request of the defence in the case of Cochrane vs. Roddy a further enlargement was made till the 30th inst.

Died.

The public will hear with regret that this morning, about 10 o'clock, Mrs. J. S. Fullerton, of Toronto, (Emma Stevenson), died at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Richard Parnell, Antrim Street. Several weeks ago Mrs. Fullerton returned to town, ill, and since that time her condition has grown steadily worse. It will be well remembered that only a few months ago the deceased left town a happy bride, with the promise of many happy years before her. She was a young lady of unusual worth and amiability and her sad death will awaken the keenest emotions of sorrow in the hearts of the many friens dher good qualities won for her. The funeral takes place to-morrow at 3 o'clock.

A Deed Deserving Punishment.

Mayor Stevenson's action in offering a reward of $100 for the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons who destroyed a plate glass in the window of Mr. Flavelle's shop, on Simcoe street, on Thursday morning, will commend itself to the approval of all order-loving citizens. It is hoped that no pains will be spared to bring the guilty parties to justice. Whatever the motive that influenced the commision of the act, it is one that not only can not, if preventable, be tolerated, but which must, if detection is possible, call the perpetrators to severe account and just punishment. The safety of the property as well as persons of every citizen must be maintained at whatever cost of effort. Salus populi suprema lex.

Final Court of Revision.

On Thursday a sitting of the County Judges' Final Court of Revision on the local voters' list for Ashburnham was held, with the result that one Conservative was added to the list. Mr. W. A. Stratton, barrister, appeared on behalf of the Liberal party. A similar court for North Monaghan was held to-day. Some additions were made and some names struck out. Mr. Stratton represented Liberal interests and Mr. Carnegie appeared on behalf of the Conservatives.

Young Men's Liberal Club.

A meeting of the Young Men's Liberal Club of Peterborough is called in their rooms this Friday evening, for the election of officers for the ensuing year and for the discussion of subjects connected with the objects of the Association.

—Mr. L. Seward, organist of St. John's, is arranging two singing classes, senior and junior. Rooms have been secured over the China Hall. These classes will be made most interesting, Mr. Seward aiming more at social improvement than the mere routine of tuition. It is a praiseworthy effort and should succeed.

—The Lindsay Post, in speaking of the recent rifle matches at that place, offers the following explanation:—"No contestants were present from Peterborough or Port Hope, having been, no doubt, deterred from coming by the known excellence of our marksmen."

—Mr. W. J. D. Thompson, of Orillia, attended the Peterborough fall show to take charge of the exhibit of the White Sewing Machine Company. Mr. Thompson is enthusiastic in his praises of the exhibition, which was a marked financial success, and in every way creditable to the managers and the town.—Packet.

The Prodigal of Old.

The prodigal son mentioned in the Bible was obliged to live for a time upon the husks of the corn fed to the swine, but the ladies of the George street Methodist Church do not intend treating patrons of their corn social, to be held in the Opera House Tuesday evening next, in like manner. The viands, though manufactured of corn as far as possible, will be of the best and most palatable nature; the programme will be found both interesting and instructive. It promises to be one of the best entertainments of the season, and should secure a liberal patronage.

A Charming Entertainment.

Several of the young ladies of St. John's congregation are deep in the mysteries of the Japanese costume, preparing their dresses against the Mikado social to be held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Oct. 27th and 28th. This will be one of the most unique and charming entertainments ever presented in the town. The fact that Mr. Seward has the musical programme in hand is a guarantee of its great excellence. Admission, 25 cents. Don't fail to attend this concert.

Doings of the Deer-slayers.

Mr. J. T. Emerson, of the Metropolitan Grocery, has returned home from a hunting expedition 'way back. His party consisted of himself and Messrs. Thomas Eastwood, Samuel Purser, W. Spafford and J. Freeborn, of Hall's Bridge, Mr. John Westlake, of Ketchekum Lake, acting in the capacity of guide. The party secured seven deer in five days. Mr. M. O'Brien, who has returned, states that his party, captained by Mr. Tobias Fitzgerald, has secured four deer.

Course of Lectures.

The management of the Y. M. C. A. is arranging for a course of lectures on familiar subjects, by local men, to be entitled "Popular Talks." The talkers will include ministers, teachers, legal and medical men, and business men. The course will include scientific lectures by some of the institute masters. The lectures will be free to the members of the Association, but a small admission fee will be charged the public.

A Lively Runaway.

About 11.30 this forenoon a team of horses owned by Mr. Jas. Crowley, of Otonabee, standing in front of Morrow, Tierney & Co.'s store, were frightened by a barrel rolling from the door of Rush Bros., and started towards home at a rate that threatened instant destruction to the wagon. They were, however, stopped near Matthew & Co.'s packing house, and no further damage done than a broken bridle.

A Coming Concert.

Mr. A. F. Hoover proposes giving a grand concert in Peterborough on the evening of Nov. 23rd, for which he has engaged some of Canada's finest musicians. This concert promises to be the musical event of the season, and from Mr. Hoover's well-known talent and ability in this line, something unusually good may be looked for.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

High Praise.

The well-known firm of N. C. Polson., & Co., of Kingston, writes that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has long been considered the best remedy for Summer complaints in the market, and adds that their customers speak in the highest terms of its merits. Wild Strawberry is the best known remedy for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and all bowel complaints. 2w42d

His Delicate Correction.

"What a lovely cow, Uncle James," exclaimed a Boston girl, the morning after her arrival, "and how comically she shakes her head." "Yes, but don't get too near that cow," cautioned the uncle, "he's an ugly critter."

In Good Repute.

James McMurdock, writing from Kissale; says: "B. B. B., as a remedy for diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, has an excellent reputation in this locality. I have used it, and speak from experience, as well as observation. It is the only medicine I want, and advise others afflicted to try it." 2w-42d

"I see that they advertise 'a large chorus and a full orchestra.' I wonder who that fat girl is on the right." "That's one of the large chorus." "And the cornet player there seems to be the worse of liquor." "He's one of the full orchestra."

Reasons why you should purchase Fluid Lightning in preference to all other remedies are:—Rapid result—cures instantly. It is easily applied—no trouble—no lost time. It does not require constant use—one application is effectual. One bottle will remove more pain than any other remedy in existence. Try it for Neuralgia, Toothache, Headache, Rheumatism. Sold at 25c. a bottle by John McKee, Druggist. eodw42

A Western paper recently noted the finding of a "lady's skeleton." A lady's skeleton doubtless differs from a woman's skeleton in that it has a hoopskirt and other attachments.

Mrs. Mary Thompson, of Toronto, was afflicted with Tape Worm, 8 feet of which was removed by one bottle of Dr. Low's Worm Syrup. dwoct

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 30th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spurnerless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This Cut Shows one Style only.

This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 80 out of every 100 of adults Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, [illegible] and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, stumped and banked, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. BLAKE IN WATERLOO.

A BIG TURN-OUT IN THE TOWN OF BERLIN.

BERLIN, Ont., Oct. 22.—The snug little German town of Berlin gave the Hon. Edward Blake a good reception to-night. Over 2000 persons turned out to the Liberal meeting in the Roller Skating Rink. On the platform were Mr. Chas. Hendry, Chairman, President of the North Waterloo Reform Association, and Frederick Colquhoun, Secretary; Jas. Innes, M.P.; J. E. Bowman, ex-M.P.; Jas. Trow, M. P.; Dr. Lackner, Mayor; Dr. McPhatter of Guelph, John King, Dr. Bowlby, Hon. Edward Blake and Hon. G. W. Ross.

Short addresses were made by the chairman and Messrs. Trow, Innes and Bowman. They spoke of the near approach of the elections and urged those present to vote reform if they wished for honest government.

Hon. G. W. Ross championed the cause of the Ontario Government. They had a revenue of two and a quarter millions. The expenditure during the fourteen years had been about thirty-three millions. He pointed out that this large amount was sunk in such useful institutions as the Central Prison, the Lunatic Asylums and the Deaf and Dumb Institute. The surplus was at present over six millions.

Mr. Blake was received with applause and he was listened to with close attention. In an eloquent speech he dealt with many of the leading questions. His strongest point was the responsibility and culpability of the Government in the matter of the Northwest rebellion and the audience by their vigorous applause united their censure to his. He urged the leaders to [illegible] Dominion interference with provincial affairs. He would rather have any other question raised than that of creed and race. He knew how easy it was to enkindle and how hard it was to extinguish, and the man who tried to bring up such an issue was an enemy to his country. The Mail newspaper was engaged in fanning those flames and raising those deadly fires. In conclusion he pleaded for a united country, free from any sectional prejudices and predicted a bright future for Canada.

The meeting broke up at 11.40 with cheers for the Queen and Messrs. Blake and Ross.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

Bradstreet Reports on the Whole a Fair Looker.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Special telegrams to Bradstreets note a further decline in the total volume of merchandise distribution owing to the prolongation of unseasonably mild weather, to continued low prices for grain and produce and to country merchants having been quite well stocked up with goods in the late season of active trading. At New York, Boston, Detroit, Nashville, Louisville, Chicago, Burlington and New Orleans these influences have evidently been recognized. The conspicuous trade feature is found in the large increase in demand for raw and finished iron at the West. Prices are again higher and manufacturers are inclined to refuse figures which were acceptable a week ago. At the East the demand is not nearly so large, though prices are firm. Steel rails are no higher and not likely to be in the near future. The dry goods are generally not active as a week ago. Prices, however, are firmly held, and on some grades of brown and bleached cottons higher figures are asked. Woolens are firm and promise to advance. Wool is easier with a tendency toward weakness. The lockout in the knitting mills at Amsterdam and Cohoes, N.Y., checks sales and stimulates resales to some extent. The labor troubles at the Philadelphia textile mills, where a lockout to affect 7500 employes is threatened Nov. 3 unless the latter keep an agreement alleged to have been made, promises to become a disturbing influence. Wheat is firmer and higher on a better export demand, and the arrival of cold weather will stimulate the hog product industry.

PINKERTON'S MEN DEPART.

And Affairs at the Stockyards Resume Their Normal Shape.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The last of the Pinkerton guards and about the last of the non-union men employed by Armour & Co. left the stockyards last night. The train was in charge of a detail of fifteen policemen, who gave direction that the windows of the cars should be [illegible]closed, and that no noisy demonstrations should be made. There were on the train seventy Pinkertons and nearly one hundred non-union men. While passing through the stockyard, and until Halsted street was passed, everything was quiet, but after that the Pullerton men opened the windows and commenced singing. When the train reached the corner of Fortieth and Winter street a shot was fired from a cabbage garden. Another, who saw the flash of the gun, [illegible] fired at the train. No further incident occurred during the passage of the train. The old employes at the packing houses appear to be perfectly satisfied with the condition of affairs. Thousands were taken back yesterday. The butchers met last night and expressed their satisfaction at working as Armour & Co.'s butchers are now working.

Finnan Haddies and all kinds of Fresh Fish received daily at Corman's.

WARNING TO BRITAIN.

FRANCE DETERMINED TO HAVE A VOICE IN EGYPT.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—In well informed diplomatic circles in London it is believed that M. Waddington, French Ambassador, has demanded of England that a definite date be fixed for the evacuation of Egypt.

A Warning From the Journal Des Debats.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The Journal des Debats censures the British for their financial policy in Egypt, which, it says, has been contrived with a view to avert European intervention in the finances of the country. England will never succeed, the paper maintains, in withdrawing Egyptian affairs from the just control of those interested, and adds: "England remains in Egypt as long as she possibly can, hoping that the trouble in Europe which she seeks to provoke will allow her to establish herself permanently in the country. England imagines that France will resign herself to an act of appropriation, rendering England mistress of the route to the French colonies and sovereign of the Mediterranean. Great people sometimes cherish great illusions."

England's Military Weakness.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Le Temps says "Lord Randolph Churchill in his Dartford speech announced England's abandonment of her active influence in European politics owing to the disproportion between her army and those of other European nations. We regret this in the cause of liberty and because it renders France more isolated."

MORE EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Apparent Fulfilment of Wiggins' Prophecy a Month After Date.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 22.—A sharp earthquake about was felt here at 5.26 this morning. The duration was about twenty-two seconds. Houses were shaken and windows rattled, but no damage was done. The shock was sharp also at Summerville, and was followed by several baby quakes, as they are called there. The shock was felt at Wilmington, Savannah, Augusta, Columbia, Orangeburg and other points in this State. While a recurrence of the quakes is trying to women and children, it causes no interruption either in business or the work of repairing damages, which is progressing vigorously.

Felt on the Hudson.

ROUNDOUT, N.Y., Oct. 22.—Earthquake shocks occurred this morning. A cloud was seen which is described as being the exact shape of a gigantic horse and rider in the sky, at several places on the Hudson.

In Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 22.—A shock of earthquake was felt at 2.20 o'clock p.m. to-day.

At the Capital.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 22.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here at 2.50 o'clock this afternoon.

At Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 22.—A distinct shock of earthquake was felt here at 4.15 o'clock this morning. The earth oscillated very perceptibly and many were awakened, but the shock was so slight that it created no alarm.

In Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 22.—A shock of earthquake was felt in many portions of the state at 4.30 a.m.

THE GREAT SOBRANGE.

Bulgaria Denies All Propositions for Delay.

SOFIA, Oct. 22.—Gadban Effendi's mission as special envoy for the Porte is declared to be to endeavor to reconcile Russia and Bulgaria.

The Bulgarian Minister of War has gone to Tirnova to make arrangements for affording complete military protection to the Sobranje during its forthcoming sessions. The court-martial has fixed the beginning of November for the trial of the officers under arrest for complicity in the deposition of Prince Alexander.

The Government, in reply to Gadban Effendi's note from the Grand Vizier asking for a postponement of the meeting of the Sobrange in order to allow Russia and the Porte time to negotiate for a choice of ruler of Bulgaria, says the reason given for the desired delay cannot be regarded as sufficient unless the time within which the ruler will be chosen be stated.

The Wishes of the Great Sobrange.

SOFIA, Oct. 22.—The regency have received from 300 of the deputies to the Great Sobrange expressions of desire to have the election of a Prince to succeed Prince Alexander concluded not later than the second setting of the Sobrange. All these deputies declare that the country requires the speediest possible settlement of the question. The regency have consented to carry out the wishes of the 300 deputies.

SLAIN BY THE CZAR.

His Majesty Suspects an Assassin in an A. D. C. and Shoots Him Dead.

VIENNA, Oct. 22.—A rumor that the Czar had been killed spread like wildfire in this city yesterday. It probably had its origin in the shooting of an officer by the Czar. It seems that an aide-de-camp, Count Reutern, was awaiting the Czar in the royal palace. The weather being warm the count unbuttoned his tunic. The Czar returned sooner than expected, and Reutern arose hurriedly and began to rebuttion his tunic, whereupon the Czar, thinking that the officer was about to draw a weapon, shot him dead.

[A Berlin despatch says that in response to official enquiries the German embassy at St. Petersburg telegraphs that there is no basis of truth for the story that an attempt has been made on the Czar's life, or for the report that an aide de camp has been shot by the Czar.]

A KUKLUX OUTRAGE.

Raid of Twenty Masked Horsemen on a Colored Church.

JEFFERSON, TEXAS, Oct. 22.—The colored population of Cass county are excited over a Kuklux raid made on them at Douglassville. The trouble arose from the organization of a secret society of colored men, the aim of which is a mystery to the whites. The report gained currency that the society was organized to assassinate obnoxious white planters and drive them out of the country, by burning their property or worrying them until they were willing to sell at a sacrifice. It was alleged that the names of certain white planters had been placed upon a "death roll." Sunday night twenty masked horsemen entered a Douglassville colored church, and at the point of their shot guns forced the negroes to show the records of the society. They carefully examined these, looking for the "death roll," but no such document was found. Although four negro leaders were kicked, cuffed and beaten, they refused to tell the objects of the society.

What Good Does This Effect?

DUBLIN, Oct. 22.—A national school at Caherconlish, West Clare, was wrecked last night by unknown parties. The teacher had admitted to the school, children of boycotted people.

Their other larger mill, known as the Windsor, in which the better class of papers are made, was not injured. There will be no interruption to their business.

The following baseball engagements are reported: Pyle and Daly, of the Newarks, by Chicago; Mattimore of Oswego, by New York; Wm. George, of the Guelph Maple Leafs, by New York; Knauff, of Syracuse, by Baltimore; "Phenomenal" Smith, of Newark, by New York; T. J. O'Rourke, of Portland, Me., formerly of Toronto, by Boston.

The Collingwood Chess Club was organized on Wednesday night last with the following officers: President, K. R. Carpenter; Vice-President, Henry Robertson; Secretary, J. Birnie, jr.; Treasurer, J. G. Bird; Committee: Messrs. Leggatt, Cox, Hogg, Evison and Gullifoyle.

A meeting of the Match Committee of the Ontario Football Union was held on Thursday night to consider the Hamilton protest against the award of the referee in the London-Hamilton match last Saturday. The Hamilton members of the committee were present in full route to University teams will contest the third round to-day week, in Toronto.

R. Moore, J. H. Duthie and J. Hetherington, of the Grand Trunk Rowing Club, rowed a race yesterday from T. R. C. club house to the northern elevator and back. Hetherington went away with the lead, maintaining it all the way and won by three or four lengths, Duthie, who rowed a plucky race but losing on the turn, being second.

It is said that the St. Louis Maroons will be managed next year by Ted Sullivan. He is now in the East after players and he is negotiating with Pyle and Daly of the Newark Club. Three thousand dollars is said to be the salary of the new manager. Gus Schmels leaves St. Louis and will manage the Cincinnati Club.

The Daily Examiner.

SADTURAY, OCTOBER 23, 1886.

Mr. JAMES BROWN, ex-M.P., has been chosen as the Reform candidate for West Hastings.

DR. LANDERKIN, M. P., and Mr. Wm. Irvine were on Thursday nominated by the Reformers of South Grey as their candidates at the approaching elections.

THE Dominion Government are not getting much comfort from the recounts they demand in the Quebec elections. In the case of the Quebec West election the judicial recount, demanded by the defeated Tory candidate, Carbray, and his backer, McGreevy, before Chief Justice Stuart, of the Superior Court, resulted in the increase of Mr. Owen Murphy's majority from 8 to 23. In Montreal Centre a similar count increased Mr. McShane's (Liberal) majority from 364 to 756.

MR. BLAKE quoted Scripture to some purpose the other day. Addressing the Young Liberals of London, he said: "I say, as was said of old, 'Go up and possess this city'"

Thus quoth the Mail, and it goes on in a playful strain to explain that it was Sennacherib who gave orders to "go up and possess this city." After representing Mr. Blake as Sannacherib, the organ gives the Scriptural information that the latter was destroyed in answer to the prayers of Hezekiah. Can it be that the organ wants to make us believe that Mr. Blake is to be destroyed by the prayers of the boodle baggers, bribery brigade, and contract brokers, which go to form the intimate following of the Dominion Government?

A DESPATCH from Ottawa states that the political situation there remains unchanged, the beaten Ross Government are still clinging desperately to power, and the intervention of the Dominion Government in our Provincial affairs is daily becoming more open and more scandalous. There is nothing clearer in the world than that Ross is acting by the orders of his Ottawa masters. Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe are constantly journeying backward and forward between Ottawa and Quebec, and holding interviews with him, and the conviction is general that the object of all their confabulations is to arrange for his holding on to office against the will of the Province, until the Dominion Government have all their plans laid for their own general elections, which are now believed to be very imminent.

WHEN Dr. Kane spoke in the Opera House in Peterborough, he distinctly asserted, as all who heard him will remember, that he did his best to maintain order at the time of the Belfast riots, and that, as a peace-maker, he was deserving of of something like canonization. He also gave the audience to understand that his party was not responsible for the aggression that led to the riots. An investigation into the cause of the riots is now going on, and the divisional magistrate for the Northern Division of Belfast swore that Dr. Kane, as well as a Tory M.P., took a very belligerent attitude in the riots last June. The reader can take his choice as to believing Dr. Kane's oratorical statement from the stump or the Belfast magistrate's solemn oath.

IN the Peterborough Review appears an article devoted to the vilest abuse of the French-Canadians, and comparing them to Cree Indians—the lowest of savages. Mr. Carnegie, M.P.P., the managing director of the Review, must have not only a short memory but a heart full of the blackest ingratitude. He knows, and everybody knows, that he owes his election to the votes of those very French-Canadians in the South Ward, whom he now abuses by calling criminals and murderers and by placing them on the same level as savages. Thanks to the efforts of prominent French-Canadians in town, the almost solid French-Canadian vote was polled in his favor. It must be very pleasing to these gentlemen and to the electors that voted for Mr. Carnegie at the last general election, to be now denounced as criminals and murderers, and placed on a level with the heathen Cree Indians.

Figures Can't Lie.

Says the Warder:—"Lindsay has purchased already this year three times as much barley as has Peterborough. Indeed many farmers convenient to both towns drive to Lindsay feeling sure that regular honest prices are quoted." This statement is backed up by figures, however, and until such are forthcoming the public should not rely too implicitly upon its accuracy.

THE SUIT IS SETTLED.

Mr. Gale and the Equitable Life Co. agree on a Compromise.

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—The evidence in the case of R. W. Gale for an injunction against the Equitable Insurance Company to prevent the company from appointing another agent in Montreal, was continued to-day, but late this afternoon an amicable settlement was arrived at. When Mr. Gale was notified that the company wished to replace him by Hon. S. P. Stearns, he demanded payment of $150,000. This the company refused, and Mr. Gale then took an injunction to restrain the company from appointing another agent. The company, however, offered $110,000, and by arrangement this afternoon Mr. Gale is to get $115,000. Mr. Gale and counsel left for New York to-night to arrange details.

Illness of the Czarewitch.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The illness of the Czarewitch was first noticed five years ago when he began to suffer from heart disease, epileptic attacks and rheumatism. The only physician who had the courage to tell the truth was Professor Hoffman, who was thereupon made the victim of the furious rage of the Czar and has not since been consulted. The patient's symptoms have gradually increased in severity, and he is now suffering from a complicated affection of the lungs.

Thirty-Third Degree Officers.

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—At a meeting of the Supreme Council Thirty-third degree A. and A. rite of Freemasonry, held here the following officers were elected for the ensuing three years: Sov. Grand Commander, John V. Ellis; Lieut. Grand, J. H. Murton; Secretary General, Hugh Murray; Treasurer, Hugh A. Mackay; Grand Chancellor, Daniel Spry; Deputy for Ontario Daniel Spry, for Quebec E. Copeland, for New Brunswick R. Lester Peters, for Nova Scotia Dr. Partridge, for Manitoba H. Swinford, for Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland G. T. Gunther.

Handsome Highway Robbers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Two handsome young women, Annie Pischow and Rosie Nelson, aged 20 and 18 years, were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday charged with deadly assault and highway robbery. A German woman named Mary Schlenker, living with her husband and family at 3343 Wentworth-avenue, said that Wednesday evening she was set upon by the two girls and knocked insensible. She was then robbed of a cloak and her purse. Pischow was fined $60 and Nelson $20.

FIVE MILLION POUNDS.

By T. WEMYSS REID.

"Mr. Fenton," he said, rising to his feet, "grief has distempered your imagination you ought at least be able to put some check upon your tongue when you receive a gentleman who has come to you in a spirit of the purest friendship."

I laughed bitterly. "Friendship, purity!" I cried. "Don't I tell you, sir, that I have found you out—that I know now for what purpose this sweet girl whom you have made your unconscious tool, and whom you have now abandoned to a shameful death, was adopted by you, given a name to which she had no right, and palmed off upon a man with whom she had no relationship. I know it all, sir, and the meaning and end of it all. Everything has been done on a grand scale, I confess. Nobody thought that the magnificent Dr. Branksome was a vulgar scoundrel, plotting by day and night to obtain possession of Mauleverer's millions!"

"Ah! I see it all!" he replied, in tones in which there was veiled irony, that I found it very hard to bear. "I thought that it was grief for Daisy that had turned your brain. I see now that you have been listening to the slander of a convicted thief, a discharged servant, a would-be assassin, and that, influenced by his malignant fables, you are inclined to mourn rather Mr. Mauleverer's money than the fate of his niece. If that be so, Mr. Fenton, I must wish you good evening. I can bear a great deal for Daisy's sake, but I decline to keep any terms with a man who really believes such slanders as those which Gregson has imparted to you."

He turned to go. A sudden thought struck me. I went forward and laid my hand upon his arm.

"Dr. Branksome," I said, trying to keep down the surging emotion which seemed to stifle my utterance, "I may have wronged you. I don't know. All I know is that you are a wonderful man, and that, in spite of the hideous crimes of which I cannot help feeling that you are guilty, I am drawn towards you in a way that I cannot explain, even to myself. Will you hear me when I cry to you for mercy for Daisy? See, I will grovel at your feet if you will but promise to save her! Take all the accursed money that Mauleverer possessed, do with it what you will, but save her! As you hope for eternal happiness hereafter, as you dread the punishment which sooner or later falls upon every wrong-doer, be merciful, and let the poor child escape from the net that has been woven around her."

As I live, when I looked up into that handsome face, I saw tears in the man's eyes. My own were dim enough, but they were not mistaken in what they told me they saw. He grasped my hand with the warmth and firmness of a brother's greeting, and for once his measured tones were broken as he answered me.

"Fenton, you are an honest man! Forgive me if I used rough language just now. On my part I forgive you all your suspicions of me. You shall hear from me again, and perhaps then you will not think so hardly of me as you do at present."

His hand was on the door when he turned and said: "I think my memory is failing. I had clean forgotten one of the objects of my coming to see you. It was to ask whether, on the occasion of your visit to Great Lorton, you by any chance took away with you a small pocketbook belonging to me—a little diary in which I make memoranda, in short hand, of things which happen to interest me, but which are of no importance to anybody else."

If he had put this question to me two minutes before I should openly have exulted over him. As it was, so great was the power which this extraordinary man was able to wield over those around him, that I answered him now in a manner that might almost have led a bystander to imagine that I regretted the fact which I had to communicate to him.

"Yes," I said gravely. "I took possession of the book you mention. I did not know that it was yours; I imagined that it belonged to Finter. It is not in my possession now. Bielski, the detective whom I employed to discover Gregson, took it to London with him yesterday, and I received this message from him to-day."

I handed to Branksome the telegram which announced that the secret of the cipher had been discovered. He glanced at it, and as he did so I fancied that a slight pallor passed over his face. But he returned the paper to me with a steady hand, and it was in a voice which showed no trace even of the emotion he had displayed when he responded to my appeal on behalf of Daisy that he said:

"It is curious that they should think they have discovered my cipher. The very fact that they talk of the contents of the book as important, tells me that they are utterly wrong. But I must not detain you longer, Mr. Fenton. I promise you that you shall hear from me within the next twenty-four hours."

In another moment he had silently quitted the room.

The "answer-to-wire train," as it is called, reaches York from London shortly before ten in the morning. It brought with it Bielski, who had telegraphed to apprise me of his coming, and whom I accordingly awaited on the platform. The detective looked somewhat haggard and excited when he greeted me.

"Mr. Harding here?" he said. "I am glad of it. I want you both. I have something very important to lay before you."

We hurried to my room, where Harding awaited us. Breakfast was on the table; but Bielski seemed little disposed to eat or drink until he made his great communication to us. The instant the waiter had left the room he addressed us.

"Gentlemen, it is all right. The young lady is as innocent as a dove, and in forty-eight hours she'll be as free as we are. You were right, Mr. Fenton, in your guess at the way it was done; and now I can prove it."

What was it that made the little detective, with his shrewd, keen face, stop suddenly in the middle of what was evidently meant to be a long harangue? It was simply the sudden springing to his feet of Harding, whose hands the next moment held mine, and were violently shaking them, while, with a voice curiously unlike his usual one he gasped out: "Old fellow—so glad—God bless you!"

And I? But I shall not worry the public with any analysis of my emotions. It was a dark December morning; oh, how unlike that bright summer weather in which Daisy and I had first met and learned to love each other! But when these words fell from the detective's lips, the summer sun shone out again, and the birds sang in my heart, and the very heavens seemed to be opened above me.

"I don't wonder at your being upset, gentlemen. I feel a bit queer myself; but you must really compose yourselves and listen to what I have to tell you. I never had such a story to tell before. Lor bless me! I'll never believe in clever men again. Every one of them is alike. They play their game so beautifully that you think there can be no catching 'em; and then, lo and behold! you find that all the time they have been playing your game, too, and in the way that you least of all expected."

Having delivered himself of this exordium, Bielski took from his pocket a small parcel, from which he duly extracted the fifth memorandum book I had found at Great Lorton Hall.

"This book, gentlemen, is neither more nor less than the diary of Francis Branksome, Esquire, M. D., for nearly the whole of the present year. And in it Dr. Branksome has set down, all as plain as a pikestaff, the whole history of his own proceedings during that time, and of the crimes which he has committed, including the murder of Mr. Mauleverer, and the plan by which the suspicion of that murder was to be thrown upon Miss Stancliffe."

A cry of horror broke from the lips of Harding. For my part, I sat spellbound and silent.

"I never saw anything in my life before to compare with this, gentlemen," continued the detective, chafing his hands emphatically. "I have seen many queer things in my time, but never anything like this. Here's a clever man, an educated man, a man who thinks that he can take in everybody around him, and that we are all nothing more than chessmen to be moved about by him as his pleasure—aye, and a man who does move people about just as he pleases for year after year; and yet this clever man is such a fool that he thinks he can put his secrets into writing, and prevent anybody discovering 'em, simply because he mixes up two systems of short hand, and makes one of his own out of 'em, in which to keep his diary." Bielski looked round as though to ask our opinion on the subject.

"I remember," said Harding, "a case of a murderer in Paris who was convicted through a diary in which he left a record of all his crimes."

"Do you indeed, sir? Well, all I can say is that it is the first time I've come across such a case. But now, gentlemen, I must tell you what the diary says. It took me and my mate all day yesterday and down to three o'clock this morning to translate it; and we shouldn't have got done with it yet if it hadn't been that luckily this clever Dr. Branksome had chosen for his cipher two systems, both of which my friend happened to know."

Thereupon Bielski produced a large batch of manuscript, and he began to turn over the pages, most of which I saw were covered with his handwriting.

(To be Continued.)

"We say at night, 'Would God the day were here,'
And we at dawn, 'Would God the day were dead.'"

How well Swinburne has emphasized the feelings of thousands of Earth's fairest daughters, who are laid prostrate by disease's fell hand. But, instead of the anguish of despair, what a song of joy ascends from the hearts of those ladies who have used Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," and by its means been restored to the glorious sunshine of health. It is a positive remedy for those derangements, irregularities and weaknesses so common to our best female population. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists. 6dis42

West's World Wonder or Family Liniment is a remedy that no well regulated household should be without, as it is a positive cure for rheumatism. It is invaluable for sprains, cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, and all diseases requiring external application. 25c. and 50c. per bottle. All druggists. dwo

Consumptives, do not despair. There is hope. Try West's Cough Syrup. It will always cure in early stages. Procure a dollar bottle of your druggist and be cured. dwoct

CAPTAIN WILLIAM SLATER, No. 37 Granville Street, Halifax, N.S.
N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Specialist, Toronto.
DEAR SIR,—When you visited me in the latter part of January of this year I had been given up to die of consumption by a consultation of Physicians, Drs. Reid and Oliver, prominent physicians of Halifax who considered that my recovery was simply impossible. I had no hope myself nor had my family. When you expressed a hope of my recovery it was received with a doubt. Confined to my bed, very low, weak wasted, night sweats very bad troublesome cough, raising large quantities of matter—in fact every appearance of a speedy death. After using your Respirator and Spirometer and medicines I began to recover very fast, so much so that during three hard winter months I have gained from 20 to 25 lbs., and was able to walk out on Easter Sunday. My strength is daily increasing, and I shall be able soon to be at work. To you I owe a debt of gratitude, and an anxiety for others who are suffering as I was to consult you. You can make what use of this letter you see fit, and thanking you for what I consider a most wonderful treatment.
I remain, yours truly,
(CAPT. WM. SLATER.

New York Excursion via G. P. R.

On Tuesday, Oct. 26th, one of the grandest as well as the cheapest excursions of the season will be run over the Canadian Pacific and New York Central Railways to New York. The excursionists will reach the city in time to view the unveiling of Bartholdi's statute of "Liberty Enlightening the World." The ceremony in connection with this will be on a magnificent scale and will form one of the most interesting events that has ever occurred on this continent. The trip itself will be full of interest; the scenery along the line of the N.Y.C. is amongst the finest in America, while the elegant palaces on wheels that comprise the C. P. R. trains are lauded by travellers from every clime. Tickets from Peterborough for the round trip have been reduced to $11.15, and are good to leave New York up to Nov. 1st, inclusive. Further information will be promptly and cheerfully given on application at C. P. R. station or up-town office.

Victory for the Salvationists.

Chief Justice Wilson at Toronto yesterday gave judgment quashing the conviction of George Martin, a Lakefield Salvationist, for creating a disturbance in the public street of the village of Lakefield by beating a drum, tambourine, etc., contrary to a by law of the village. The penalty imposed, by Mr. Jas. Gelborne, convicting justice, was $1 and costs, to be levied by distress, and in default of levy, imprisonment for ten days. His Honor in rendering his decision quoted from a speech of Edmund Burke. The conviction was quashed without costs and on condition that no notice should be brought for anything that might have been done under the conviction. Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., solicitor for Mr. Golborne and for the village of Lakefield, has signified his intention of appealing from the decision.

The Event of Next Week.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week the greatest novelty in the line of church entertainments—a Mikado social—will be held in the school room of St. John's Church. No pains have been spared to make this the most successful and attractive social event of the season. The decorations will be entirely Japanese, and refreshments and Japanese bric-a-brac can be purchased at a booth, presided over by ladies attired in the gay and unique costume of the Japs. An interesting programme, including several selections from the "Mikado," has been gotten up under the direction of Mr. Seward, which fact is a sufficient guarantee of its excellence. Doors open at 7.30; concert commences at 8. Admission, 25 cents.

Cheese Factory Burned.

Friday forenoon the Normanhurst cheese factory in Smith township, about four miles from town on the Omemee Road, took fire from a spark lodging on the roof, and was burned to the ground. The cheesemaker was at work at the time, and with the assistance of neighbors, managed to save the stock of cheese with slight damage. The cheese press was also got out and one vat, but the latter was so badly broken it is of little use. The building was a frame structure and was insured, with contents, for $900.00. The factory will be rebuilt, but whether on the old site, is not decided.

Fun for the Little Folks.

Friday afternoon after the schools were dismissed all—or nearly all—the little folks trudged down to the Opera House, where, after paying five cents admission fee, a talking machine, dexterously manipulated by a travelling "professor," revealed untold wonders to their youthful imaginations. Afterwards they were delighted by watching the antics of three boys, with hands tied, attempting to eat apples suspended from the ceiling by strings, and other similar innocent amusements. They screamed themselves hoarse and pounded the floor with their tiny feet from beginning to end of the performance.

Hammering Away.

Mr. M. Carton the pushing proprietor of the Bon Marche is bound to give the public big bargains in all kinds of goods, even if he has to hammer them out. Beginning Tuesday evening next he will allow the public to set their own prices. Then he begins his great auction sale of dry goods, ready made clothing, boots and shoes, groceries, etc. No man can do better for you than Mr. Bon Marche Carton. After selling you goods all the fall at prices which took your breath away, he now allows you to fix the prices yourself. Be sure to attend his auction sale. Accommodation provided for ladies.

Shipment of Live Stock.

Mr. Wm. Duncon, the well-known dealer in live stock, has been making some heavy shipments recently. Saturday last he shipped three car loads of cattle—one to Buffalo and two to Montreal. Yesterday 417 lambs were despatched to New York. Mr. Duncon contemplates further shipments of stock next week.

Organ Recital.

Professor Parker is arranging for a grand organ recital to be held about December 16th. The choir of St. Paul's church will commence practice for the event next week, so as to be fully prepared.

A Vested Suit.

At this season of the year when stoves are being overhauled and cleaned, it will be of interest to everybody to know that sheet iron, stained by handling, dampness, rain or salt water, can be successfully cleaned by the use of Sapolio pulverized cement. No. 3 (as a finer quality would not take hold and a coarser would scratch) and enough sp olive oil. Take a soft cloth or piece of chamois and apply to the stain, rubbing vigorously in a circle (so as to avoid scratching.) Continue this until the stains are obliterated, then go over the whole surface. Afterwards apply a little oil with a cleaner rag and rub off dry, which will give it an appearance of finish equal to new. This may have been known to you out of every twelve, but their hyperbolas has never been successfully applied. For this information we are indebted to an old hardware man, who has experimented a good deal in this line and knows wherof he speaks.

The Corn Festival.

The corn festival to be given in Bradburn's Opera House by the ladies of the George street Methodist Church, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 26th, promises to be a most original and taking affair. The bill of fare includes "Corn Hulled with Milk," "Samp with Milk," "Corn Mush with Milk," "Raised Corn Bread;" "Corned Beef with Pickles;" "Boiled Indian Pudding," "Baked Indian Pudding," "Corn Starch Pudding," "Corn Starch Dandy Jack," "Corn Starch Lemon Pie," "Corn Starch Custard Pie," "Corn Starch Cakes, in all varieties," and "Coffee," besides an intellectual bill of fare consisting a veritable corn-scopic of musical gems. The entertainment of the season. Admission 25 cents.

A Novel Entertainment.

Those who desire to enjoy a pleasant evening will do well to note that Stuart Rogers visits Peterborough on the 5th of November, and will appear in the Opera House that evening. The entertainment he will present is both novel and interesting. The first part consists of dramatic recitations, and the second is mac'e up of character sketches. These sketches are gems of pathos and humor and are given with the aid of a lightning apparatus, changes in dress, wigs, etc. All the changes from one character to another are made instantaneously and in the presence of the audience. The variety of expression is obtained solely by Mr. Rogers' wonderful facial power, unaided by lining or painting the face. The entertainment is novel, refined and of a high order of artistic merit.

A Vexatious Case.

The important case Bertram & Co. vs. the Massey Manufacturing Company, was decided yesterday afternoon before His Honor Judge Cameron. The defendants purchased by contract a quantity of iron from the plaintiffs, which, after it had been delivered and a portion of it used, they claimed to have been of an inferior quality. The plaintiffs brought an action for the full amount of the contract, $14,000. The defendants claimed damages for non-fulfillment of contract. The jury's verdict gave the defendants $200 damages and allowed the plaintiffs the value of the iron actually delivered and used. With costs, amounting to it is said about $7000 or $8000, to defendants.

Market Items.

The market was unusually large this morning. There was an abundance of almost every article of produce, potatoes being fairly numerous. They were quoted at 50 to 60c. a bag; apples in large quantities at 50 to 60c. a bag. Meat by the quarter was plentiful at from 4½ to 5½c. a pound; mutton at 6 and 7c. a pound. The butter market was well stocked, butter commanding 15 and 20c. a pound; eggs, for local use, 19 and 20c. a dozen; geese, 50 to 60c.; turkeys, 50 to 75c.; chickens, 35 to 40c. a pair; ducks, 35 to 40c. The prices of roots and vegetables remain about the same.

Wandering Bovines.

Residents of the north ward are complaining loudly that every night cattle wander at will through the streets and commit depredations wherever possible. Of course, though, the cows can't be blamed; it is their solemn duty to violate the provisions of the cow by-law at every opportunity. But their owners may be called upon to pay a fine for allowing their cattle to run at large. Only the other day a citizen was fined for an offence of that kind, and his case should be an example to others.

A Great Lecturer.

Mr. J. R. Van Zandt, representing Mr. Justin McCarthy, M.P., the famous Irish historian and politician, was in town Thursday and has arranged for a lecture to be delivered by that celebrated speaker, in the Opera House, on November 22nd. The subject of the lecture has not yet been decided upon. He delivered his first lecture in America Sunday night last in Boston. He will deliver in all 100 lectures in Canada.

Lively in Slippery Places.

The directors of the Toboggan Club are determined to render this sport more interesting than ever, and for this purpose are erecting two electric light poles from which will be suspended two lights—one near the gate and the other near the slide in the Riverside Park. This will be a great convenience to "sliders."

Committed to Gaol.

John Carr, who keeps a boarding house on George street, and was fined recently for a violation of the Scott Act, has been arrested for non-payment of the fine and sent to gaol. John Condon, keeper of a temperance house on Simcoe street, for a similar offence, will keep him company.

A Great Convenience.

It is said the Auburn Woolen Mills Co. have arranged with the G. T. R. Co. to allow the old unused railway bridge to stand till spring. This bridge is of great convenience to the employees of the factory, especially in winter, who are saved many a long walk around by the Smith street bridge in order to reach their homes.

Battalion Inspection.

It is expected Col. Villiers, Brigade Major, will be here on Monday to inspect the men and accoutrements of the 57th Peterborough Rangers. The Battalion, headed by the band will parade in the evening.

Cheese Shipment.

To-day Mr. B. Green, for Mr. Claxton, shipped another car load of cheese for the eastern market, being the wind up of the September market. The October cheese, which has already been contracted for at September prices will be shipped about the 15th of next month.

Tried To-day.

The man and woman committed to gaol by Police Magistrate Damble yesterday, for burglarizing Mr. A. A. Goodfellow's store at Fraserville, elected to tried summarily, and appeared before Judge Weller at the court house this afternoon at three o'clock.

Special Excursion to New York.

A grand special excursion to New York will take place on Tuesday Oct. 26th per G. T. R., Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg, and Hudson River Railways. Tickets will be on sale at T. Menzies, Agency, Peterborough, on Oct. 25th and 26th. The tickets from Peterborough are $11.15 and are good to return, on connecting roads till November 1st inclusive and on the Grand Trunk till November 3rd inclusive. Parties of 40 and upwards can have a special day coach reserved from Ogdensburg to New York, by applying to Mr. T. Menzies before Oct. 21st. All trains have first class coaches. The scenery along the route of this excursion is exceptionally grand. The trains land at the Grand Central depot. The city is now at its full height of commercial and amusement activity and altogether the excursion in its unparalleled cheapness, is one well worth taking in. Secure your tickets at Mr. T. Menzies' agency, George street.

No Police News.

The police court this morning was as devoid of interest as last year's voters' list—in fact nil. Not even a drunk graced the docket this morning, and the reporters were thereby cheated out of a news item. Better things are hoped for Monday.

Best for Howden.

Church Weddings.

The celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of George Payne and Sarah Edwards took place on Oct. 6th, inst., at the old homestead, Riverside Villa, in the township of Dummer. All the surviving brothers and sisters of the happy couple, with their husbands and wives, were present, nine venerable [illegible]. Their own family [illegible] daughters, with [illegible] children, fifty-[illegible] dependents. The [illegible] their [illegible] happy [illegible].

All the [illegible] portraits of a rich [illegible] adorned the parlor, and the company were invited to the parlor, and the Rev. John Toveland, on behalf of the family and friends, offered congratulations, made a few observations, and presented the aged couple with several handsome, useful and valuable gold-en and other presents, one of which was a very beautiful hymn book, the gift of Mr. Payne's class. The dear old man could not control his emotions for some moments, but, after gaining self-possession and expressing his gratitude for the gifts received, he gave a brief sketch of the history of the settlement since 1831, their hardships, privations, difficulties and dangers, his marriage, conversion through the instrumentality of his wife, and all the way the Lord had led them these many years. This was followed by a few statements made by some of the aged veterans, giving reminiscences of the past and acknowledging the Divine hand as the source from whence prosperity had come.

All through these fifty years of happy wedded life, death has never entered their home. One daughter is a widow, and two grandchildren have died, but how few out of so many in so many years!

But the most gratifying feature of the whole celebration was the fact that each of the ten children were members of the household of faith and all are members of the Methodist Church. Happy family! May the blessing of the God of Jacob abide with them forever.

JOHN TOVELAND.

Dummer, Oct. 18th.

Church Chimes.

In the morning the Rev. I. Tovell will occupy the pulpit of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, and in the evening the Rev. F. H. Wallace, B. D., will preach on "Honest Doubt."

A student from McMaster Hall, Toronto, will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist Church to-morrow at both morning and evening service.

Usual service will be held in the basement of the George St., Methodist Church to-morrow, pending completion of the improvements to the auditorium, which it is estimated will not be completed for two weeks or more.

Services in the other churches will be held as usual.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eod w41tf

High Praise.

The well-known firm of N. C. Polson, & Co., of Kingston, writes that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has long been considered the best remedy for Summer complaints in the market, and adds that their customers speak in the highest terms of its merits. Wild Strawberry is the best known remedy for Cholera, Dysentery and all bowel complaints. 2w42&d

A Housekeeping Ho Hum Hum—After W. S. Gilbert.

I have wandered far and wide in my search for furniture,
And the very plaudit comes at last Two streets it pays—
For plain and fancy furniture—the most substantial make—
I patronize D. Bellegham—he always "takes the cake."

His fancy goods and table prices I never can resist—
I've got him on my list;
His shop will never be missed.

When I furnished all my house, in the noblest kind of style,
I got my goods at Bellegham's, and found it worth my while;
For both upholstering and style were all the heart could crave,
And I marvelled very meekly at the prices which he gave.

Now I send him all my friends, and they ever all insist
They've got him on their list;
His shop will never be missed.

When I sought the oldest couch wherein to rest my head,
I found the thing I sought in Bellegham's "Dominion Bed"—
In fact for everything required from attic room to hall,
I make my way to Bellegham's, and there I get them all.

Without his first-class furniture I find I can't Strike—
He I've got him on my list;
His shop will never be missed.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kind, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co. 106 Wall St. N. Y. 204-26w-dv

RUPTURE CURED

IN FROM 20 TO 90 DAYS BY WEARING

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN.—Being over 70 years of age, and over 20 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spiralless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down. It holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Special Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child ever; and 19 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for new pamphlet; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. EVENTFUL VOYAGE.

EXCITING INCIDENTS ON AN OCEAN STEAMSHIP.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The last voyage of the steamer America seems to have been an eventful one. The following is the story as given by the log: The America left Queenstown on Thursday morning a week ago with fair weather, but within two hours after leaving the harbor a storm came up, which the officers of the ship describe as the most violent that the vessel ever passed through. C. t. Grace went to the bridge as the first sign of bad weather and remained there for forty-two hours, exposed not only to the wind and rain, but to the waves, which during Thursday night washed clear over the bridge, filling the lifeboats with water and clearing everything from the decks that the force of ten feet of water could move. In the midst of the storm a stoker, who had narrowly escaped being hurled into the fire by the pitching of the vessel, deserted his post and rushed upon deck with the avowed intention of jumping overboard rather than risk again the danger of his work. He was forced back to the furnace room, but his fright soon developed into insanity, and he was found crouching between two furnaces in abject terror, awaiting another opportunity to commit suicide. He was placed in irons. At the same time a panic was created in the steerage by the alarm of "fire," and several hundred men and women rushed to the hatches endeavoring to get to the boats. Dense volumes of what seemed to be smoke throughout the ship caused the alarm, and the officers in charge had a desperate fight for some time to control the frightened steerage passengers. Investigation showed that the "smoke" was merely steam, caused by some water having washed over hot steam pipes. But again fright had developed into a case of insanity and one of the steerage passengers, an Englishman who had deserted his family and his position on an English police force, now attacked the stewards with a razor, and threatened to kill any one who tried to prevent him from jumping overboard. He was placed under watch after being disarmed, and became quieter after the storm had subsided. A cook was severely injured during the storm by being thrown across the kitchen with a knife in his hand, cutting his head.

About noon on Saturday Capt. Grace left the bridge, the ship being entirely out of danger. But his forty-two hours' exposure without sleep, and the nervous strain caused by the chapter of incidents referred to, was too much for him. Five minutes after coming off duty the reaction developed into a congestive chill, and at 11.30 p.m. he died. His daughter was with him.

On Sunday morning the insane Englishman succeeded in breaking away from his guards in the steerage, and amid great excitement among the men, women and children who witnessed the struggle, he leaped overboard and was drowned. On Monday a baby died in the steerage and it was buried in the sea next morning.

A ROUGE ROUND ROBIN.

Thirty-Five M.P.P.'s Pledged to Oust the Quebec Government.

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—The Star says while the Hon. Mr. Mercier denies the existence of a round robin he admits that he is taking steps to procure a majority by obtaining the signatures of as many of the members as possible to a document declaring want of confidence in the Ross ministry. A very intimate and consequently extremely well informed friend of the hon. gentleman goes a step further and informed the writer that the document had been sent to Quebec there to obtain the signature of other adherents. It was, he said, addressed to the Lieutenant-Governor, and its tenor was to the effect that the eighers had been elected in opposition to the Ross Government that they were prepared to vote non-confidence in it, and were ready to support any Ministry formed by a member of the Opposition. They do not, however, mention the name of the Opposition member upon whom the Governor should call to form a Ministry, and this omission is by the Ministerialists considered fatal to Mr. Mercier, inasmuch as several of those members who have signed the document are as much opposed to Mr. Mercier as they are to Dr. Ross. They therefore believe they see a likelihood of either Mr. Justice Taschereau or Mr. Justice Angers being called upon to form a Ministry. The following is a list of those who are said to have signed. Dr. Chamberland's name does not appear, but he has sent a letter setting forth his attitude, which is friendly to Mr. Mercier.

1. Pilon, Bagot; 2. Pinsonneault, Beauharnois; 3. Sylvestre, Berthier; 4. Beaubien, Chambly; 5. Dr. Trudel, Champlain; 6. Marin, Charlevoix; 7. Robidoux, Chateauguay; 8. Desmarais, Drummond and Arthabaska; 9. Jeannotte, Dorchester; 10. Demers, Huntingdon; 11. Mayer, Jacques Cartier; 12. Rodier, L'Assomption; 13. Garneau, Kamouraska; 14. Dr. Ross, Lévis; 15. Lacroix, Lotbinière; 16. Lemieux, Maskinongé; 17. Laliberte, Montcalm; 18. Bertrand, Montmagny; 19. Beaudin, Nicolet; 20. Matthews, Richmond; 21. Lafontaine, Napierville; 22. Bourassa, Shefford; 23. EPISCOPAL COUNCIL.

REVISION OF THE CHURCH CONSTITUTION AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The House of Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church resumed its deliberations this morning. Four messages from the House of Bishops relating to amendments to the constitution were concurred in. A message relating to the special care of immigrants recommended that the Bishop of New Jersey be Corresponding Secretary of the commission, and that communication be opened with the Archbishops of Canterbury, York, Armagh and Dublin and the Primate of Scotland. The message was concurred in. A message recommending that the canon relating to lay readers be amended so as to make the period of the licenses longer than one year was not concurred in by the house. The house then went into Committee of the Whole to consider questions affecting liturgical revision.

The special topic was alterations and additions proposed for adoption by the convention, and after submission to the dioceses for the next three years for final adoption at the next convention. These changes differed from the alterations and additions hitherto considered in that, unlike the latter class, they require three years for final ratification. The form adopted at the last convention and submitted to the dioceses in the book of notification was concurred in, the House of Bishops having already decided in its favor. For the "order how the Psalter is appointed to be read," and for the "order how the rest of the Holy Scripture is appointed to be read," the general order "concerning the services of the church," including an enlarged table of proper psalms, and a table of selections of psalms is substituted. By the action of the deputies much new matter not only in form but in substance is afforded, and the net result is a marked enrichment of the portion of the prayer book containing what is permissive and mandatory in the service of the church. Further revisions of the book will be acted upon Monday.

The election to-day of two bishops, the readjustment of missionary jurisdictions completed the work of an exceptionally interesting convention week. A most impressive ceremonial was observed in the election. The places filled were the missionary jurisdictions of Nevada and Utah, and Wyoming and Idaho. After all the bishops had partaken of the communion the election to the episcopate was proceeded with, several informal ballots being taken. Finally, on a formal ballot, Rev. R. M. Kirby, rector of Trinity Church, Potsdam, N. Y., and a presbyter of the diocese of Albany, was declared elected Bishop of Nevada, and Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, rector of St. James' Church, Mason, Mo., declared Bishop of Wyoming and Idaho.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The first general convention or council of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, an Episcopal Church organization which originated three years ago in Chicago in St. James' parish, was held in Central Music Hall last evening. Delegates were present from twenty chapters, representing eight dioceses, extending from Connecticut to Nebraska. A constitution was adopted, a central committee elected and preparations made for greatly extending the brotherhood. The objects of the organization are embodied in two vows taken by all its members: To pray daily for young men, and to labor individually to bring young men into the church.

HAMILTON'S CHIEF OF POLICE.

The Commissioners Receive a Large Number of Applicants—No Appointment.

HAMILTON, Oct. 23.—The Board of Police Commissioners held a lengthy meeting to-day, and the question of a successor to Chief Stewart was considered. Applications for the position were read from George McL. Brown, George B. Smith, Sergt. Smith, L.A. Studdart, Sergt. Prentice, Geo. Harris, J. C. Macpherson, Detective McKenzie, Hamilton; Septimus A. Denison, Alex. Pilsworth, Toronto; H. Heighman, Quebec; Thos. W. Wynn, Niagara Falls; Chas. E. Torrance, Burlington; Hugh McKinnon, Belleville; F. W. Randall, Guelph. There was also one from William Brothers of Milton, but it was bogus. Each had a batch of testimonials.

Magistrate Cahill offered this resolution: "That this Board desire to record the fact that Captain A. D. Stewart has discharged the duties of his office as Chief of Police in this city, for over six years, with great ability and integrity; that the Board record their regret that the city of Hamilton is about to be deprived of his services, and express the hope that he may speedily find an office elsewhere of advantage to himself, being well assured that he will in the future as in the past prove a most efficient, valuable and trustworty officer in any position he may be chosen to fulfil."

Judge Sinclair seconded the motion. His Honor said:

"I do indeed regret that we are to be deprived of his services. If we get to succeed him as efficient and as worthy an officer as he has proved himself to be the city may well have reason for congratulation. I can only re-echo the wish expressed by the resolution that he may find elsewhere a position of advantage to himself. I have told him frequently that he is making a mistake in resigning, but that is his own business, not ours. In the six years of his administration crime in Hamilton has decreased to almost nothing. He has worked on the principle that the prevention of crime is better than care."

Mayor McKay: I would ask the commissioners to leave this over till next meeting. I don't want to take any steps that will injure Captain Stewart's future, but I would rather facilitate it. I'd rather this was laid over.

The Judge: What for?

The Mayor: Till I consider it. I don't want to do anything that will reflect on my own conduct; I haven't any ill-feeling against Mr. Stewart, and I want everybody to know it.

Chief Stewart smiled at this declaration, and the Judge seconded the motion to adjourn the matter, saying that he hoped to see the Board unanimous.

PROGRESS OF PLEURO-PNEUMONIA.

The Disease Still Existent at Chicago and Other Points.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Arrangements were begun to-day for the slaughtering to-morrow, if practicable, of eighteen of the supposedly healthy cows at the quarantined Phenix distillery. One animal at the Chicago distillery died to-day, and three fresh cases of disease among Morris' steers at the Phenix distillery were discovered. Live Stock Commissioner McChesney refuses to comply with the cattle owners' request to have the appraisement of the quarantined cows to arbitration. He says that when the Live Stock Board is financially able to pay for the cattle the appraisers will be appointed by the board. All the diseased animals at the Phenix will probably be slaughtered Monday. Those shown to be others stricken will be compensated for.

The Disease in Pennsylvania.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 23.—The State veterinary surgeons to-day visited the farm of Thos. Ambler, at Bellemaida, this county, where a herd of twenty cattle have been discovered suffering from pleuro-pneumonia. The diseased killed have animals and inoculated the remainder. Two others have already died from the disease.

Of Grave Sin's in Canada.

GLASGOW, Oct. 23.—William Helmsgrave, bookkeeper and cashier for Stewarts, Stenhy & Simpson, jewelers, has been missing since Tuesday. It is reported to-day that his accounts are $30,000 short. It is believed he is in Canada.

FRANCE AND BRITAIN.

THE RELATIONS OF THE TWO COUNTRIES STRAINED.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The relations of England with France are becoming critical under the persistent and open diplomatic enmity which is exhibited by the French envoys at Pera, Berlin and in Austria. This is done, of course, under instructions from M. de Freycinet. M. Waddington instructed also by the French Government returns to London to demand the evacuation of Egypt by the end of April. It is reported that M. de Freycinet has directed the French Ministers of War and Navy to prepare a scheme for an attack on England. The memoir to the War Department does not contemplate an invasion of England and therefore no general mobilization is necessary. Under cover of concentrating the French naval forces in the Mediterranean two corps d'armee are to be landed in Egypt to force the capitulation of the English there. A serious check to these bellicose plans has already been experienced by France at Berlin. M. Herbette, who was sent to interview Count Herbert Bismarck in the matter, has been warned by Prince Bismarck that he disapproves of a forced evacuation, as England has occupied Egypt as mandatory of the Powers, who by diplomatic concert could ask her to withdraw. France's project would be hostile to this understanding and pacific arrangement and could not be allowed to be carried out.

De Freycinet Urged to Persist.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The Figaro urges Premier De Freycinet to plainly put to England the question whether she will evacuate Egypt. "It is veritable treason," says the Figaro, "to miss the only opportunity the London convention affords France to bring this subject before Europe and demand that the English withdraw from Egypt by the date the convention fixed for it." The paper then asks whether an interpellation or a demonstration is necessary to awaken the mind of the French government to a remembrance of France's rights in Egypt.

A Hamilton Vessel Wrecked.

HAMILTON, Oct. 24.—The schooner Ella Murton of this city was wrecked while going from Weller's Bay to Cleveland, Ohio, with 200 tons of iron ore on Thursday. She was towed to Port Dalhousie, and the captain arrived here Saturday. After the crew deserted the ship they were three hours before reaching shore.

In Behalf of Sproule.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Mayor Fell of Victoria, B.C., arrived here this evening to endeavor to have the Government pardon or commute the sentence of Sproule, an American citizen. He will present a petition signed by a majority of the citizens of Victoria, requesting clemency for the condemned man.

The Daily Examiner.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1886.

THE REAL CAUSE OF THEIR DOWNFALL.

In reply to an article in the Mail in reference to the defeat of the Ross-Taillion Government, which the organ admits, the Montreal Herald, edited by Hon. Peter Mitchell, a life-long Conservative, has the following in reference to the real causes of their defeat: "The Province of Quebec has been slower than any other to believe the revelations that have been made of late concerning the way in which the Government of Canada has been carried on at Ottawa. The Riel episode, concerning which, by the action of La Minerve and Le Monde, the French of Lower Canada were much excited, served to bring Ottawa under more critical examination, and to show to the French people that many of those things so persistently denied by the Gazette, La Minerve and Le Monde were true. They found that these organs of the Government had wilfully and unmeaningly deceived them about Riel's fate, and they came to see that their utterances about other matters were equally unreliable. Thus the solidity of the support they had given Sir John was shaken, and on the first opportunity they showed that they had withdrawn their confidence, not merely from him, but from the smaller people at Quebec, who are practically controlled by him. The other principal provinces being already in the hands of the Reform party, it only required the defection of Quebec to remove the autocrat from power, and to place the management of the country in purer and more responsible hands. In this way the Mail is correct. On the subject of Riel, however, there is some misunderstanding in the West. The anger that was aroused in Quebec owed its intensity to the manner in which the people of this province had been deceived. They did not for a moment allege that the fact of Riel being a Frenchman should save him; they pleaded that, considering the provocation the halfbreeds had received from the Government, and that Riel had come into the country on the invitation of these perplexed people, a commutation of his sentence would be a graceful concession. They were promised by La Minerve and Le Monde, the mouthpieces in this matter of Sir Hector Langevin and Mr. Chapleau, that their request would be granted, that Riel would not be hung, that they need not be alarmed, his life would not be sacrificed. It was the execution in spite of these assurances that created that anger which led to mass meetings, violent denunciations of the Government, and so on. It led also to an examination of Sir John's claims to continue as the autocratic ruler of Canada' and to the determination that he should give place to another. The Mail's complaint that the habitant, "or rather the vast institution" which controls him, has ruled Canada ever "since the Union of 1841," and its appeals for war against Lower Canada are deprived of what force they might otherwise have by the fact that from the time when the first number of the Mail was printed until the hour when Quebec showed signs of withdrawing its support from Sir John, not a line against the church or the French ever found place in its columns. It readily accepted their support; it was warm in its eulogies of those it now attacks; its columns were ever ready to defend them so long as they supported Sir John; and therefore its discovery of the evils which for so long were championed by the Mail, is not of that value which it might otherwise have. Even the Conservatives of Ontario will hardly be much moved by the Mail's appeals, and the Reformers, unless they are very silly people, instead of being the hard headed reasoners they are described, will recognize the fact that their hour of victory is near at hand, and that their enemies are merely trying to destroy them by appealing to what they hope may be an unreasoning hatred.

Ennismore.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The travelling public will feel grateful to W. B Kelly, caretaker of Mud Lake floating bridge, for the prompt manner in which he has repaired its late injuries, which were worse than at first anticipated. Although the bridge was broken in five places, and one piece turned around by the fierce gale on the night of the 14th, by stopping his other works and putting on all available hands, on the 20th traffic was resumed without any further inconvenience, excepting a small stoppage on Saturday morning.

A GRAND SOCIAL.

A grand social will be held at the residence of Mr. Samuel Young, Ennismore Cross, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 3rd. Everybody invited. Tickets 75c a couple.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of rev-nue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain at the same size. eodw41tf

"Regardless of Cost."

Assistant (to employer)—"Please, sir, what shall I mark this new lot of new silks at?" Employer—"Twelve shillings a yard." Assistant—"But the cost price is four shillings a yard." Employer—"I don't care what it cost. We are selling off regardless of cost."

What is Needed

By every man and woman if they desire to secure comfort in this world is a corn sheller. Putnam's Corn Extractor shells corns in two or three days and without discomfort or pain. A hundred imitations prove the merit of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which is always sure, safe and painless. See signature of Polson & Co., on each bottle. Sold by medicine dealers. 6dw43

Results Tell.

The proof of the pudding is the eating, and the proof of the extraordinary power over pain of Polson's Nerviline is in using it. Polson's Nerviline never fails to perform wonders in every case of pain. It cannot fail, for it is composed of powerful pain subduing remedies. It goes right to the bottom and pain is banished at once. Nerviline cures all kind of pain, internal or external. Go to any drug store and get a 10 or 25cent bottle, and be delighted by its prompt aide in doing its work. 6dw43

A Severe Trial.

Those who endure the torturing pangs of neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, and similar painful complaints are severely tried, but there is a speedy relief in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, as thousands who have used it joyfully testify. It banishes pain and lameness quickly. 1w43d

Important News Item.

Cookstown.—Mrs. Campbell had been troubled for a number of years with Indigestion Constipation, and was induced to try McGregor's Speedy cure and found it all that was needed, and I would recommend its use to any person similarly troubled. This invaluable remedy is sold in every part of Canada at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Sold at John McKee's drug store. eodw43

High Praise.

Mrs. John Neelands, writing from the Methodist Parsonage, Adelaide, Ont., says: "I have used Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam in our family for years. For heavy colds, sore throats and distressing coughs no other medicine so soon relieves. 1w43d

"My friend deciphered, and I wrote down as he read it," he explained to us. "I am not going to trouble you with the early part of the story, though there is plenty that I shall have to deal with afterwards. I'll keep straight to what concerns this case. Here is the first extract after he has seen you, Mr. Fenton: 'Arrived Scarborough six a. m. Went ashore at eight, and joined the boss and Daisy at Grand hotel. The old man very well; appears to have got over the attack of bronchitis. Looks as if he might live twenty years yet. Had the usual business talk with him, and settled everything satisfactorily. No suspicion of Fordyke's game.' 'Fordyke's game,' said the detective, breaking off suddenly, 'was to transfer an immense number of Manleverer's bonds into portable and transferable securities. The rogues were determined, whether the man lived or died, to dip their hands into his pockets. 'Found to my disgust that Daisy has made the acquaintance of a young man named Fenton. I suspected something from her manner of speaking of him. It seems that he protected her from that brute Gregson at York railway station, and she repays him by falling in love with him. I made an opportunity of observing them both closely. There is no doubt that he is fond of her, and I find that he has got an influence over her which I must destroy as speedily as possible. A commonplace, inoffensive young man, but in my way, and therefore to be got out of it.'

"This extract affords a fair sample of the perfect frankness with which Branksome had committed his thoughts to paper. There was not the faintest attempt in the diary at self-deception. If he told a lie, he said so straight out; if he committed any crime, trivial or great, it was described with cynical plainness of speech. If the whole of that extraordinary volume were to be published it would be one of the most interesting psychological revelations ever given to the world.

But it must suffice for my purpose here to give but a brief series of extracts from the diary. The entry referring to my visit to the hall was as follows:

"September 20.—This morning I procured from London my old medicine chest. Found a good supply of strychnia. Ascertained that the boss had got a new box of pills from Carrick yesterday. Have been busy experimenting all the morning, making up powders in imitation of Carrick's. Fenton came on a visit just before dinner hour—more desperately in love than ever. After dinner he and Daisy went into the garden together, and I set Flinter to watch them. He was the witness of a very pretty love scene—Daisy and her young gentleman billing and cooing in the most approved style. When I got the boss away from his guest at night I told him the whole story in my own fashion and let him know that I had ascertained quite enough to prove that Fenton was a scamp, probably in league with Gregson. I had a little difficulty with him at first. He seemed to have taken rather a liking to the lad. But when I told him that he had been speaking contemptuously of him (Manleverer) to Daisy, and speculating upon the chance of his dying soon, and leaving them in possession of his wealth, his temper changed, and he became furiously angry, and told me that Fenton must be got out of the house immediately after breakfast to-morrow morning. Flinter, I find, has grave suspicions that Fenton knows something, and insists upon his being removed from the spot at the moment the grand coup is struck."

Then came other entries describing my departure from the hall, and the way in which Branksome succeeded in inflaming the mind of the doomed Manleverer against both me and Daisy. Finally came the story of the execution of the vile plot itself.

"October 7.—Daisy was sent off to Little Lorton with strict orders to procure enough strychnia to poison all the rats in the hall. Brought back a big parcel of the stuff, and seemed quite frightened at having it in her possession. Am keeping up the estrangement between her and the boss. Went into the latter's room to-night after he had gone to bed, and suggested that he did not look well. Proposed he should have one of his powders. He assented to this, and I duly administered it to him. On taking the powder from the box in the dressing room, I slipped in my own powder of strychnia. I saw that the powders were taken in regular order, so placed mine near the bottom of the box. It will come due, I calculate, in a fortnight.

"October 8.—Left hall this morning for Scarborough and the yacht. Fordyke went with me, having waited the old man's request that he would complete his new will at once. Query: That will is not very likely to be executed now, is it? Took an affectionate leave of the old gentleman, and felt really sorry to think I should see him no more. On getting to Scarborough, found it was a stormy day. Flinter had carried out my orders about Fenton, and the latter was safe on board the yacht's 'kitty.'"

This particular book ended at this point. There were no further entries after that relating to my abduction.

"Now, gentlemen, you see it all," said Bielski, when he had finished the reading. "We have to do with the greatest scoundrel the Lord ever sent upon this earth. But we have got him tight." He pulled out his watch. "By this time, Mr. Fenton, our friend, Dr. Francis Branksome, ought to be safe in the hands of the Scotland Yard detective whom I brought down from London, but whom I did not think it absolutely necessary to introduce to you in the station two hours ago."

"You have got a warrant against him?"

"Of course we have. When we had found as much as was necessary out of this book, I rushed off to Scotland Yard, and left that part of the business in their hands. It will be all right provided Branksome has not got a hint."

"I am afraid he has got a hint," I said, feeling more than a little guilty.

"Eh, what do you say, Mr. Fenton?" cried the detective, wheeling round upon me and eyeing me sharply.

I told him the whole story of Branksome's visit to me, and of how he had even seen the telegram which Bielski himself had dispatched. Bitterly did I now upbraid myself for my folly. I saw how the villain, by that momentary assumption of affection, had even more overmastered me, and held them from me the surest hope ever to learn.

The detective wasted no time in any remonstrance. He snatched up his hat and rushed from the room. When he was gone, Harding and I discussed the possible results of Branksome's escape. Anxious as we were that he should be brought to justice, our chief thought was for Daisy; and we cared little what became of the villain now that her life and honor were secure.

In little more than half an hour poor Bielski returned, with chagrin written in unmistakable characters upon his face.

"Just what I expected," he cried; "the rogue has been too sharp for us, after all; but, thank God, he has not gone until the young lady has been as good as cleared."

He threw a telegram upon the table. It was from the chief constable at Scarborough, in answer to one from Bielski, announcing that the Golden Hawk had sailed that morning, destination unknown, carrying with her Dr. Branksome and Benjamin Flinter.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM SLATER, No. 37 Granville Street, Halifax, N.S.
N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Specialist, Toronto.
DEAR SIR,—When you visited me in the latter part of January of this year I had been given up to die of consumption by a consultation of Physicians. Drs. Reid and Oliver, prominent physicians of Halifax who considered that my recovery was simply impossible. I had no hope myself nor had my family. When you expressed a hope of my recovery it was received with a doubt. Confined to my bed, very low, weak wasted, night sweats very bad, troublesome cough, raising large quantities of matter—in fact every appearance of a speedy death. After using your Respirator and Spirometer and medicine I began to recover very fast, so much so that during those hard winter months I have gained from 20 to 25 lbs., and was able to walk out on Easter Sunday. My strength is daily increasing and I shall be able soon to be at work. To you I owe a debt of gratitude, and am anxious for others who are suffering as I was to consult you. You can make what use of this letter you see fit, and thanking you for what I consider a most wonderful treatment,
I remain, yours truly,
CAPT. WM. SLATER.
Later.—Fully recovered and at work.

CURES ALL HUMORS,
from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections. "THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,
which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

New York Excursion via C. P. R.

On Tuesday, Oct. 26th, one of the grandest as well as the cheapest excursions of the season will be run over the Canadian Pacific and New York Central Railways to New York. The excursionists will reach the city in time to view the unveiling of Bartholdi's statute of "Liberty Enlightening the World." The ceremony in connection with this will be on a magnificent scale and will form one of the most interesting events that has ever occurred on this continent. The trip itself will be full of interest; the scenery along the line of the N.Y.C. is amongst the finest in America, while the elegant palaces on wheels that comprise the C. P. R. trains are lauded by travellers from every clime. Tickets from Peterborough for the round trip have been reduced to $11.15, and are good to leave New York up to Nov. 1st, inclusive. Further information will be promptly and cheerfully given on application at C. P. R. station or up-town office.

Inoculation.

According to the Port Hope Times, Mr. Principal Sawyer, of the Peterborough Business College, was in that town making preparations to inoculate Port Hope with some of the surplus energy and enterprise of Peterborough by opening a branch of his Business College there. The Times truthfully says: "Mr. Sawyer requires no introduction, as he has already placed the Peterborough Business College upon a good sound footing, and may be relied upon as a man who is eminently qualified for the carrying on of the enterprise in this place. The Times heartily wishes the Port Hope Business College every success."

Hammering Away.

Mr. M. Carton the pushing proprietor of the Bon Marche is bound to give the public big bargains in all kinds of goods, even if he has to hammer them out. Beginning Tuesday evening next he will allow the public to set their own prices. Then he begins his great auction sale of dry goods, ready made clothing, boots and shoes, groceries, etc. No man can do better for you than Mr. Bon Marche Carton. After selling you goods all the fall at prices which took your breath away, he now allows you to fix the prices yourself. Be sure to attend his auction sale. Accommodation provided for ladies.

Bertram vs. Massey.

The result of the great iron case of Bertram & Co. vs. Massey Manufacturing Co., concluded in Toronto last Friday, as published in the Toronto papers on Saturday, is incorrect. The suit involved the sum of $14,000, and judgment was given for the plaintiffs with costs.

High Commendation.

An Indiana paper says: "Mr. Stuart Rogers has no equal on the American platform as a dramatic entertainer. As an imitator in voice, modulation, attitude, and facial expression, he cannot be surpassed." Mr. Rogers visits Bradburn's Opera House on November the 5th. Take a note of it.

A Great Attraction.

St. John's school room on Wednesday and Thursday will be the scene of one of the most diverting social entertainments held in Peterborough. Those nights the Mikado social will be held. Reserve these evenings. Admission 25 cents.

A Boom in Burglary.

A Busy Band of House-breakers and Pantry Purloiners—A Series of Small Steals.

Peterborough seems to be infested at present with a pretty numerous supply of petty thieves. Within the past two or three nights several houses have been broken into, but in most cases very little booty was secured, the thieves, evidently not experts, bungling their work like veritable greenhorns. The thing is getting monotonous, however, and the police should do all in their power to bring the culprits, whose chief aim seems to be the frightening of law-abiding citizens, to justice. At the same time it behooves every man to see that his house is well protected from the ravages of these light-fingered gentry.

Early Saturday morning last the residence of Dr. Taylor, Sheridan street, was entered through the cellar window, the wire screen of which was torn off and the putty cut away in order to take out the glass. The burglars were evidently impelled to their crime by hunger, as only eatable articles were touched, and these of the most palatable kind. Some apples were carried off.

On Saturday night thieves visited the residence of Mr. James Stetson, Reid street. It appears that the burglars broke away the wire netting that covered the north window and gained access to the cellar, where canned fruit, etc., was stored. There being no communication between this and the other part of the cellar, the hungry thieves forced the window in the south side and enjoyed a bountiful banquet of the larger part of a loaf of bread, two dozen buns and the larger part of a jar of peaches, with butter and fruit cake to match. It is not known whether anything was taken away, but, doubtless, much would have been removed had not the thieves been driven away by some movement in the upper part of the house, a gentleman of the household having come down stairs about one o'clock.

An attempt was made to enter the residence of Mr. R. W. Errett, Park Street, Saturday night or Sunday morning. A ladder was carried from the south side of the house to the north, no doubt for the purpose of entering an upper window, but either being frightened away or seeing no prospects for the success of such a scheme, it was thrown to the ground and left lying there. The lattice-work screen over one of the cellar windows was torn away, but the wire cloth outside the glass resisted the clumsy attempts of the housebreaker, who desisted from his fruitless toil and left for other fields of labor. The same night a fruitless attempt was made on the residence of Mr. A. P. Poussette on Park Street.

Saturday evening the residence of Mrs. Gilmour, Park Street, was entered by burglars, the lower part of the house thoroughly searched. The thieves secured about half of a roast of beef, which had been prepared for Sunday's dinner, a sponge cake, several bottles of preserved fruit, and one or two bottles of strawberry acid. Entrance was gained first through the cellar, whence the burglars worked their way up to the kitchen. They had evidently been looking for money, the sideboard and bureau drawers being open, the contents tossed about, and the pockets of some clothing hanging in the closets turned inside out.

Sunday night the busy burglar entered the house of Mr. E. K. Ostrom, at the corner of Park and Charlotte streets, and took a satchel belonging to Mrs. Ostrom. A gold watch lying near by was not seen. On opening the satchel after leaving the house only a pair of gloves was found in it, and the disgusted thief threw the satchel down and left it, lying on the ground, where it was found next morning. Nothing else has been missed.

About 3 o'clock this morning Mrs. Smith, wife of the headmaster of the Central school, living on Dublin street, Smithtown Hill, saw a man peering through the crevice made by the door being left slightly ajar. She gave the alarm to her husband, who at once arose to see what his visiter wanted, but the fellow had decamped. An investigation revealed that entrance had been gained first to the cellar, where nearly a whole pie had been masticated by the robber. Leaving the cellar he rolled a barrel under the drawing room window, and with an axe forced it open. Then followed a complete "ransack" of the house. Every nook and corner was ferretted into, the burglar leaving easily defined tracks wherever he went. A silver watch and chain was taken from a secretary in the dining-room; a valise belonging to Mr. Tully and a suit of clothes were picked up elsewhere. The clothes were found lying on a couch in the hall, the valise on the steps outside, where the fellow had evidently dropped them in his hurry to escape detection.

Were They Fire-Brands?

A Plot to Burn the George Street Methodist Church Happily Discovered.

As a gentleman was walking down Water street about nine o'clock last night he saw two men standing on the sidewalk in rear of the George street Methodist church, one of them gesticulating wildly. The gentleman stepped in the shadow of a brick pile on the east side of the street and watched the men. Presently they calmed down somewhat and after a few minutes more deliberate conversation jumped over the fence into the church grounds. Perceiving at once that something unusual was in the wind, the gentleman crossed the road, and by careful calculation and quiet movements, succeeded in drawing near enough to the pair to hear their conversation, from which he gathered that they intended to adjacent to the church. In a few minutes they started across the lawn and entered the sheds. He followed as closely as possible, and after intently watching for their re-appearance for a couple of hours, procured assistance and searched the premises, but no traces of the men could be found, excepting that the gates were all left open behind them. Nothing has since been seen of the fellows, but there can be no doubt that, had they not been detected in time, a big fire would have resulted. It is conjectured that the fellows caught sight of their pursuer and escaped through the sheds to George street.

FIRE THE SHEDS

Last night in his sermon Rev. Mr. Tovell referred to the recent breaking of the plate glass in Mr. Flavelle's window, and denounced the act as one of the most contemptible and cowardly on record, and it is supposed that those men took offence and took the means above cited to get revenge.

A Yoke of Yearlings.

The Fraserville burglars, Charles and Clara Reynolds, were sentenced by Judge Weller, Saturday, to one year each in the Central Prison and Mercer Reformatory respectively.

Many Western Ladies Wish Spell-Their Luck in the Happy Hunting Grounds.

On the 11th inst. Messrs. R. Yelland, Wm. Brownscombe and F. Brownscombe left town for Snake Island, in Stony Lake, near Burleigh, where a comfortable cottage had been erected by them in the summer. In a few days they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Yelland, Mr. R. Chown and Miss Branch. Later the party was reinforced by Messrs. J. Dickie, L. Payne, N. Payne, and George Guillett, M.P., of Cobourg. Excellent duck and partridge shooting and fishing was had, game being plentiful. The whole party returned home Friday evening, much benefitted by their outing. Mr. Harry Long, who was to have joined them at the Island, was unable to leave his business, but despatched a basket of grapes and other fruit to his friends, which, through miscarriage of the mails, never reached its destination, and was returned to Peterborough the day after the party's return—sour grapes.

The Eagle Lake hunting party has returned to town after two weeks of excellent sport. It consisted of Messrs. J. J. Landy, R. Landy, R. E. Wood, C.C.A., H. Winch, B. Morrow, R. A. Morrow, J. E. McIntyre, H. Kent, and H. LeBrun, with Mr. Simpson, of Eagle Lake, as guide. The party bagged eight deer and 20 brace of partridge. No serious accidents are reported, though a great deal of amusement was created at the expense of the "green man," who were smitten with the "buck fever." Fishing was good, some superb speckled trout being landed. The hunters, one and all, express themselves highly delighted with their two weeks of out-door sport.

The hunting party composed of Messrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, M. McFadden, M. O'Brien and J. Clancy have also returned home laden with the spoil of the chase. Their bivouac and hunting grounds were in the neighborhood of Bottle and Secker Lakes. Their actual hunting time was only seven days, but so well did they improve their time and take their aim that five deer were laid low. In addition to their trophies of the chase, the speckled spoil of the rod and line was not to be despised, some fine catches of the speckled beauties having been made. The very first night the camp was pitched, that ever fortunate fisher, "Fitz," caught sixteen fine trout, when it was so dark that he had to bait his hook by the sense of touch. He strung his catch on a twig and carried them to the camp in triumph.

The different parties had as a rule very fine weather, and they greatly enjoyed their outing. They have all gained in flesh by their sojourn in the depths of the forest. They not only bring home a plentiful supply of venison, but a good stock of stories of adventure, will serve to add pungency to pipe and punch in the lonely evenings of the coming winter.

Messrs. H. Calcutt, J. Burnham, M. P., Judge Weller, H. Strickland and others leave to-morrow for a trip through the lakes on the steamer "Dot." They will navigate Rice Lake and the Trent river, all the time keeping a sharp lookout for game.

Church Chimes.

Rev. Mr. Torrance at St. Paul's last night preached the funeral sermon of the late Mrs. C. W. Sawers, from the text, (Ezekiel, 24th chap., 16th and 18th verses):

"Son of man, behold I take away from thee the desire of thine eyes with a stroke; yet neither shalt thou mourn nor weep, neither shall thy tears run down.

So I spake unto the people in the morning; and at even my wife died; and I did in the morning as I was commanded."

The sermon was most solemn and impressive the preacher extolling the deceased lady for the unselfishness and kindness of heart which characterised her life, and expressed deep sympathy for the bereaved family. Prof. Parker played the "Dead March" on the organ, while the hymns were all appropriate.

At the Charlotte St., Methodist church, Rev. I. Tovell, in the morning, chose for his subject "Prayer;" In the evening Rev. Mr. Wallace preached on "Honest Doubt." The edifice was filled at both services.

Rev. Dr. Castle, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church on Sunday. He was the guest of Mr. J. C. T. Lacey while in town.

Hon. Mr. Mercier Denies.

To the Editor of the Star: SIR,—I see that Mr. Tarte persists in stating in his paper (Le Canadien) that a well-known jobber bosses of having obtained from Mr. Mercier the promise of payment of claims amounting to $80,000. I do not know of whom he wishes to speak, but I deny most emphatically what he says about me personally. Yours very truly,

Montreal, Oct. 23. HONORE MERCIER.

Lost With All Hands.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 23.—The barge Eureka, reported as having broken loose from her tow, foundered in Lake Superior on Oct. 20, ten miles above Whitefish Point and five miles from shore, in seven fathoms of water, and is abreast of life-saving station No. 9. Had any of the crew been rescued information would, without doubt, have been received at this place. Several steamers have passed the wreck and would have brought the survivors down either from the wreck or Whitefish Point had there been any. The vessel's fore mast and main mast are above the water. She was ore laden from Marquette, and in tow of the steam barge Prentice.

A. C. P. R. Short Line.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—On Monday next the first passenger and freight train will be run on the Canadian Pacific Railway short line, between Perth and Merrickville. All the line from Perth to St. Ann's is now graded, but owing to the bridges not being built connections can hardly be made before midwinter, by which time the entire line is expected to be completed, and to be traveled over by through trains to and from the Pacific.

A Searcher for Explosives.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Col. Majendie, of London, Her Majesty's chief inspector of explosives, is in the city. In an interview he said: "I am in America looking into the question of petroleum, observing the practice and laws here regulating the storage of petroleum. My principal duty is an advisory one to the Secretary of State in regard to petroleum, but it will be secondary with me to learn all I can about dynamite in this country."

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spring less trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. A VOICE FROM CHICAGO.

French Canadians Celebrate the Victory Over their Blood-thirsty Enemies.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—An enthusiastic meeting of French Canadian residents was held last evening. The cause of the gathering was the success of the Liberal party in the recent elections in the Province of Quebec, and its object, according to the announcement of the committee, to celebrate "the glorious victory" obtained over "the cruel and blood-thirsty enemies of French, Irish and English Liberals in Canada." The circular added: "The martyr Riel and the honor of French Canadians have been vindicated and avenged." Dr. J. N. Cadieux made a fiery address. He said there were now 1,000,000 French Canadians in the United States, and that on both sides of the line they were awaiting public sentiment for the elections of Canada to this country. Annexation was bound to come. Cadieux was enthusiastically applauded. Resolutions declaring the election a vindication of the rights and principles of the Canadian French population, shamefully disregarded by the Government at the time of the execution of Riel, were adopted unanimously.

PLEURO-PNEUMONIA INCREASING.

The Disease Breaks Out in Indiana and Virginia.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 25.—A fatal disease which is thought to be pleuro-pneumonia has broken out among the cattle at a point southwest of Wabash, Ind. The animals are dying off in large numbers. A post mortem examination of one of the cows showed plain traces of the disease. There is much alarm in the neighborhood and a quarantine is being established.

A disease which is thought to be pleuro pneumonia has broken out among the cattle twenty miles southwest of Washington, in Howard county. Cattle are dying off in considerable numbers.

ASSAULTED BY ROUGHS.

Chief Babbitt of Picton Terribly Beaten and Kicked.

PICTON, Ont., Oct. 25.—Five or six roughs made a cowardly attack on Chief Constable Babbitt between 12 and 1 o'clock Sunday morning, knocking him down and beating and kicking him shockingly. He drew his revolver and fired twice, the last shot taking effect in the thigh of one of the rascals named Murphy. Five of the party have been arrested. One of them, Arch. Richmond, is still at large. The Chief will be confined to his bed for several days.

DEAD IN THE RUSH.

A Youthful Hunter Found Shot Through a Log Near Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Yesterday morning Emery Richards, about 19 years of age, went out hunting with several companions in a bush near the city. Not returning in the evening, search was made for him, which continued until this morning, when his dead body was found. He had been shot through the lung, but whether by himself accidentally or by his companions does not appear.

Gen. Booth at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Oct. 25.—General Booth, Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, arrived on the early train from London this morning, accompanied by his staff of twenty-four. The general is a guest of Dr. Burns, of the Wesleyan Ladies' College, where he went immediately after his arrival. Having been up the great part of the night, he took a couple of hours' rest, after which the officers of the local corps were presented to him. The balance of the morning was spent in a private staff meeting. The holiness meeting in the barracks this afternoon was conducted by Col. Dowdle, who is Gen. Booth's chief assistant. Gen. Booth and the members of his staff dined at the college, after which the general held a short meeting for the benefit of the students. The meeting to-night was attended by thousands. Corps from all the surrounding districts piled into the city during the day, and over eighty officers were present.

The Situation in the Maritime Provinces.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—In conversation with a reporter the Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who returned from the Maritime provinces yesterday, where he had been together with the Hon. Messrs. McLelan, Thompson and White, said that they spoke at five places in Nova Scotia and everywhere they met with a most enthusiastic reception, and the meetings all through were numerously attended. He expects that the Government will be well sustained in Nova Scotia. Similarly favorable reports were received from New Brunswick.

Hamilton's New Postoffice.

HAMILTON, Oct. 25.—The new postoffice was opened to-day. There are 1060 private boxes. All the arrangements are new and combine the very latest improvements. In the money order department a vast improvement is noticeable. It is large and well furnished, the Government having decided to make this the headquarters for the money order business of Canada, west of Kingston, which change will bring a large amount of business from Toronto and other cities here.

Loss by Fire at Lucknow.

LUCKNOW, Oct. 25.—Last evening the Percy property, owned by Cameron & Campbell, and occupied by Jas. McGowan as an hotel and R. J. McMath as a carriage factory, was totally destroyed by fire. Loss on the building, $3000; insurance, $1500. Mr. McGowan's loss on the contents is about $1000, no insurance. The contents of R. J. McMath's shop were saved, but in a damaged condition; loss about $300, covered by insurance.

Granted an Extension.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—Considerable surprise was expressed when it became known that Cadieux & Derome, stationers, had asked for an extension of time from their creditors. This step was taken as the firm was in temporary financial difficulties. The statement submitted show'd a surplus of $73,000. A delay of 31 months was granted with partial payment every 90 days and interest at 7 per cent.

THE KERRY ESTATES.

LORD LANSDOWNE REDUCES HIS RENTS 20 PER CENT.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—Le Figaro says it is reported that De Giers, Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, will issue a circular to the Powers declaring that native measures are necessary to terminate the anarchy prevailing in Bulgaria on the ground that it is dangerous to the peace of the Balkan States and offensive to Russia.

The Crawford-Dilke Affair.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Evening News publishes the notes which Sir Charles Dilke, after his trial in connection with the Crawford case, handed to a committee of gentlemen formed for the purpose of making inquiries into the merits of the case. The committee is now at work upon its investigation, and Sir Charles Dilke has sent to it new evidence which he has recently obtained. The committee will within a few months publish the evidence taken at both trials.

Sir Charles Dilke's Life Task.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—In response to renewed and pressing appeals Sir Charles Dilke has finally and emphatically declined to re-enter public life until he has disproved the "gross, unjust calumnies" against him, to which object, he says, his whole life will be devoted.

The Skye Crofters Boycotted.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The crofters of Kilmuir, Isle of Skye, attacked a force of police who were assisting the sheriff to make evictions and the military had to be called on. The crofters were dispersed with bayonets. Several of them were wounded and six were arrested.

ON THE KERRY ESTATES.

Lord Lansdowne Throws Off From 20 to 25 Per Cent. in the Rents.

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—The tenants on the Kerry estates of the Marquis of Lansdowne, Governor General of Canada, have been notified that their rents may be paid on the basis of an abatement of 20 per cent. on the November rents fixed by the court. Lord Lansdowne also decided, in view of the prevailing low prices of live stock and agricultural products, to accept an abatement of from 20 to 25 per cent on the ordinary agricultural rents not touched by the court.

Justin McCarthy's Victory.

LONDONDERRY, Oct. 25.—Justice O'Brien, who presided over the contested election case of Lewis against Justin McCarthy for a seat in the House of Commons, to-day formally declared Mr. McCarthy elected. Mr. Lewis was found guilty of illegal practices and ordered to pay Mr. McCarthy's costs.

CAPITAL CONFIDENCE IN IRELAND.

The New Guinness Company Stock Subscribed for Twenty-fold.

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—The Dublin Grocer's and Vintners' Society at a meeting to-day adopted a resolution praying the new Guinness company to allot an equitable proportion of shares to Irish applicants. The Bank of Ireland on behalf of customers has applied for £900,000 worth of shares and three Dublin stock brokers for £500,000 worth each. It is now believed that the capital will be subscribed twenty-fold. The Parnellites exultingly point to this as proof that capitalists have ample confidence in Ireland.

A STEAMBARGE BURNT.

Seeing a Chance of Saving Something a Companion Vessel Sinks Her.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 25.—The steambarge William Rudolph with a tow of two barges, all loaded with Norway bill stuff, reached Lake St. Clair early Sunday morning. When abreast Grosse Pointe the wheelman discovered flames issuing from the hold near the smokestack. Finally the engineer and firemen were compelled to abandon their posts to save their lives. Capt. Ryan signalled the steambarge Cleveland, which came alongside the burning vessel. The captain of the Cleveland considered that the only way to save the Rudolph was to sink her, and he adopted a novel way to accomplish the desired end. The Cleveland steamed away from the burning craft and then came up behind her at full speed. She struck the Rudolph a heavy blow and stove a large hole in her below the water line. The Rudolph filled, and her stern sunk until it struck bottom. The upper works of the Rudolph were entirely destroyed, besides which her hull is badly damaged by fire and the blow from the Cleveland. It is thought that she can be raised without much trouble. Her cargo, consisting of 175,000 feet of Norway bill stuff, was valued at about $17,500. The Rudolph was owned by Vanauben of Saginaw, and measured 328 tons. She was valued at $20,000, and insured for $15,000.

THE STATE OF THE SAMS.

How Prohibition is Prospering in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 25.—Prohibition at Atlanta has encouraged the jug trade. On every train reaching the city there is a large consignment of jugs filled with whisky. These jugs are carried off by Prohibitionists and anti-Prohibitionists alike. The poorer people, who cannot afford to send for jugs, are besieging the druggists for pure alcohol, the sale of which is permitted. They make all manner of excuses to get it.

American Humor in an Official Report.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The News to-day has a humorous leading article on the report of the evidence produced before the U. S. Senate Committee on the international copyright. The article says the report is full of American humor, and is extremely interesting to all concerned in books, but that "beyond the harmless diversion its pages may afford, the English people are not likely to get much good out of it at present."

The Catholic Church in Prussia.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—Baron Von Schloezer, the Prussian representative at the Vatican, has transmitted the proposal of Cardinal Jacobini, Papal Secretary, for the appointment of a special commission to define and regulate the relations of the state with the Catholic Church in Prussia.

Nine Men Lost for One Boy.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Particulars have been received of the loss off Singapore recently of a boat containing nine men belonging to the bark Earl of Jersey of Cardiff. The men were attempting to rescue a boy who had fallen overboard, when the boat swamped and all were drowned.

Semi-Prohibition in Iowa.

SIOUX CITY, Oct. 25.—Another sensational move in the prosecution of the Sioux City saloon-keepers will probably be taken to-day. On June 23d D. W. Wood was employed by a committee from the churches and temperance societies to procure injunctions against saloon-keepers in Woodbury county. Up to September 16th, eighty-seven writs of injunction had been served. There were in Sioux City 103 places where intoxicating liquor was sold in violation of law, and about eleven places where liquor could be bought legally. Now there are more than 60 dram shops open.

A Thief After Nineteen Years.

TROY, N.Y., Oct. 25.—Ulric Bohl, who robbed a pawnshop in Montreal last week, was captured here to-day with seventeen gold watches, one silver watch and two diamond rings. He stole the jewelry from Mrs. D. Lazareth, in whose employ he had been for nineteen years.

A Boy Murder.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 25.—August Valentine was set upon Saturday night by John Lavin, John Dixon and David Oregan, and so badly kicked and bruised that he died this morning. The murderers are all boys. Oregan is in jail

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1886.

WHO ARE THE REAL REBELS?

Our local Conservative contemporary is dolorously ringing the changes on the remark of Hon. Wilfred Laurier that if he had had the provocation and unjust treatment dealt out to the Halfbreeds in the Northwest, he would, had he been there, shouldered his musket also. Of course, he is denounced as a rebel and perjurer, and all that. Mr. Laurier merely put into other words the axiom of Justice, to the effect that the really free citizen will neither advise nor submit to arbitrary measures—such as the confiscation of lands, etc. The Review is very sensitive on this point, yet it has never had a word of rebuke for Dr. Kane, who, representing the Tories of Ireland, threatened to "kick the Queen's crown into the Boyne" if she signed a Home Rule bill; no word of condemnation for Major Sanderson, a Tory M.P., who advised and urged to rebellion if the Home Rule bill became law. What would it call the action of the Tories, not so very long ago, who, because the Queen, represented by Lord Elgin, in the exercise of her prerogative, ran counter to the interests and objects of the Tory party, burned the parliament buildings and insulted her in the person of her representative? What of the band of loyal Tories, who at Kingston, because the plans of the party were thwarted, formed an annexation league? Were they not rebels more than Mr. Laurier, who is so warmly denounced? The half-breeds did not rise against the Queen's authority, but against the unjustly usurped authority and oppression of the Dominion Government seeking to rob them of their lands, and then only when they found that all peaceful means to get justice had failed. Lip loyalty is the strong point of the professional Conservative politician. He is the quintessence of loyalty to the crown so long as his party enjoys power and can carry out its policy of self-seeking, but the moment the loaves and fishes slip from his grasp, then he is a rampant rebel—he is ready to upset the Queen's throne and make a football of her crown to give proof of his loyalty. O, loyalty, what rubbish is written in thy name by Conservative newspaper scribes!

The Baillieboro' Central.

From pressure on our space, we have not before had room for the prize list of the third annual exhibition of the South Monaghan, Cavan, Hamilton, Hope and North Monaghan Central societies.

The exhibition was held on a most miserably wet and unfavorable day, but there was a list of entries close on to 1,000, and largely in advance of last year. There was a good show of cattle, sheep and pigs, and unusually fine specimens of good horse-flesh.

In agricultural implements Mr. P. Hamilton made an excellent show, and Messrs. D. Ferguson, H. Jewison and R. Parker were also present with various implements. In cutters and buggies, J. W. Lucas showed the latter, and Mr. R. Butler the former.

The attendance was fair, indeed, considering the weather, exceedingly good. The following is

Live and Learn!
THIS is a maxim which may be wisely applied to municipal and business matters as well. I would respectfully call attention to the fact that I have just returned from the wholesale markets where I have purchased my well assorted stock of
BOOTS AND SHOES,
For the Fall and Winter Trade.
I would specially call attention to my Boys' and Mens' Balmorals, warranted to keep out wet and snow; Ladies' and Childrens' Boots and Shoes, Rubbers, Overshoes, etc. Altogether the best and cheapest stock of boots and shoes ever placed on the local market. Everything guaranteed first-class. Give me a call at my shop, corner of Hunter and Sherbrooke Sts, and you will save money thereby.
All of my stock has been made by hand. None of it has been sewed by machinery to rip and give out after a few weeks wear.
Repairing neatly and promptly executed at cheap rates.
I wish to return thanks to those who so kindly bestowed their patronage on me since commencing business one year ago, And I trust by giving good value to merit a continuance of the same

CHAPTER XVII.

DR. BRAMESOME'S LAST.

Early on the day following that on which Blaikie had interposed to his extraordinary discovery, my chief friend Harding found himself at Whitehall, in the room of the permanent under secretary of the home department. Belmore was with him, and they had already drawn up a brief statement of the facts which had been discovered with regard to the murder of Mr. Mauleverer and the actual position of Daisy. One by one Mr. Belmore placed fifty facts before the great official, and showed not merely how the strong evidence which had been brought against my darling at the trial had been shattered by subsequent discoveries, but how there was now positive testimony—testimony of an extraordinary kind, indeed, but still testimony which was conclusive—with regard to the actual criminal and his real accomplices, for whose arrest warrants had been issued.

The under secretary listened with patience and attention, and then armed with the documents which they handed to him, he went to the apartment of the secretary of state. A few minutes later they stood in the presence of the minister himself.

"I have been deeply interested in this case, Mr. Belmore, and very much troubled by it. It was so difficult to believe that a young girl could have been guilty of a crime of this sort. And yet the evidence was apparently complete, and unfortunately I have too much reason to know that we can never trust absolutely to antecedent improbabilities in cases of this kind."

"But now, sir, I think you will admit that the evidence is clear as far as it goes, and that it establishes the innocence of this young lady."

"I must see the judge first in the matter," replied the minister, cautiously.

"And may I venture to ask," interposed Harding, "that you will act as soon as you possibly can, sir! I need not point out to you the cruel position of this young lady at the present moment, or of those to whom she is dear."

"My dear sir, I shall act as does; in such a case delay would be inexcusable. But you must forgive me if I withhold my own opinion until I have ascertained that of the judge."

Half an hour later I received the telegram for which I was waiting with breathless impatience at York. Alas! it did not announce, as I had hoped might be the case, the immediate discharge of my darling. Patience! patience!

But at nightfall the glad news came. "Secretary of state will advise queen to grant free pardon. Formalities can be completed to-morrow."

And the next day I was at the castle by daybreak, waiting to be admitted to the governor's room. I was too soon, of course. Even when officialism acts with unwonted speed, it cannot outstrip the impatience of a lover. It was now the 16th of December. In a week longer Christmas would be with us. Twelve days had elapsed since I had heard the shameful doom pronounced upon my beautiful darling—the woman whom I had chosen out of all the world as worthiest and best, aye, and who had chosen me, all unworthy as I was—to keep that tender heart of hers—the purest and truest that ever beat in a human bosom.

Only twelve days since that awful scene when Daisy and I had seemed to stand together within the very jaws of death! I could not believe it. Half of my entire life appeared to have been expended in the varied emotions through which I had passed since then. The officials of the prison were long, long in coming. I walked to and fro impatiently. I declare this waiting now was harder even than had been that waiting for the verdict, when my darling's fate hung in the balance. I recalled all the history of those eventful four months which had passed since I first saw her in her peerless beauty, and the full flush of health and strength, in the railway station of this very city; and while I rejoiced more than ever at the blessing which had been bestowed upon me in her love, my heart cried out to heaven for pardon for all those errors which in my recklessness and blindness I had committed, and from which she had suffered. Ah, if it could but have come over again, how differently I should have acted, and with what loving care I should have shielded her even against that infernal network of lies which had been woven so cunningly about her! So I thought, as I looked back upon it all; and so, possibly, it might have been if that strange drama could have been re-enacted. But who can tell? Even now, when I fully recognise the blunders of which I was guilty, the folly, the blindness, the stubbornness I displayed in my dealings with Mauleverer and his friends, I sometimes ask myself whether my blunders may not have been more useful than my prudence would have been.

But what is that sound? The door opens, and I turn to greet the governor with the longed-for news. No; the governor is not there. It is my darling herself who stands before me, pale as a statue of marble, worn and wasted by the strain of an agony which might have brought even a strong man to the grave, but with all the light of life and love shining upon me from her star-lit eyes.

We were at Scarborough two days later

We were at Scarborough two days later, staying once more in the Grand hotel. The great house was practically empty now, and Daisy and Mrs. Cawthorne might, if they wished, have had their choice of any of the rooms in the building. I had indeed Hardinge come with us to the place where [illegible] first met [illegible] and where I learned to love this true and tried friend as I had loved few men before.

It was on this second day of our stay in the hotel that I received the following letter from the arch villain who had so nearly by his crimes marred the lives of both Daisy and myself. The letter had been posted at Whitby on the 17th, on which day Mauleverer's body was found in the river Esk, [illegible] to say, it had been directed to me, not at York, where the doctor knew that I was staying, but at Great Lorton Hall, from which place it had reached me, after some delay, at Scarborough.

A Way Behind Hagyard's Sheep.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Corporation Counsel Hoffman rendered an important decision regarding the licensing of bucket shop speculating institutions, yesterday. His opinion is that while the state laws on gambling are not broad enough to cover the bucket shops, the latter are not, in fact, brokers, and should not be licensed as such. A vigorous warfare against these pools will be begun.

No Free Trade for France.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The committee appointed by the Chamber of Deputies to consider the bill for taxing all foreigners carrying on business in France and the bill making it obligatory on all contractors on public works in France to hire only Frenchmen, have decided to report favorably upon the first measure.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM SLATER, No. 37 Granville Street, Halifax, N.S.

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Specialist, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—When you visited me in the latter part of January of this year I had been given up to die of consumption by a consultation of Physicians, Drs. Reid and Oliver, prominent physicians of Halifax who considered that my recovery was simply impossible. I had no hope myself nor had my family. When you expressed a hope of my recovery, it was received with a doubt. Confined to my bed, very low, weak wasted, night sweats very bad, troublesome cough, raising large quantities of matter—in fact every appearance of a speedy death. After using your Respirator and Spirometer and medicine I began to recover very fast, so much so that during three hard winter months I have gained from 20 to 25 lbs., and was able to walk out on Easter Sunday. My strength is daily increasing, and I shall be able soon to be at work. To you I owe a debt of gratitude, and am anxious for others who are suffering as I was to consult you. You can make what use of this letter you see fit, and thanking you for what I consider a most wonderful treatment.

I remain, yours truly,
CAPT. WM. SLATER.

Later.—Fully recovered and at work

HELLO! BROWN,

"What are you looking so mad about, this morning?"

"Well, I'll tell you, Jones. I bought a very fine Tent from TURNER, and one of my friends wanted to borrow it."

"And did you lend it?"

"Well, I guess not. The last Tent I had got used up by lending. I told him to go to J. J. TURNER, the great Tent maker, and he would rent or sell him a tent."

"You did right, Brown."

GO.

It is remarkable how our Ulsters, Mantles and Dolmans go.

Our success this season has been unparalleled (considering the fine warm weather,) in making up Ulsters, Mantles and Dolmans from our very complete stock.

The autumn chills, the winter snow,
The heavy dew, the pattering rain,
The frosts that bite, the winds that blow,
Invade our Ulsters all in vain.

In services fold's our Ulster thrown,
Yet, round the human form divine,
The perfect fit will still disclose
The rounding form, the curving line.

Faultless Fit, Correct Styles, Good Variety, Excellent Work

at a great saving in price will be found in Alexander's Mantles, Ulsters and Dolmans made to order. Inspect our stock.

Another Scott Act Case.

Hugh Wray, of Ashburnham, has been summoned to appear before Police Magistrate Dumble on Friday to answer to a charge of violating the Scott Act. His premises were searched yesterday by the police.

A North-West Daily.

We have just received the first number of the daily issue of the Calgary Tribune, published by Messrs. Braden & Baillie. It is a neat five column paper, well filled with advertisements, live local news and general news matter. And above all it is sound in its political faith.

A Reclaimed Drunkard.

At the farewell meeting of the Salvationists last night a woman, whose face and general aspect showed decided signs and tokens of dissipated habits, stood up and testified that she had been reclaimed from sin at the Salvation Army meeting Thursday night last, after having been for four years a terrible drunkard.

The Rangers Parade.

The 57th Batt. held drill last night under the command of Major Grover. About 9 o'clock a marchout was formed headed by the Battalion Band. After marching down George Street to Simcoe and back to the tune of the "British Grenadier," the men returned to the shed. Col. Villiers was present but did not take command.

The Death Rate.

The mortuary statistics for September show the deaths in the undermentioned places to have been as follows:—Montreal, 443; Toronto, 209; Quebec, 176; St. Thomas, 17; Charlottetown, 14; Guelph, 13; Hamilton, 69; Halifax, 67; Winnipeg, 48; Ottawa, 95; St. John, N.B., 50; London, 37; Kingston, 17; Hull, 42; Belleville, 18; Three Rivers, 32; Chatham, 9; Sherbooke, 22; Peterborough, 18; Sorel, 24.

Badly Lacerated.

Sunday morning a horse owned by Mr. John Connors, South Ward (Englishtown), was so badly frightened by a train of cars passing by the field in which it was pasturing, that it ran into a barb wire fence, lacerating its neck and mangling its limbs in a horrible manner. It is said some of the wounds in the neck gaped wide enough to permit of the hand being thrust into the wind-pipe. Under Dr. Beatty's care the animal will likely recover.

W. C. T. U.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union held their regular meeting Monday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Owing to the unfavorable weather the attendance was small. Communications were received from Brantford and Ottawa, also a very successful report from Mrs. Green, who has been canvassing for members for a Young Women's Christian Temperance Union, which will be organized next Monday evening in Mr. Green's studio, at half past seven o'clock.

Hammering Away.

Mr. M. Carton the pushing proprietor o the Bon Marche is bound to give the public big bargains in all kinds of goods, even if he has to hammer them out. Beginning Tuesday evening next he will allow the public to set their own prices. Then he begins his great auction sale of dry goods, ready made clothing, boots and shoes, groceries, etc. No man can do better for you than Mr. Bon Marche Carton. After selling you goods all the fall at prices which took your breath away, he now allows you to fix the prices yourself. Be sure to attend his auction sale. Accommodation provided for ladies.

A Collision.

A horse came flying down George street Saturday night in harness, having left the buggy further up the street near Mrs. Connor's grocery, where a few minutes before there had been a collision between two vehicles, with the result that one was upset, the occupants, a lady and gentleman, were thrown out, and the shafts and harness of the buggy so broken that the horse was liberated. Fortunately nothing serious happened, and no injury was done beyond a war of words between the owners of the two buggies and slight damage to the property of the one who was upset. The horse was captured after making a long run and returned to the buggy which was patched up sufficiently to allow of careful usage.

Another Batch of Burglaries.

The Second Last Night's Thefts Transferred to Ashburnham.

This morning it was discovered that thieves had been on the premises of Mr. H. Calcutt, brewer, of Ashburnham, during the night, but, as usual, had gained very little. A trunk belonging to Mrs. Logan, which had been left on the verandah all night, was found broken opened and the contents scattered about, but nothing was missed. The thieves, no doubt, required ready cash, and the supposition is that they either left the rest in disgust or were frightened away by the house dogs.

Mr. J. J. Landy's residence, Ashburnham, was entered some time during the night, but nothing has yet been missed. Mr. Landy this morning found his trousers in the parlor, with the pockets turned inside out, but, fortunately, there had been nothing in them to reward the thief's labor. Mr. Landy's gold watch and chain were in his vest close by the trousers, but were not disturbed. It is surmised that the burglar was frightened away from the house by Mr. Landy's sister, who, a sufferer from asthma, frequently rises during the night to obtain relief from her pain.

That crime is rampant in Ashburnham at present is further proved by the fact that last night some rowdies pasting the house of Mr. Samuel Smith, flung a pair of tongs, stolen from a neighboring blacksmith shop, through a front window of the house.

To-day about noon a lady residing in the Beavis terrace on Simcoe street, had come up to visit the back part of the house. The front door was not locked, and on her return she beheld a stalwart tramp standing in the parlor surveying the room with a critical eye, as though taking a "lay of the land." He slunk away like a cur on the ladies' approach and quickly got out of sight.

Sunday night about 11 o'clock Mr. J. E. Belcher and his niece were sitting in his house reading, when they were startled by noises outside near the window, which were followed immediately by a loud outcry from the dogs, who tugged viciously at their chains and attempted to break loose. Nothing more was thought of the noise, but next morning Mr. Belcher was informed by parties living opposite that they had seen two men prowling around the house the night before.

Vigilance Victimized.

A Nice Little Episode Which Happened Last Night in the North Ward.

Chief of Police Cooper is making a determined effort to get at the root of the recent petty burglaries which have been causing such widespread consternation among our citizens for the past week. For a few nights back the Chief has rarely seen his bed till the wee sma' hours of the morning. Monday morning at 3 o'clock an incident occurred, amusing to out-siders but not at all relished at the time by the parties thereto. The Chief, with his usual vigilance, was in hiding on a street in the north end of the town, wearing an overcoat and slouch hat, looking every inch a daring brigand, where he had reason to suppose some "game" might be captured. At the hour mentioned stealthy footsteps were heard approaching, but the darkness was so intense nothing could be seen. The oncomer seemed to be feeling his way carefully as though to avoid colliding with anything or making a noise. Chief Cooper at once concluded that he had struck "soil" at last. Passing in front of a tree, he confronted his man with the remark: "Hold! What are you doing out at this time of the morning?" in as severe a tone as he could command. His supposed victim was thunderstruck, and threw himself back in an attitude of self-defence, with arms upraised, as though about to annihilate his adversary with a club. The chief drew a revolver, which he thrust almost against the man's face, and in a voice of thunder shouted: "If you make another move, I'll shoot you. I am the Chief of Police; who are you?" "Ohh-h, Capt. Cooper," came the reply in trembling tones, "you nearly scared me to death." He then gave the name of a respectable citizen, and gave as a reason for being out so late—or rather early—a rush of business. The chief and his opposite, after a hearty laugh, separated, each retiring to his home. All respectable citizens are hereby warned to keep good hours, especially while the burglary craze is in existence, as the police are determined to uproot the evil, and every person thus suspiciously seen is liable to arrest and the endless amount of trouble which may follow.

The Corn Festival.

Farewell Forever!

The Canadian Lads and Lassies Who Leave for Salvation Service Bothered by Lots Things in Knowledge.

The Opera House was crowded that night, the occasion being the final farewell to Major Jhai Bhai, Sergt. Narain Gopal, Miran Norga Zatoo (who, it will be remembered, appeared in Peterborough a while ago) and the eight Canadians who have determined to become missionaries to India under the banner of the Salvation Army. They are: Males—Lieut. Jordan, of Coaticooke; Lieut. Scott, of Ottawa; Lieut. Parke, of Simcoe, and Lieut. Locke, of Bowmanville; females—Lieut. Orchard, of Strood; Lieut. Nicholson, of Toronto; Lieut. Leach, of Chatham, and Cadet Squires, of Trenton. These eight soldiers of the cross were dressed in Hindoo clothing, the men with red vests, a white winding sheet around the lower limbs, and a white turban coiled on their heads. The ladies were dresses of some cream colored material, with turbans of the same.

Major Jhai Bhai, in opening, said he was glad to be back to Peterborough after a nine weeks' absence—six of which had been spent in the United States. He was also glad they were going to sail on Thursday to in India. The Sergeant then prayed in his native tongue, which, though not understood by the audience, yet seemed from its earnestness and intelligence to carry conviction to their hearts. A song, with drum accompaniment, by the Sergeant, whose ideas of "time" in music seemed greatly at variance with the regularly established code, created a deal of amusement. The Major again took the floor and spoke of the wonderful work the Salvation Army was doing in India. Though out of two hundred and fifty million people in India, only fifty million were converted, they did not despair. They were doing much to bridge the gulf which exists between the high and the low castes of India. These four lads and four lasses were going to help in the great work there. Their lot would be a hard one. The Salvation Army officer in India is a beggar—he begs his food from door to door from the poor natives. They were going to walk barefooted on the of India; going to be dressed like the lowest native, living out of doors, frequently in danger from wild beasts, frequently like Jesus, the son of Mary, who had nowhere to lay his head; but they were going to do it for Christ's sake.

HOT, SCORCHING SANDS

Lieuts. Park, Orchard and Nicholson then addressed the audience, all expressing themselves fully prepared for the trials and tribulations which they knew awaited them in far off India. The latter was especially affecting in her description of the she was compelled to say to her family, and brought tears to the eyes of many in the audience.

The Major stated that they were going to India distinctly with the understanding that they go forever. He said "when you see that they are willing to go out from their homes to a strange country, I feel confident that you will like to help them." He then stated that the sum of

to pay their expenses, and despatched the officers among the audience with "pledge slips," promising a certain amount and enclosing the money in the slip before returning it to the platform. In this way a nice sum was realized, but the Major at the close of the meeting informed the EXAMINER reporter that he was much concerned as to how the money would be forthcoming, as they had only two more nights—at Ottawa and Montreal—in which to raise the balance, and requests all persons who in the work to enclose what they can in an envelope and address it to "Major Jhai Bhai, Salvation Army Headquarters, Montreal," by Wednesday. The Major and his party appear at Ottawa to-night, at Montreal to-morrow night, and sail from Quebec Thursday morning for India.

WOULD LIKE TO AID

The Sergeant then made an address in Hindoo, which was interpreted into the English tongue by the Major. The Sergeant gave a glowing account of his life in India, the idols worshipped there, the various "fetiches" the priests used for disarming sin, which he had tried in vain, and the manner in which he was saved. The Sergt. at times was carried away by the ardor of his religion, and seeming to forget that not one of his hearers could understand his jargon, shouted at the top of his voice, and scarcely took time to draw breath, until the Major would catch him by the arm and shake him, when he would "wake up" to a knowledge of his position, and give the Major a chance to translate.

In conclusion the farewelling lads and lassies stood up in line, and after singing "I'll Follow Jesus" with great feeling, received some hearty from the Major as to their steadfastness during the life they were going to lead, which was followed by prayer by Capt. Popie and the Major, the meeting being brought to a close by the singing of the doxology.

Afterwards a large number of the audience wended their way to the platform and shook hands with the departing officers, whom they wished God speed in the heartiest manner. A number of soldiers from Millbrook, Lakefield and other places were on the platform and took part in the farewell.

Cheap Tea since 1878.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung trouble. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but the diffusive manner removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the disease makes their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eod&w41f

What to Needed

By every man and woman if they desire to secure comfort in this world is a corn sheller. Putnam's Corn Extractor shells corns in two or three days and without discomfort or pain. A hundred imitations prove the merit of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which is always sure, safe and painless. See signature of Polson & Co., on each bottle. Sold by medicine dealers. 6dw43

Results Tell.

The proof of the pudding is the eating, and the proof of the extraordinary power over pain of Polson's Nerviline is in using it. Polson's Nerviline never fails to perform wonders in every case of pain. It cannot fail, for it is composed of powerful pain subduing remedies. It goes right to the bottom and pain is banished at once. Nerviline cures all kind of pain, internal or external. Go to any drug store and get a 10 or 25cent bottle, and be delighted by its promptitude in doing its work. 6dw43

A Severe Trial.

Those who endure the torturing pangs of neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, and similar painful complaints are severely tried, but there is a speedy relief in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, as thousands who have used it joyfully testify. It banishes pain and lameness quickly. 1w43d

IN FROM 30 TO 90 DAYS BY WEARING

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spring less trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child serv; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS CO., 23 Adelaide St. East, Toronto, Ont.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, I come and I speak our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. DILKE—CRAWFORD.

WHY SIR CHARLES DILKE PUBLISHES HIS NOTES.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—At the conclusion of Sir Charles Dilke's notes on the Crawford case, he suggests that Mrs. Crawford's animus was revenge, because Mrs. Ashton Dilke threw on him the detection of her intimacy with Captain Foster. "Mrs. Ashton Dilke was also intimical to Lady Dilke, who had ordered her out of the house at Chelsea on account of her language concerning her sister. Strenuous efforts have been made to conceal the meetings of Mrs. Crawford and Capt. Foster in a Hill-street brothel, but it is certain they met almost daily. The worst part of Mrs. Crawford's story probably refers to incidents in her Hill-street career.

Referring to Fanny, Sir Charles says it is not difficult to find her, but he cannot induce her to give evidence, as she fears that she would be obliged to state publicly what happened to her in one short moment of her life, but she has stated to the detectives that she has never seen Mrs. Crawford since the trial. Mrs. Rogerson stated that Mrs. Crawford's confession to her regarding Sir Charles Dilke was accompanied by a series of statements involving others, some of which could not be possibly true.

The object of Sir Chas. Dilke's notes is to prepare the way for his return to public life. A large section of the Chelsea electors continues to believe in his innocence.

THE CHURCH AND THE KNIGHTS.

Report of the Canadian Delegates on the Revised Constitution.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—The Canadian delegates to the Richmond convention have returned here. They believe that the amendments to the constitution will be acceptable to the bishops of the province. These amendments will be first submitted to the Central Committee, and then to the Council of Bishops of the Province who will name a commission composed of a priest, a lawyer and a layman to examine them. This commission are to have the authorization of the Knights to make any further modifications which may be considered necessary. The Canadian delegates believe the Pope will now recognize the order, as all the prelates of the United States have promised their co-operation as well as Mgr. O'Brien, the papal ablegate to Canada.

A Conference with Cardinal Gibbons.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Archbishops Ireland, Feehan, Williams, Kenrick and Ryan arrived to-night for the purpose of holding a conference with Cardinal Gibbons. It is understood that they will meet to-morrow to determine the attitude of the Catholic Church towards the Knights of Labor as an organization. The result of their deliberations will be made public by means of a circular addressed to the clergy.

THE LUTHERAN CHURCH.

The General Council Denies that it Has Adopted the Confessional.

CHICAGO, Oct 26.—The General Council of the Lutheran Church has been overwhelmed with telegrams as to its reported action with respect to the confessional, and to-day adopted a resolution repudiating the statement representing its action as requiring private confession and absolution before the clergyman, somewhat similar to the Roman Catholic Church, and officially states that no such action was either taken or even proposed; "that, in common with our fathers, we repudiate and condemn with all our hearts any and every form of confession that requires an enumeration of sins, and that our action simply provided an order for personal confession of sinfulness and penitence to be used by the communicant when he so desired, as well as an order for the public confession customary in the Lutheran churches preparatory to the holy communion."

BY ORDER OF KING MWANGA.

Wholesale and Cruel Massacre of Christians in Africa.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Details have been received of the massacre of native Christians of Uganda, Africa, by order of King Mwanga. The massacre began in June, and was directly due to the refusal of a Christian lad, acting as the king's page, to commit an abominable crime. Many Christians were tortured, mutilated and speared, and thirty-two were burnt alive together. The appeals of the missionaries for a cessation of these atrocities were unavailing. The fate of these unfortunates did not serve to frighten candidates for baptism, and within a week after the massacre many natives were baptized at their own desire. Leaflets containing extracts from the scriptures, prayers and hymns in the Uganda language are freely bought by the people, although their possession involves danger of punishment. The diary of Bishop Hannington, who was put to death by the King, will soon be published in London. It is a thrilling and pathetic narrative of his experiences in Uganda up to the day of his death.

A $12,000 Trunk Missing.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 26.—A trunk containing $12,000 worth of jewelry samples, belonging to the agent of a Cincinnati jewelry firm, was checked for this city from Warsaw, Mo., on the Wabash due here Saturday. It has not arrived and the authorities have been unable to find it.

THE TORIES CONFER.

EIGHT HUNDRED DELEGATES PRESENT AT BRADFORD.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A conference of the Tories was held at Bradford to-day. There were 800 delegates present. The conference adopted Imperial Federation as an article of Conservative faith.

Lord Randolph Churchill speaking to a motion proposing approval of Lord Beaconsfield's Eastern policy said that the Government would follow that policy as closely as the changed condition of European affairs would allow.

A heated discussion took place over the woman suffrage question.

A resolution was adopted expressing confidence that the Government would follow Lord Beaconsfield's policy, and would vigilantly guard British interests against Russian aggression, and especially prevent any seizure of Constantinople.

AN EXPRESS CAR PLUNDERED.

By a Clever Device a Thief Gets Away With $30,000.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—By presenting to the express messenger letters purporting to be signed by officers of the company a stranger who gave his name as Jim Cummings, the only member of the celebrated James gang never accounted for, succeeded in getting a ride last night in the Adams' express car on the St. Louis and San Francisco road. After going a short distance the man gagged and bound the messenger and rifled the safe of $30,000 in cash. He left the train at the first station, and the train went quite a distance further on before the robbery was discovered.

The stranger presented to Frothingham, the messenger, a forged letter bearing a perfect fac simile of the signature of Barrett, the route agent of the Express Company at St. Louis. The letter stated that Mr. Barrett had decided to put an extra man on the route, that the bearer was he, and Mr. Frothingham was instructed to teach him the details of the business. The stranger was allowed to enter the car and took great interest in all the movements of the messenger, apparently desiring to learn quickly the ins and outs of the duties, which the letter stated he was expected to perform. Mr. Frothingham's suspicions were not at all aroused, and the stranger impressed him as a quiet and prepossessing companion. The two men busied themselves with the accounts, etc., and all went well until a point between St. Louis and Pacific was reached. In the course of time it became necessary for Frothingham to go to the safe, and, turning to do so, he saw the stranger calmly sitting on his chair with a cocked revolver levelled at his (Frothingham's) head. Cummings cautiously approached the dumb-founded messenger and told him if he remained quiet and made no outcry, or raised no alarm, his life would not be endangered, but if he acted otherwise he could not answer for the consequences. Frothingham had nothing to do but submit, and, according to his statement, the robber bound him hand and foot, pressed a gag into his mouth, tied him to the safe so that he could not move, and proceeded with his work. The safe had been left open and it took but a few minutes for the robber to secure the bank notes and valuables in the shape of jewelry, etc. He took a goodly amount of gold and then proceeded to make his escape. At St. Clair the conductor tried the door and found it locked. He listened for a minute and heard the messenger struggling to free himself and making all the noise possible by kicking with his feet against the side of the car. The conductor then burst the door open and found Frothingham as described. He was released and told his experience.

Frothingham says the robber was about 24 years old, six feet tall, weight about 200 pounds and he was dressed in dark clothes with a dark overcoat. He thinks the robberies accomplices, as he seemed to be talking with some one on the front platform of the car. Frothingham, the messenger, is about 24 years old and lives in St. Genevieve, Mo. He has been in the employ of the Adams Express Company for four years and has a good record.

A DAY IN MONTREAL.

A Child Scalded to Death—Proposed Shipment of Flour to Cuba.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—A little 2½ year old boy named John McGee residing here with his parents at 43 St. Alexander-street, fell into a tub of boiling water. The little one lingered for sometime. His sufferings were terrible.

Two well to do farmers of L'Assomption state that it is impossible for them to live in safety, as they are kept in perfect fear of a gang of robbers who are pillaging all they can lay hands on. They went into a house occupied by two young girls and succeeded through threats in getting their all, viz., $50. They next visited the parish church and took away the contents of the poor box. The farmers state that they will arm and scour the country.

Michael Davitt is announced to lecture in this city on Nov. 26th.

Mayor Beaugrand leaves for New York to morrow to represent the city at the inauguration of the Bartholdi statue of Liberty. His Worship will invite the French delegates to visit Montreal on his return on Friday or Saturday.

A. W. Ogilvie & Co., of this city, are corresponding with firms in Cuba relative to shipments of flour to that country. The shipments will be made via New York during the winter months and direct during the summer.

DRIVEN INSANE BY A CANARD.

The Effect in Chicago of a False Report o the Queen's Death.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Wm. McLaughlin was suddenly driven insane last evening under peculiar circumstances. An evening paper got out an extra edition about 8 o'clock, which announced in flaring head lines that Queen Victoria was dead. Later McLaughlin was found wandering about the streets talking in the most incoherent manner about the canard. He was arraigned to-day. He said he felt all right until he got hold of the paper containing the news of the Queen's death, and then it began to worry about it. An examination into his mental condition will be made.

HE CAUSES A SENSATION.

The Bishop of Cork's Conversion to the Home Rule Faith.

DUBLIN, Oct. 26.—The Right Rev. Dr. Gregg, Protestant Bishop of Cork, in an address to the clergymen of the diocese said: "Every interest languishes, every business is depressed, carelessness, neglect and despair seem to be settling upon the people. I exhort you not to allow prejudice to prevent the acceptance of any just change likely to benefit Ireland."

The bishop's language has caused a sensation. The Nationalists claim that he has been converted to the Home Rule faith.

THEY FORGET HIS YEARS.

Mr. Gladstone Only Staying in Public Life for Ireland's Benefit.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Mr. Gladstone, in response to a request to contribute to a book defining the Liberal program, says: "My friends forget my years. I hold on to politics in the hope of possibly helping to settle the Irish question. But the general operations of the party on particular subjects I am obliged and intend to leave in the hands of others."

Servants are so cheap in India that most families have a half a dozen of them.

SAVING CHILDREN.

MAYOR HOWLAND'S ADDRESS TO THE S. S. CONVENTION.

HAMILTON, Oct. 26.—J. J. Crabbe, of the St. Mary's Argus, presided at the opening of the annual convention of the Sabbath School Association of Canada in the Centenary Church to-day. The association was organized in this city twenty-one years ago.

At the afternoon session routine business was transacted, and new officers elected as follows: President, Geo. Rutherford, Hamilton; Minute Secretaries, Wm. Hamilton, London, and Rev. W. G. Wallace, Georgetown. Business Committee—Lewis C. Peake, Chairman, Toronto; Rev. J. McEwen, Lakefield; Rev. M. Davis, Oxford; Senator Jones, Hamilton; J. C. Stephenson, Clinton; W. H. Hassle, Brantford; Rev. S. L. Umbach, Berlin; J. J. Crabbe, St. Marys; Rev. W. W. Smith, Newmarket; Dr. McGuire, Guelph.

At the evening session the new President was installed and the delegates were welcomed by Rev. Dr. Burns.

Mayor Howland of Toronto talked for half an hour on missions and Sunday School work in cities. He said that nothing good could be expected of children from the homes of the vicious and depraved. The wave of anarchy and revolution now bursting on the world was the result of the neglect of little children. There could be no success in the work unless the worker had faith in the conversion of children; then there would not be the usual complaint of loss of the scholars when they grew up. His Worship read a couple of letters from his daughter, describing her conversion as a proof that the conversion of children was a fact. Mr. Howland recalled the fact that it was in the Centenary Church a dozen years ago that he first declared his faith before a public meeting.

Rev. P. McF. McLeod, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Toronto, discoursed on the responsibilities of parents. He condemned the growing secularization of education and the divorce of Christian teaching and Christian life at home.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER, 27, 1886.

In Manitoba the contest for the Local Legislature is very warm. The political parties generally hold joint meetings, and think nothing of keeping up the speaking till 2 o'clock in the morning.

The East Hastings Liberals have unanimously nominated Mr. S. B. Burdette as Commons candidate for East Hastings. The Liberal party in this riding is thoroughly organized, and will make a strong fight to elect both Local and Dominion candidates.

A New York paper indignantly protests against the countries of Europe making the United States a dumping ground for its paupers and criminals. The circumstances doubtless justify the indignation, but it should be remembered that Canada is made the refuge of the numberless rogues that find in this country a safe asylum from the consequences of their thefts and frauds. In the city of Montreal alone there are over thirty of the most noted of the bank robbers and trust breakers, their united stealings amounting to millions. They live in the highest style, make no secret of their identity, and have, thanks to the absence of reciprocal criminal laws, not the slightest fear of being handed over to justice. These scoundrels spend money lavishly in Canada, but we don't want them here. Their influence is corrupting. We can very profitably dispense with both their money and their example.

A Priest Killed at the Altar.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

The tragic death of Father Kavanagh has caused a great sensation in Dublin, where he was well known as one of the most prominent and eminent clergymen of the Irish Catholic Church. Later particulars from Kildare show that his death was not caused by the fall of the altar, but by the fall of a statue which stood above the altar. On being struck by the statue the unfortunate priest fell backward, his head striking a marble step, inflicting a fearful wound, to which he succumbed in about an hour. The melancholy event caused the greatest excitement among the worshippers. It was through the intervention of the deceased that a settlement was effected between the Duke of Leinster and his tenantry at a critical period in the land agitation. He was a prominent figure in almost every Irish movement of importance.

THIS is a maxim which may be wisely applied to municipal and business matters as well. I would respectfully call attention to the fact that I have just returned from the wholesale markets where I have purchased my well assorted stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES,
For the Fall and Winter Trade.

I would specially call attention to my Boys' and Mens' Balmorals, warranted to keep out wet and snow; Ladies' and Childrens' Boots and Shoes, Rubbers, Overshoes, etc. Altogether the best and cheapest stock of boots and shoes ever placed on the local market. Everything guaranteed first-class. Give me a call at my shop, corner of Ethune and Sherbrooke Sts. and you will save money thereby.

All of my stock has been made by hand. None of it has been sewed by machinery to rip and give out after a few weeks wear.

Repairing neatly and promptly executed at cheap rates.

I wish to return thanks to those who so kindly bestowed their patronage on me since commencing business one year ago, and I trust by giving good value to merit a continuance of the same

CAPTAIN WILLIAM SLATER, No. 37 Granville Street, Halifax, N.S.

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Specialist, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—When you visited me in the latter part of January of this year I had been given up to die of consumption by a consultation of Physicians, Drs. Reid and Oliver, prominent physicians of Halifax who considered that my recovery was simply impossible. I had no hope myself nor had my family. When you expressed a hope of my recovery it was received with a doubt. Confined to my bed, very low, weak wasted, night sweats very bad, troublesome cough, raising large quantities of matter—in fact every appearance of a speedy death. After using your Respirator and Spirometer and medicine as I began to recover very fast, so much so that during three hard winter months I have gained from 30 to 35 lbs., and was able to walk out on Easter Sunday. My strength is daily increasing and I shall be able soon to be at work. To you I owe a debt of gratitude, and am anxious for others who are suffering as I was to consult you. You can make what use of this letter you see fit, and thanking you for what I consider a most wonderful treatment,

I remain, yours truly,
CAPT. WM. SLATER.

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying and invigorating medicine. Great Sealed Sores rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Itch, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Even in its early stages, Consumption, which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by it, if taken promptly and faithfully, as thousands can testify.

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and sound health will follow. In pimply affections, blotches, boils, tumors, carbuncles, and even the worst blood-taints, or corruptions, it acts like magic, and has cured hundreds of cases which seemed almost hopeless.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terrible fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Consumption, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy.

Another Tribute.

A Michigan paper says: "Mr. Rogers' appearance on the stage was perfectly natural and unaffected. His clear voice, pure diction and versatility in impersonation made it an entertainment rarely seen in Hillsdale. The skill he displayed in passing instantly from one character to another, so vividly portraying every individual in each recitation, clearly proved him master of his profession." Be sure to hear him when he visits Peterborough, November 5th.

Around the World.

Mrs. Fairbairn, Miss Roger and Miss Rachael H. Roger returned home last night. The Misses Roger left Peterborough for Australia two years and six months ago yesterday, going west via San Francisco, and have in their travels made a complete circuit of the globe, returning from the east by Ceylon and the Suez Canal. Mrs. Fairbairn joined her sisters some months ago in Scotland and now returns with them much improved in health. A few more intimate personal friends assembled at "Cordach," the the family residence which was beautifully decorated and illuminated for the occasion, to welcome them. A more formal welcome is to be accorded them by the ladies of St. Paul's Church in the school room of that church to-morrow evening.

A Sign of the Times.

The Port Hope Times is making a vigorous but fruitless attempt to laud its own riflemen to the utter exclusion of those of Victoria and Peterborough counties. In referring to a recent paragraph in the EXAMINER re the fact that had any of Peterborough's crack shots been present at the East Durham rifle matches the scores would, of course, have been higher, it has the audacity to retort: "Of course! Then perhaps the Peterborough men are now ashamed of their cowardice in barring all but themselves in their own little one-horse shoot." Does Port Hope imagine that Peterborough and Lindsay riflemen (who were also given a taste of the Times' bitter raillery) will stand these insults? No, never—well, scarcely ever. Ye pop-gunnists of Port Hopeshun Peterborough henceforth, if you have any regard for your reputations.

Judge Weller's Divorce Case.

"Peterborough is getting to be as bad as Chicago" said one citizen to another this morning. "How's that?" was the question. "Why only a day or two Judge Weller divorced a married couple with as little ceremony as the Chicago divorce judges use." "Pshaw! You're romancing." "No I am not; its the solid truth. You know the man and woman who robbed Goodfellows' store at Fraserville; well, they were found guilty and Judge Weller divorced them by sending one to the Central Prison and the other to the Reformatory." Ha! ha! not a bad joke for you, but its rather rough on the Reynolds!" "Not a bit of it; they didn't get half what they deserved. No punishment can be too severe for a man who will rob a store when he can get clothing honestly for next to nothing by going to "Gough's the Wonderful Cheap man," Arcade Buildings Peterborough." "By Jove you're right. I bought a first-class suit of Gough, and the price was so low that I felt as though I had robbed him. But I needn't feel so, for that's the way everybody fares. His clothing is of prime quality and the prices are wonderfully low." "So I've heard—good as the wheat and cheap as the dirt it grows in."

Work for the Police Force.

The extraordinary series of burglaries committed the past two or three days and nights, though not serious in results, are still so serious that great uneasiness and a sense of insecurity is naturally felt. Last night hundreds of youngsters slept with their heads under the bed-clothes, while paterfamilias securely nailed down windows and loaded the shot-gun or revolver, or made ready, in divers ways, for the reception of the enemy. The hardware shops report large sales of revolvers and small firearms, and the temeritous tramp may count on having the integrity of his skin spoiled, if he persists in his burglarious business. There is no doubt that there have been other depredations besides the numerous ones that found their way into the papers. A gentleman to-day mentioned that he had a sum of taken from a box on his bedroom bureau a few days since, and there are others who prefer to suffer in silence. These numerous petty outrages show the presence in the town of a large representation of the lawless element, and it is about time that the police force should be "getting on to the shape" of some of the sneak-thief gentry. They will, if not restrained, develop into something more than mere pilferers; when they find that they can with impunity ransack private houses, they will soon begin to think that they are wasting their time unless they steal something besides bread and cheese. Let our guardians of the peace give the vagrant cow a rest, and try to gather a few vagrant cattle of another class into the pound.

Miss White will be pleased to receive your orders for Millinery at the Golden Lion.

The Corn Festival.

Brethour's Opera House Filled—A Most Successful Entertainment.

Tables groaning beneath their loads of corn-flavoured delicacies awaited all patrons of the Corn Festival held under the auspices of the George Street Methodist Church, at the Opera House last night. Corn here, corn there, corn everywhere, the tables heaped with palatable dishes of corn and corn starch edibles, everyone enjoying a rich, rare and relishable repast, laughter, quiet conversation in the corn-er, fun, food and friendship inextricably mingled in one grand harmony—such is a faint description of the scene which met the eye on entering the dining room last night. The seating capacity of the room was insufficient to meet the demands of the occasion and the ladies were kept more than busy supplying the hungry visitors. About 8 p. m., the concert commenced in the Opera House proper. The opening piece, an instrumental solo by Prof. Jaques, was supplanted by an excellent chorus by the choir. This alteration in the programme was owing to the piano being out of tune and consequently unsuitable for solo playing. Mrs. Mein (nee Miss Logan) charmed the audience with "Bonnie Charlie," which was followed by a reading describing an old lady's attempt to learn skating by Mr. Chas. Brown. The musical gem of the evening was, however, the duet by Misses Ellsworth and Wells, "Come to the Forest." Their voices harmonized perfectly, and as a consequence the selection elicited much admiration and applause. Mr. W. H. Manley's solo, "Let Me Dream Again," was followed by a parody on Woman's Rights, in which about a dozen young ladies and gentlemen of the church participated. It was most amusing. Here was a man mopping the floor, another washing clothes, still others rocking the cradle, churning, knitting, sewing, etc., while the ladies performed the duties commonly supposed to belong to mankind—sawing wood, carpentering, planing boards, kindling the morning fire, etc. Each actor went through his or her part with musical accompaniment, and in conclusion, uniting in a grand finale, made the audience nearly explode with laughter. As the Rev. Mr. Tovell remarked, this scene should forever settle the question of woman's rights. After a short intermission the second part of the programme was commenced. Prof. Jacques rendered a nice solo, "Jack," in good voice, and was followed by Mr. W. A. Dixon in his immitable ventriloquisms. Mr. Dixon's ventriloquial powers would put to shame the performances of a great many so-called "professors" of the art on the stage today. His imitations of drawing a cork, the "fizz" of soda water, the "buzz" of a bee and the sawing of a board were most realistic. He was loudly applauded. Another excellent solo from Mrs. Mein, and a recitation by Mr. Cobb, followed by "Bringing in the Sheaves" by the choir, closed the programme. Rev. Mr. Tovell occupied the chair and made some happy remarks relative to the concert, and thanked Mr. Bradburn, on behalf of the church, for the free use of the hall that evening. His happy manner in the chair contributed largely to the smoothness and enjoyability that characterized Peterborough's initial corn festival. After singing the National Anthem the audience dispersed, highly pleased with the entertainment.

Death's Sudden Summons.

Mr. Humphrey O'Dowd, Post Master at Ennismore, Found Dead Beside His Work.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Humphrey O'Dowd, Post Master at Ennismore, was found dead in the woods where he had been at work during the day, chopping. In the forenoon a lad named Daniel Donohue, was working with him. At noon he took Mr. O'Dowd's dinner to him which he ate heartly, seeming to be in his usual health. The lad then left Mr. O'Dowd to his work. The latter not returning to the house (about three quarters of a mile distant) at tea time, Nathaniel Carew and another went in search of him. He was found beside the log on which he had been chopping, quite dead and cold, showing that death had taken place some time before. It seems that death smote him as he was at work, the axe, perhaps, while it was raised in the air, slipping from his nerveless grasp and flying, as it did, in one direction, while his body fell in another. Death is attributed to either heart disease or apoplectic seizure. The deceased gentleman was appointed postmaster at Ennismore about two years ago, his niece, Miss Carew, however, carrying on the post-office business. He was 74 years of age, and leaves behind him a widow. He has been a well-known resident of the township for years. His funeral takes place to the Ennismore cemetery to-morrow.

Hopeful Promises

Mayor Stevenson and Mr. W. H. Moore returned from Ottawa last night, whither they went to lay before the Government the matter of having the Scott Act fines placed to the credit of the town of Peterborough, instead of allowing them to go to the county. Yesterday forenoon they interviewed Sir John Macdonald, and in the afternoon conferred with Hon. Thos. White, who is particularly well acquainted with the peculiar position of Peterborough in this matter. The Premier and Mr. White, however, disclaimed all previous knowledge of the affair, and stated that they had never seen or heard of the memorial forwarded the Government from here a few months ago. The were shown a copy of the memorial, and the delegates were promised that the matter should be taken up by the Privy Council at the earliest opportunity. The town clerk has filed in his office here an acknowledgment from the Government of the receipt of the memorial, but through some oversight it has never reached its proper destination. Messrs. Stevenson and Moore have high hopes that the request of the memorial will be granted.

It is understood by later advices that the Government has decided to place towns separated from counties on the same footing as cities in respect of moneys derived from Scott Act fines.

Contempt of Court.

Wm. Powers was before the Cadi this morning to answer to a charge of contempt of court, the offence consisting in the defendant's not appearing in court when summoned as a witness in the Scott Act case against John Condon. He gave as a reason urgent business matters, which necessitated his leaving for Lindsay at 8.30 the morning of the trial, but the magistrate said that would not do, and fined him $2, the cost of issuing and serving a warrant for his arrest. Mr. Powers paid the fine, and left the court room with the remark that he guessed he'd come around next time when summoned.

A Modern Miracle.

In a recent letter from R. W. Dowson, of Deloraine, Ont., he states that he has recovered from the worst form of dyspepsia, after suffering for fifteen years; and when a council of doctors pronounced him incurable he tried Burdock Blood Bitters, six bottles of which restored his health. 1w43d

The Riversides hold the first of a series of social assemblies in the town hall, Ashburnham, Friday evening next. The committee having the affair in charge have spared no pains to make it a most successful assembly. A first-class orchestra will furnish the music for dancing.

A Cow on the Track.

Last night as the C. P. R. express from Montreal was bowling along the line a mile east of Havelock at the rate of fifty miles an hour, a cow lying on the track was run over. The engine bounded from the rails, but quickly righted itself again. At the first concussion the engineer looked out of his window to see the cause of the trouble, and was struck on the head by a large bone and severely injured. The train was not stopped until Havelock was reached. The engine was bespattered with the blood and mangled remains of the cow. Mayor Stevenson and Mr. W. H. Moore, of Peterborough, were on the train.

Yesterday's Shoot.

The weekly meeting of the Gun Club, usually held in Riverside Park every Monday, was this week held on Tuesday, owing to the wet weather of the preceding day. The blackbirds had short shrift yesterday. Following is the score:

The Mikado Social.

To-night is the first night of the great Mikado social in St. John's school room. Every preparation is complete. A splendid musical programme for this evening will be interrupted long enough to partake of abundant refreshments. Excellent as is this evening's programme, there will be a complete change of programme the second night, Thursday night. Remember the Mikado social to-night and to-morrow night. Admission 25 cents.

For the Shantie.

Mr. T. Cavanagh brought to town this morning a car load of the "finest working horses that ever struck Peterborough." There were ten teams, and were all purchased in the vicinity of Port Perry. They will be despatched at once to Mr. J. M. Irwin's lumbering camps in Haliburton.

Tape Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

An Opium Seizure.

Another consignment of opium from Hong Kong to Chinese merchants in San Francisco, worth $2,000 has been seized by Customs officers at the latter port.

What is Needed

By every man and woman if they desire to secure comfort in this world is a corn sheller. Putnam's Corn Extractor shells corns in two or three days and without discomfort or pain. A hundred imitations prove the merit of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which is always sure, safe and painless. See signature of Polson & Co., on each bottle. Sold by medicine dealers. 6dw43

Results Tell.

The proof of the pudding is the eating, and the proof of the extraordinary power over pain of Polson's Nerviline is in using it. Polson's Nerviline never fails to perform wonders in every case of pain. It cannot fail, for it is composed of powerful pain subduing remedies. It goes right to the bottom and pain is banished at once. Nerviline cures all kind of pain, internal or external. Go to any drug store and get a 10 or 25cent bottle, and be delighted by its promptitude in doing its work. 6dw43

A Big Kettle.

In St. Louis 7000 pounds of copper have been used in making just one steam kettle for a brewery.

A Severe Trial.

Those who endure the torturing pangs of neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, and similar painful complaints are severely tried, but there is a speedy relief in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, as thousands who have used it joyfully testify. It banishes pain and lameness quickly. 1w43d

High Praise.

Mrs. John Neelands, writing from the Methodist Parsonage, Adelaide, Ont., says: "I have used Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam in our family for years. For heavy colds, sore throats and distressing coughs no other medicine so soon relieves. 1w43d

Important News Item.

Cookstown.—Mrs. Campbell had been troubled for a number of years with Indigestion Constipation, and was induced to try McGregor's Speedy cure and found it all that was needed, and would recommend its use to any person similarly troubled. This invaluable remedy is sold in every part of Canada at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Sold at John McKee's drug store. eodw43

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 25 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child here; and 90 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. JOHN CARLISLE, Donegal Street, 2nd block west of St. Andrew's Church. wd

LEARY'S
IRON FIRE ESCAPE
LADDER!

HIGHLY recommended by builders, and the only reliable means in use of expeditiously saving a burning building.

These Ladders are strongly made of half-inch round iron, carefully put together, and warranted to stand any test. The Ladders are easily put up, fold up when not in use, and are a neat and efficient means of reaching the roof of any building. They also form a reliable means of escaping from a burning building by either window or roof.

SUNDAY SCHOLARS.

SECOND DAY OF THE CONVENTION AT HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, Oct. 27.—The second day of the Sunday School Convention opened with a paper being read by Rev. John McEwen, of Lakefield, formerly general secretary, on the "Training of Teachers." Mr. McEwen believed, like Dr. Burns, that more attention was given to works on the Bible than to the Book itself, and he found as a result that a great many were without any intelligent idea of the construction of the Bible.

Rev. Dr. Schauffler of New York, editor of the S. S. Teachers' Quarterly, was introduced by President Rutherford. Dr. Schauffler spoke on "The Great Teacher," and asked the Convention to endeavor to realize what impressions were felt by the hearers of the Saviour. The first impression would be that of the authority with which he spoke. His words were, "Ye have heard such and such, but I tell you it is so and so." He taught dogma, and the Sabbath School teacher, so long as he stands on the Word of God, teaches with authority, and without any fear of the doubt of the authenticity of the Pentateuch and the higher sort of criticism and "isms" that are inoculating the people of the United States, and which came in all forms from that pest-house of misery—Germany.

The secretary pro tem., Mr. J. J. Woodhouse, presented his annual report. He stated the liabilities, $730.21, left over from last year, had been discharged. He gave the following as the Sunday School statistics of Ontario and Quebec:

	Schools.	Teachers.	Scholars.
Episcopalian	635	4,208	30,822
Presbyterian	908	7,044	65,945
Methodist	2,058	16,936	154,686
Baptist	295 (say)	1,216	10,756
Congregational	81	777	6,837
Total	3,977	30,149	268,746

The receipts during the year were $2,337.13, of which the Hamilton Association contributed $62.50. Toronto personal contributions amounted to $857. The disbursements left $10.56 on hand.

Alfred Day of Toronto was appointed General Secretary and J. J. Woodhouse, Toronto, Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer.

Dr. Schauffler gave a practical talk on "Teaching the Scriptures," illustrated by blackboard work.

At the evening session delegates from various counties promised $2000 towards the assembly during the coming year. Of this $1200 was promised definitely. Toronto is pledged for $500, York $150, Halton $50, Middlesex and London $75, Peel $100, Wentworth $60, Hamilton $150, London $100, St. Catharines $30.

Rev. Dr. W. J. Hunter of Wesley Church, Hamilton, addressed the convention on the necessity of cultivating Christian beneficence in the schools.

Rev. Dr. A. F. Sutherland of Toronto urged the instruction of the children in divine truth from the earliest infancy, that they might be brought into church membership when grown up.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to the answering of questions.

UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

Death of a Woman at the Turkish Bath Institute.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Mary Ward, a widow aged 62, died at the Turkish Bath Institute to-day under suspicious circumstances. Before she died she claimed to have been drugged and outraged. Dr. Crevier pronounces the story false, but admits that when at his house he had given Mrs. Ward morphine to afford her relief. Mrs. Crevier attended her and when she became worse on Friday night she expressed a desire to return to the Institute. Dr. Crevier informed her that such a step in her state might result in death. However, she insisted on going. Dr. and Mrs. Crevier, early on Saturday morning, were accompanying her in a cab, when, at the head of [illegible] she jumped out of the cab, screaming that she had been betrayed. She died this morning, remaining conscious up to the last, but could not give a clear account of herself since she left the Institute. Dr. Crevier, manager of the institute, has reported the occurrence to the authorities, and an inquest is being held.

SPROULE THE MURDERER.

A Discovery that he is Heir to a Great Estate in Boston.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Sproule, the American under sentence of death at Victoria, B.C., for murder, and whose execution is to take place on Friday next, turns out to be one of the heirs to quite a large estate in Boston. Neither Sproule nor any of the other heirs knew of the property to which they had been entitled for a number of years, until it was discovered and brought to their attention by G. A. Smyth, who is now administrating upon the estate.

A Wreck Off New Jersey.

NAVESINK, N. J., Oct. 27.—During a severe northeast storm that raged along the Jersey coast the barkentine John Sherwood, Kenebec for Philadelphia, struck the outer bar at 4 a.m., forty-five minutes afterwards the spars fell and she broke in two and began to go to pieces and the crew of seven except the captain reached safety in the after house. The crew subsequently reached the beach on top of the cabin, the surf being too heavy for a life boat. The captain was on the forward house which was clung to the wreckage. The life saving men shot a line near the captain, who seized it and was hauled ashore through the surf in an exhausted condition. The vessel and cargo are a total loss.

CHURCHILL AT LEEDS.

HE OUTLINES PORTIONS OF THE GOVERNMENT'S POLICY.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—In a speech at Leeds last night Lord Randolph Churchill said: "Official accounts reaching the Government of the social condition and prospects of Ireland are of an encouraging character. There is a good harvest and a marked recovery in prices, and from all we can learn rents are being fairly paid throughout the country. Landlords have helped greatly to lessen the difficulties of the crisis. The Irish tenants have also co-operated in a signal manner toward restoration of order. Of course," he continued, "I cannot speak with absolute confidence of the future, nor say whether we shall be able to pass the winter without calling upon Parliament for a measure to assist in the execution of the law, but on the whole I think Ireland is not in nearly so bad a state as might reasonably be expected. People are rapidly appreciating the full significance of the last appeal to the electors, and will gradually shape their political and social action in accordance therewith. On the question of foreign affairs I have nothing to add or detract from my Dartford speech. I have been during my holiday isolated from the knowledge of official affairs, not as some silly hysterical people supposed in close contact with European statesmen." Three things he was able to state with certainty; "first, the Government did not intend to grant Home Rule to Ireland; second, it did not intend to deal with local government in Ireland; third, it did not mean to be hurried or hasty in that dealing." He asked that earnest attention be given to his remarks. On procedure, he said: "I wish to fully and frankly admit that I have changed my mind on the question of the power of closing debate. When both the great parties of the state firmly opposed the repeal of the Union and Parnellite obstruction the Conservatives looked upon the cloture as a startling and unneeded innovation. They may have been wrong, but what we now deal with is an absolute change in the state of affairs, since the Radical Separationists deliberately tolerate and assist the obstruction tactics of the enlarged body of Parnellites pledged not to allow any legislation until Home Rule is granted. We therefore feel certain of your support in changing our minds with the altered circumstances." He concluded with an earnest appeal to the country to assist the Government in their high purpose of enabling Parliament to carry out the will of the people. He sat down amid vociferous cheering.

In Answer to 400 Addresses.

BRADFORD, Oct. 27.—Lord Randolph Churchill was presented with 400 addresses at Bradford to-day in the hall in which the Conservative conference was held. The hall was crowded. When he, accompanied by his wife, entered both were greeted with prolonged cheers. Lord Randolph said he looked forward to a winter of hard and heavy work. The Government were resolved to submit to the country real, genuine measures in accord with the reforming and progressive spirit of the age. Referring to the addresses he had received he said they embodied a real and living political spirit which could not fail to guide the future of the country. The vastness of the deputation who were present at the conference realized Lord Beaconsfield's prediction for the future of the Tory party and the hold it ought to have on the masses of the people.

The Thunderer on the Speech.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Times commenting on Lord Randolph Churchill's speech says:

Exultation over the nervous prostration of the Gladstonians is very well in moderation, but it rather weakens some of Lord Churchill's own arguments. It is less called for when the Gladstonians are giving evidence of their vitality by their preparations for a counter blast. At Leeds Lord Randolph failed to avail himself of chances at his command for useful departure from lines laid down in his former oration at Hartford. It is unfair and unwise to assume that the bulk of the Liberals will adopt or abet the tactics of the Parnellites. Despite the vagueness of Lord Randolph's proposal for a remedy we do not think the application of cloture by a bare majority will commend itself to the Government.

The Procession Forbidden.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—It is stated that Col. Sir James Fraser, Chief Commissioner of the City Police, has issued orders forbidding the procession of unemployed workingmen of London, which it was proposed by the Socialist leaders should march through the streets at the same time as the Lord Mayor's show.

Col. Sir Jas. Fraser, Chief Commissioner of the City Police, has written to the Democratic Federation that no procession except the Lord Mayor's will be allowed to pass through any street of the city on that day. The workingmen point out that they have as much right as any other body of citizens and it is believed the commissioner's order will be disregarded.

The Duke of Cumberland Compromised.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—Since the arrest of Dr. Bedekind, a leading Guelphite, his Wolfenbuttel residence has been searched. Papers were found which compromised the Duke of Cumberland in the providing of funds for conspirators in Brunswick and Hanover. There have been further arrests of Hanover accomplices of Bedekind. The plan of the conspirators was to blow up with dynamite the residence of Count Gertz Wresberg, the Prime Minister of Brunswick.

Improvements in Telegraphy.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 27.—Two patents have been issued this week to Lucius J. Phelps of New York, on duplex telegraphy. Under those inventions it is claimed that the same wire used for telegraphing to or from moving trains may be duplexed, thereby enabling it to be used as an ordinary Morse circuit between stations and simultaneously used for telegraphing to and from moving trains.

The Imperial Family of Germany.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—Emperor William to-day received several military reports, worked three hours, received Count Herbert Bismarck at 1 o'clock and gave a large dinner party at 5. The Emperor proposes to attend a hunt on Saturday at Aubertinstock. The King of Saxony, the Duke of Saxe-Altenburg and other princes will accompany him. Crown Prince Frederick William will return to Berlin on Nov. 7. The Crown Princess and family remain in Italy for the winter.

Work Still to be Done in Burmah.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Advices from Rangoon say the rebellion in Myingyan is increasing. The mail for Yenethen has been looted and the native escort killed. The British have organized forces to attack the rebels in the Members and Myingyan districts next week. Officials of Burmah say that it will take four years to subjugate the country and that a large army will be necessary.

Faction and Sectarianism.

BELFAST, Oct. 27.—At the unveiling of a statue of the Poet Davis in this city to-day Mr. Sexton, replying to an address on "Young Ireland," referred to the recent riots in Belfast and observed that if the writings of Davis were better understood the downfall of faction and sectarian bitterness would be accomplished.

The New Zulu Republic.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Sir A. E. Havelock, Governor of Natal, has informed the Legislative Council of that colony that the English Government has declined to consent to the absorption of Zululand. The Council proposes to decline to vote supplies unless the Government explains the Home Government's relations with the new Zulu republic.

Youth on Justin McCarthy.

DUBLIN, Oct. 27.—Mr. Lewis, in a farewell address to the Londonderry Loyalists, says he regrets having ever let Justin McCarthy [illegible] one who, whatever his personal [illegible] be, has [illegible] by Fenian dynamiters and advocates of murder.

SERVING TWO MASTERS

On Tuesday the Review indulged in a homily on the sin of lying, and, with its wonted consistency, in the very first sentence, committed the offence it pretends to condemn. It says:

"The Globe and correspondents whose letters appear in its columns are abusing Judge O'Connor because Hands was not convicted of causing the Sarnia dynamite outrage."

There is not a word of truth in this allegation. Neither the Globe nor its correspondents have abused Judge O'Connor. They simply canvassed his judgment in language as temperate as a judicial deliverance from the bench. Our contemporary has experienced a sudden conversion. Only a few days ago it very properly denounced the outrage upon Mr. Flavelle, and simulated great anxiety for the detection and punishment of the guilty parties. But its reformation doesn't last long. Only four days elapse before it condemns the detectives for bringing within reach of justice the parties to a similar outrage—the Sarnia dynamiters. It takes the ground that the playing of a game of deception by detectives to win the confidence of suspected persons and thus discover crime, "is unsound and dangerous." A stronger plea in the interests of rascals and criminals could not be urged. There are crimes, the circumstances of whose commission, are so surrounded with obscurity that no other means than the justifiable duplicity of detectives, which high judicial authorities sanction, can be employed to further the ends of justice and secure the detection of crime. Because a detective in the discharge of his duty plays a double part with a criminal, the Review denounces him as a liar whose oath on any other subject cannot be believed. On the same principle the Review would call a farmer who plants a scarecrow in his cornfield a "liar" whose oath should not be credited. On the same principle the Review would pronounce the sportsman who uses decoy ducks to facilitate the winging of his game, a liar and a reprobate, who would commit perjury with the utmost facility. This doctrine accepted, the detection of thousands of crimes would be impossible. Our contemporary betrays the mala fides of its anxiety to have the parties to the recent outrage in this town punished, by its denunciation of the only means which, under the circumstances, would have a chance of bringing success. In its anxiety to ride two horses at once, the Review rather "goes back" on its founder, the present Minister of the Interior, who originated the doctrine of justifiable lying—who publicly asserted that "political exigencies" justified an outrage upon the truth. A newspaper which practices blowing hot and cold, should not one day advocate the bringing to justice of a criminal and the next day condemn the only means to that end likely to be successful. The public memory is not so short that it can forget the facts and ignore the hypocrisy involved in one day urging a course of action, which is denounced only four days later.

SIR JOHN on the platform has a very tender heart for the workmen, but in the administration of his government he works for the contractors and against the people. The department of railways and canals order the water to be let out of the Welland canal old and new immediately on the close of navigation for two weeks. This will throw about from 2,000 to 3,000 out of employment, as the factories will have to shut down. It will be a great loss to the working people just at the commencement of winter. There is no necessity for pursuing this course. Modern engineering is not so barren in expedients for overcoming difficulties that it is necessary to unwater the entire Welland canal to make proposed improvements at Port Dalhousie. Doubtless the unwatering will make it easier for the contractors and less expensive for the government. But since when did a desire to save expense influence Sir John, in his dealing with public matters. He has never thought it extravagant to throw a few thousand of "extras" to contractors, especially when the latter might be counted on to subscribe liberally to Conservative election funds. He has never been known to treat working men with anything but studied contempt, except, perhaps, just at the time when his party needed their votes. His now taking a course to throw 2,000 or 3,000 workmen out of employment at the beginning of a hard winter—is just what might be expected of the leader of a party that exists in the interests of the plundered classes as against the toiling mass-

EXPORTS FROM MONTREAL.

Grand Increase this Year in Live Stock Over Last.

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—The exports of live stock from the port of Montreal for the past week were 1,569 head of cattle and 5,750 head of sheep, against 377 head of cattle and 228 head of sheep for the corresponding week of 1885. The total exports from the opening of navigation to date were 57,422 head of cattle and 77,423 head of sheep, being the largest on record. The exports of breadstuffs to Europe from the opening of navigation to date were as follows: Wheat, 5,216,155 bush.; corn, 2,055,695 bush.; peas 1,667; 659 bush.; oats, 152,259 bush.; flour, 436,826 sacks; oatmeal, 66,433 sacks.

C. P. R. Branch Line to Wingham.

WINGHAM, Oct. 28.—The right of way has been secured from the municipalities for a branch line to Wingham for the Canadian Pacific Railway. The contracts are being let. Work will be commenced at once if weather permits and will be completed this year. The salt works commence at once, and salt will be manufactured this year also if the weather permits. The lands for the right of way were purchased through H. W. C. Myer. R. Willson, Thos. Gregory and Geo. McKenzie.

The Temperance Colony Finale.

HAMILTON, Oct. 28.—A meeting of dissatisfied scripholders in the Temperance Colonization Company was held in Bauer's restaurant Monday night. After the gentlemen present had given expression to their discontent a resolution was passed as follows:

"We, the undersigned scripholders of the Temperance Colonization Society, agree to join with the Defence Association of Toronto in resisting the payment of further claims which may be preferred by the company, and agree to pay the sums respectively placed opposite our names when called upon therefor."

Living With His Neck Broken.

RAMSAYVILLE, Ont., Oct. 28.—A stockman named Hamilton fell from a car here Friday and broke his neck. He was removed to his home in Evansville, and is still living. His case is attracting the attention of the medical fraternity throughout the state. The shock from the fall paralyzed his whole body, yet he has the power of speech and converses with all visitors. This is supposed to be the first case on record where a person has lived so long with a broken neck.

Improvement in the Electric Light.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—A patent was issued to-day to Geo. Westinghouse, jr., of Pittsburg, Pa., inventor of the Westinghouse air brake, for a new system of distributing electricity to be used in lighting and for other purposes. The new invention will, it is alleged, effect a saving of about 95 per cent. in the distributing of main wires as compared with the present system.

High Praise.

Mrs. John Neelands, writing from the Methodist Parsonage, Adelaide, Ont., says: "I have used Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam in our family for years. For heavy colds, sore throats and distressing coughs no other medicine so soon relieves. 1w43d

A Modern Miracle.

In a recent letter from R. W. Dowson, of Deloraine, Ont., he states that he has recovered from the worst form of dyspepsia, after suffering for fifteen years; and when a council of doctors pronounced him incurable he tried Burdock Blood Bitters, six bottles of which restored his health. 1w43d

Results Tell.

The proof of the pudding is the eating, and the proof of the extraordinary power over pain of Polson's Nerviline is in using it. Polson's Nerviline never fails to perform wonders in every case of pain. It cannot fail, for it is composed of powerful pain subduing remedies. It goes right to the bottom and pain is banished at once. Nerviline cures all kind of pain, internal or external. Go to any drug store and get a 10 or 25cent bottle, and be delighted by its promptitude in doing its work. 6dw43

A Complete Breakdown.

"For ten years," says Jennie M. Harrett, of Wallaceburg, Ont., "I did not see a well day—was all broken down with dyspepsia, liver complaint, catarrh and debility. Three doctors abandoned hope for me, when Burdock Blood Bitters came to my rescue. It is the best medicine I have ever taken. I say this for the benefit of all suffering as I did. 1w43d

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spermatic trusses made in York State costing me $20. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

THE BEAR SNIFFED.

Whereupon the Mule Did Battle with the Weapons Which Nature had Provided.

A Scranton correspondent writes: Ike Garvey and Eph Dunham, brawny woodchoppers of the upper Lehigh timber region, took a team of mules last Saturday and began to draw railroad ties from the woods out to the main road. Along in the afternoon they let the mules stand in the wood-road, while they went ahead to cut down a lot of saplings. Presently they saw a black bear tramping through the snow in the rear of the sleigh. When the bear reached the sleigh he turned to the right, walked past it, and sniffed at the heels of the old mule. The mule, who appeared to be sleeping when the bear waddled up, stuck up his ears at once, raised his right hind foot like a flash, and gave the bear a terrific kick in the neck. The bear tumbled over in the snow, partially stunned by the blow, the sharp calks of the mule's shoe having cut and bruised the flesh directly behind his right ear.

Dunham and Garvey laughed heartily at the mule's peculiar conduct, for he had always been a very docile animal, and ran down to the team at once. Meantime the bear had recovered from the kick and got on his feet again, and was looking around to see where he was and to find out what had hit him. The mule turned his head and got a glimpse of the bear just as Dunham and Garvey came down to the sleigh. The sight seemed to enrage the mule, for he instantly became restless. He reared up, plunged forward, and tried to yank himself away from his mate. Every motion indicated that he wanted to be let loose on the bear.

"Say we unharness him an' let him fight the bear if he wants to," remarked Garvey.

"All right," said Dunham, "we'll do it."

Dunham then jumped to the mule's head and unsnapped the lines. In another second the hame strap and the belly-band were unbuckled, and the mule slipped from under the harness with nothing on except the headstall and collar. Then the mule turned straight around and made for the bear with all his might. He lunged forward with so much force and speed that he went right over the bear's back before he stopped. The bear did not attempt to get away, but stood upon his haunches and was ready to fight as soon as the mule turned upon him.

The mule struck at the bear savagely with both forward feet, but the bear dodged and thus escaped the blow. Then the bear rushed at the mule, uttering a grunt of anger as he did so, and tried to strike him in the breast. The mule, however, showed more anger and grit than the bear did, and, as the latter came toward him, he struck the bear on the shoulder with one of his sharp calks, and the bear, groaning with pain from the blow, backed away. The mule quickly followed up the advantage he had gained, and the bear tumbled backward over a log, making the snow fly. The mule leaped over the log and struck the bear on the back with both fore feet before he had time to get up, but he paid dearly for it, for the bear twisted his head around and got the mule's right fore-leg between his jaws and bit it badly.

Dunham and Garvey, who had the utmost confidence in the mule's ability to conquer the bear, kept at a safe distance and watched the fight closely.

While the bear was trying to crush the bone in the mule's leg the mule bit the bear's ear and made the blood run.

A moment later the mule succeeded in yanking his leg from the bear's jaws, pranced around in the snow after he had done so, and appeared to be madder than ever. Then the two infuriated animals came together again. As the mule raised his front feet to strike, the bear sprang under his body, knocked his hind legs from under him, and tumbled him over on his side. The mule scrambled to his feet in a second, rushed up to the bear, and gave him such a tremendous thump on the nose that it made the bear stagger and roar. He was not ready to retire from the conflict, though, and as he made another effort to strike the mule the blood spurted from his nostrils. He stuck his nose into the snow and groaned loudly, and the mule stood off a few feet and eyed him steadily. Presently the bear raised his head and plunged at his antagonist again.

The mule wheeled suddenly as the bear approached him, and, turning his tail toward the bear, kicked him in the jaw with one of his hind feet and keeled him over on his back. Before he could get on his feet again the mule had begun to stamp on him with his sharp calks.

The bear struggled desperately to get away from the terrible blows which his long-eared antagonist dealt him, but his efforts were useless. The bear was getting weaker, and, when Dunham and Garvey ran to the spot and clubbed the mule off, was unable to rise and was moaning piteously. Garvey at once hit the bear on the top of the head with the back of his ax, and put an end to his sufferings.

A Georgian Doctor.

A tin sign, painted white, swings in the cold air of West Madison street. Upon it appears an extravagant representation of the Russian arms, and the name of "Dr. G. Tandeloff, of Russian Asia." In a barren office up-stairs sits the doctor, smoking cigarettes. His personal appearance would indicate him to be a cross between a French soldier and a Turkish merchant. He wears a fez, his face is swarthy, and his mustache still goates Napoleonic.

The doctor is not a pleasing conversationalist. He says he speaks sixteen languages and dialects. This is undoubtedly true, as his German and English are sprinkled with words from every known tongue. He is a native of Tiflis, Georgia, and his native tongue is Iberian or Georgian. He says he is the only man in America to whom this language is native. He was a surgeon in the Russian army during the war with Circassia, about the time of the American rebellion. He says he has been traveling for twenty-three years, and has visited all parts of the world. He has been in America eight years, traveling most of the time on horseback.

Dr. Tandeloff says his country abounds with pretty, white-haired, pink-eyed girls, but he never married, because it required too much money. The Georgian lover, according to the doctor, must present his betrothed with a complete housekeeping outfit—furniture, knives, forks, towels, clothing, etc., and especially a feather-bed. The parents of the young lady guarantee her mortal purity in consideration of this present. Should the husband discover that he has been imposed upon in this regard his friends carry a black flag to the residence of the bride's parents and otherwise express their anger by blowing horns and throwing stones at the house.

The doctor laments the depravity of the American girl. He says:

"American girl, 10 year old—so high; 12 year old—so high; go with man nights to tea-ater; go Sunday to picnic. Ough! Fire can no touch powder without bust!"—Chicago News.

Our New Serial Story.

On Saturday next will be begun our new serial story, "An Evil Genius," an exceedly strong and well-written tale, full of that captivating interest which Wilkie Collins has the power of imparting to his stories. Its fascination lasts from the first to the last chapter. Secure the opening chapters in Saturday's EXAMINER.

"That dire disease, whose ruthless power Withers Beauty's transient flower," is often found lurking around the citadel of Life, in the disguise of a cold, like an unsuspected enemy in camp. For colds or coughs, weak or sore lungs, sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, and all diseases that lead to consumption, and for consumption itself, take Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery."

Consumption cured in the last stage.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM SLATER, No. 37 Granville Street, Halifax, N.S.

DEAR SIR,—When you visited me in the latter part of January of this year I had been given up to die of consumption by a consultation of Physicians, Drs. Reid and Oliver, prominent physicians of Halifax who considered that my recovery was simply impossible. I had no hope myself nor had my family. When you expressed a hope of my recovery it was received with a doubt. Confined to my bed, very low, weak, wasted, night sweats very bad, troublesome cough, raising large quantities of matter—in fact every appearance of a speedy death. After using your Respirator and Spirometer and medicine I began to recover very fast, so much so that during three hard winter months I have gained from 20 to 25 lbs., and was able to walk out on Easter Sunday. My strength is daily increasing and I shall be able soon to be at work. To you I owe a debt of gratitude, and am anxious for others who are suffering as I was to consult you. You can make what use of this letter you see fit, and thanking you for what I consider a most wonderful treatment,

I remain, yours truly,
CAPT. WM. SLATER.

Later.—Fully recovered and at work

CURES ALL HUMORS,
from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections. "THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,
which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

New Butcher Business.

Mr. George W. Powell (of Powell & Sons, Cobourg,) has opened out a butcher shop in the new shop at corner of Water and Smith streets. With a full knowledge of the business, and neat and completely equipped premises, Mr. Powell's shop will meet a want long felt in this part of the town.

Best vs. Bowden.

Judgment was delivered in this case, the parties to which are well known here, by Chief Justice Wilson at the Toronto Assizes Tuesday afternoon. The decision was favorable to the plaintiff's contention regarding the construction of the will of the late Jas. Bowden. Mr. W. H. Moore, of Peterborough, was plaintiff's counsel.

Appreciated Abroad.

Mr. Wm. Noble, of the firm of McAndrew & Noble, has gone to Millbrook to place a complete set of their celebrated heating apparatus in each of two of the finest residences in that village. Mr. McAndrew is also absent in Ottawa, putting their apparatus in three houses. This demand for their heating apparatus demonstrates its superiority.

Harnessing the Horses.

Yesterday evening Mr. B. Shortly fitted with harness the fine lot of horses purchased for Mr. J. M. Irwin by Mr. T. Cavanagh. The ten teams are exceptionally fine animals and reflect great credit on both the judgment of Mr. Cavanagh and Mr. Irwin's enterprise. The harness supplied by Mr. B. Shortly, were the celebrated heavy harness for which his establishment is noted, and were worthy of the splendid animals they fitted.

Saved Army Reorganization.

The original officers of the Saved Army have, it is said, through some dissatisfaction with Rev. Mr. Baxter's mangement, withdrawn from the organization as managed by him. At a council of war held in Cobourg on Wednesday, the Saved Army was reorganized on the original lines, and it was decided to make Peterborough again the headquarters of the Saved Army, and to continue the publication of the Trumpet as before. The work will be carried on with renewed zeal and energy.

A Social Event.

Last night about forty young people of Peterborough drove to the residence of Mr. Harry Stewart, Otonabee, about six miles from town, where they "tripped the light fantastic" and engaged in other innocent amusements to their heart's content. They returned to town at an early hour. These little social gatherings are very popular, and deservedly so, as they tend to ripen friendships, add zest to social intercourse, and are Cupid's most favored opportunities for linking hearts together.

The Lost Was Found.

Monday night the delivery horse and cart of Mr. Ward, grocery merchant, George street, were left standing for a few moments in front of the store. In a few more moments they had disappeared. A vigorous search for the missing animal was at once commenced. The town was scoured, liveries were impressed into service, and when hope had about departed from the bosoms of the anxious searchers, and the missing property given up for lost, the horse and cart were found in the south end, stuck fast in a fence.

A Valuable Dress.

A pic-nic was held at Enniscore recently for the purpose of raising funds to aid in the establishment of a free library at that place, at which a silk dress, donated by Mr. J. J. Sheehy, George street, Peterborough, was made a "bone of contention" among the ladies. It was to be awarded the lady selling the greatest number of raffle throws on a certain article, valued at $10. The prize was won by Miss McCann. The dress was the means of procuring for the committee in charge of the pic-nic nearly $200, which, together with the proceeds of the pic-nic proper, go to aid the library.

Returned from the Chase.

The hunting party composed of Messrs. Geo. Fitzgerald, T. Rutherford, A. Blade, H. Matthews, H. Evans, J. Haggart and S. Clegg, returned to town last night, heavily laden with the spoils of two weeks' hunting. The party captured 8 deer, about 12 brace of partridge, 15 ducks, and over a hundred fine salmon. The ducks, partridge, fish and one deer supplied the larder for the two weeks; the remaining deer they brought with them. No accident of any serious nature occurred to mar the pleasure of the outing. A fine black and white hound, small size, with black head and saddle, in the excitement of a deer chase, one day got beyond range of the hunters and was lost. It is presumed, however, that he has been picked up by another hunting party. Anyone returning him to Mr. George Fitzgerald will be adequately rewarded.

The Great Mikado.

Social Given by the Ladies of St. John's Church Entertainment Last Night.

Probably the most unique and charming church entertainment ever held in Peterborough was that given in the school room of St. John's church last night by the ladies of the congregation. The name alone—Mikado—was in itself sufficient to attract an audience, while the well known talent of the ladies for getting up social entertainments, rendered success on this occasion a certainty. Every care was taken in arranging the programme, and those who attended the first night's performance were more than pleased.

At an early hour scores of people might have been seen wending their way towards the school room, which was quickly filled, late comers having to content themselves with standing room near the door. The walls and ceiling of the room were beautifully decorated with every style of Japanese art, the windows draped with bright-hued streamers, the walls covered with fans, parasols, etc., while the platform, answering for the stage, was a marvel of elegance and harmony in color. Near the door was a booth filled with fancy bric-a-brac and refreshments, presided over by half a dozen Japanese princesses clothed in royal attire, whose winning smiles and coy manners were the means of effecting plenty of sales—among the gentlemen at least.

As the curtain parted for the first piece on the programme, a truly novel and interesting sight met the eye. The stage was decorated in mild magnificence, Japanese knick-knacks and ornaments being profusely strewn about with the apparently reckless extravagance and luxury of Oriental splendor. In the background, reclining in graceful attitudes, were nearly a dozen handsome young ladies, dressed in the height of Japanese fashion, who would certainly grace the court of any Mikado that ever reigned. The opening number, a chorus of men in "If you want to know who we are," was ably rendered by Messrs. H. A. Hammond, W. H. Budden, J. Hutchins and J. Morris. These gentlemen were attired in the courtiers' robes of office, and were loudly applauded, not only for their quaint appearance, but also for their excellent singing. The encore was responded to by a solo and chorus, Mr. Hutchens taking the solo, and pleasing the audience with his artistic management of his fine tenor voice. The Misses Dennistoun then gave a brilliant rendition of the "Marche Hongroise," which was followed by Mrs. Macklin in a solo which received hearty applause. The "Three Little Maids" (Mesdames Seward and Dunsford, and Miss Chaddie Errett) next charmed the audience with their little song, the encore being answered by Messrs. Budden, Hutchens and Morris, who personated the "Maids" in a most amusing manner. Mrs. Newbold's solo, "The Powder Monkey," concluded the first part of the programme.

The musical clatter of china cups and silverware drew the attention of the audience to the fact that now was the accepted time for supplying the wants of the inner man, and they did not hesitate to "take the cake" as it came along, or sip tea from the little gems of cups which held the refreshing beverage. Satisfaction done this portion of the programme, the second part was commenced.

Mrs. G. A. Smith played in excellent manner a pianoforte solo, followed by a solo and chorus, a selection from the Mikado, by the entire "company," including, besides those mentioned above, the Misses Rush, Everett and Beck, Miss Millie Beck, the Misses Halliday, Miss B. Hall, and Miss Stevenson; and Mr. J. L. Palmer. Miss Vair's "Sweet Mignonette." was heartily applauded, and was followed by a solo and chorus, "Ko Ko," in which Mr. J. L. Palmer particularly distinguished himself, keeping the audience in laughter by his ludicrously grotesque movements. A final chorus and "God Save the Queen" by the audience closed one of the most interesting and amusing entertainments ever held in Peterborough.

Mr. L. Seward, the musical conductor, deserves much credit for the success of the concert. The programme this evening will be entirely changed. Don't fail to attend.

"Wooed and Married and a'."

Nuptials of Mr. A. W. Brodie and Miss Edmison

This afternoon St. Andrew's church was the scene of one of the most impressive social events ever witnessed within its walls—the marriage of Mr. A. W. Brodie, to Miss Maggie H., second daughter of George Edmison Esq., barrister. The beautiful church was filled by a fashionable audience whose presence attested the interest they felt in the contracting parties, who enjoy the highest esteem of the circle in which they move. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Alexander Bell, pastor of St. Andrews. The bride, who was simply but richly attired in her travelling dress of silver gray plush, was supported by her sister, Miss Maud Edmison, and Miss Mary Brodie, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids, who were elegantly dressed in electric blue silk, while Mr. E. W. Cox assisted the groom. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to Mr. Edmison's residence, where a reception was held, and the numerous persons present to tender their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Brodie, bore testimony to the popularity their many good qualities have won for them. Material evidence to the same effect was afforded by a magnificent array of elegant bridal presents. They will leave this evening on the 6.42 C. P. R. express for New York, Boston and other New England cities. On their return they will establish their home in their beautiful new gothic residence on Dickson street. Hosts of friends unite in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Brodie all possible happiness and prosperity.

An Elegant Present.

The Employes of Mr. A. W. Brodie Handsomely Recognize the Occasion of His Marriage.

The employes of Brodie's woollen mills took the opportunity, on the occasion of the marriage of the proprietor, which took place this afternoon, to give expression to the sentiments of respect and esteem they entertain for him, by presenting him with a splendid silver tilting pitcher, supplied by that Mecca of wedding present seekers, China Hall. The vessel is elegantly mounted on elaborately ornate-chased supports, resting on a solid silver pedestal, which also bears two gold lined goblets and a gold lined slop bowl. The gift was accompanied with the following

ADDRESS:

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 28th 1886.

To A. W. BRODIE, Esq., Peterborough Woolen Mills, Peterborough, Ont.:—

We, the employees of the Peterborough Woolen Mills, beg to offer our sincere congratulations and good wishes on your approaching marriage, and to beg your acceptance of the accompanying water pitcher as a small tribute of our respect and esteem for you, and as an expression of our appreciation of the kindness, urbanity and consideration with which you have always treated us in your capacity as principal of the above mills. We earnestly hope that your union with Miss Edmison may be happy and blessed one; and, that you as your bride may enjoy a long life of happiness and prosperity, in the wish cordially concurred in by all concerned.

Signed on behalf of the employees,

CHARLES KNAPP, JAMES KERR,
GEORGE FLOOD, ROBERT PURVIS,
GEORGE WAY, DAVID WOODHEAD
JOHN BROOKS.

Mr. Brodie in a few brief remarks made an appropriate acknowledgement of the expression of good will and kindly feeling of which he was the happy recipient.

Keene.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Another sudden death has occurred in our village, making the sixth in a list of sudden calls in this vicinity such as is seldom known, even in a town or city. These deaths have all taken place within the present season, and are not confined to the aged or infirm; the strong man, the faithful mother of many little ones, the young wife, the bright and pleasant leader of the social circle of young ladies—as well as the more advanced in years—have all dropped out of the ranks while yet in active service. The latest to fall is Mr. Clixby, an elderly gentleman, from St. John's Island, below Kingston, father of Mrs. Mark, of this place. He left his home last week to visit friends west, and was seized with apoplexy on the train, and, after a troublesome journey, was brought to Mr. Marks' on Saturday night. He never rallied perfectly, and died peacefully on Monday morning. His remains will be interred in Keene cemetery. Mrs. Mark has the sympathy of all in her bereavement. To have her father come to her only to die, without recognition almost, is a trial few have to endure.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. A. G. Foley is visiting friends here.

Mrs. Proutt, of Marmora, formerly of Keene, is also here on business relative to the sale of her pretty cottage and grounds to Mrs. Millar, widow of the late W. W. Millar, Esq. Mrs. Millar purposes living permanently in Keene, and we welcome her and her little family as an acquisition to our social circle.

Mr. J. Weir, who now occupies the Proutt cottage, will probably remove to the pretty Burnham farm on the road to the station.

Speaking of the station reminds us that the stage to and from the trains has been in new hands since Sept. 21st. Mr. Archie Bryce, an old favorite here, has bought the carriage, horses, etc., from Mr. Frost, and now cheers the long road to the train with his pleasant manners and hearty obligingness. He is well known and very popular, as are his sons also, and we are glad to know that he will be our Mercury and John, as he will be trusty and true in both capacities.

Mr. Frost, our former bus proprietor, will probably leave Keene for the west. We are sorry to lose him, but wish him all health and success in his new home.

"An Echo Answers, Where?"

And the answer comes quickly back again: "Morrow, Tierney & Co.'s for fine groceries."

Miss White will be pleased to receive your orders for Millinery at the Golden Lion.

R. FAIR.

The Picnic at Elwand.

The following lines, composed by a brother of Mr. D. D. Gallotly, on the occasion of a Sunday School pic-nic at Elwand, Scotland, were written by request and are now published by request:

I.

Bright is the day, and fair the scene,
Around us meand'ring, fairy stream,
Gentle breezes romp upon the green
And chanting canbe-rous brightly gleam
Waving banks and foliage high,
While sylphs dreamily float by.

II.

Up on the swings 'mid merry shout,
To and forward to accend again,
Oh! but it is an envied seat—
Never had queen such joyous reign,
As that sweet band on bending bough,
Who sprite-like fleetest to and fro.

III.

The football speeds, now up, now down,
While over sides go in the chase;
The cricket has its mimic team
And panting race fast follows race,
Oh! precious are such golden hours,
Winging their flight 'mongst summer flowers.

IV.

Such racing, chasing, here and there,
Each striving some small prize to gain,
Whilst through the greenwood proudly floats
The bagpipe's shrill, inspiring strain,
Oh sweet the pibroch's notes, I ween
When heard 'mid haunts of Fairy Dean.

V.

Fond eyes look on the changing scene,
Eyes that are wet, at times, with tears,
For mem'ry whispers of the past
When others shar'd their joys and fears,
And with them took a fond delight
In gazing at such glad'ning sight.

VI.

Oh romp and laugh, ye merry band—
Why clothe in gloom youth's budding morn?
Step, smile and list the songs of birds,
With flowers your fair, sweet brows adorn,
For cank'ring care comes on apace,
Meanwhile the field, the swing, the race.

VII.

And when at night in sweet repose,
Ye softly pass to fairy land
Methinks a vision bright shall rise—
The stream and slopes of Fair Elwand,
And little dreamers God bless one and all,
Shall they, in thought, at cricket, swing and ball.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

A FEW FACTS WORTH KNOWING!

IT IS A FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling 42 inch, pure, all wool Grey Flannels, plain or twilled, at 18c. per yard.

IT IS A PATENT FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling Heavy Cosume Dress Goods at 8c. per yard.

IT IS A STUBBORN FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling 28 inch wide Army Flannels for 25c. per yard.

IT IS A WELL KNOWN FACT—that Thomas Kelly has the largest stock of Ladies' and Childrens' Hose in town.

IT IS AN INDISPUTABLE FACT—that Thomas Kelly's Navy Blue Flannel, Plain or Twilled, at 20c. per yard are unequalled.

IT IS A DECIDED FACT—that Thomas Kelly will not be undersold, and that his Melton Dress Goods at 8c. are unexcelled.

IT IS A MOST DECIDED FACT—that Thomas Kelly's Blankets, Flannels, Shirts and Drawers are the best value in town.

IT IS AN INCONTROVERTIBLE and INCORRIGIBLE FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling Mens' Heavy, All Wool, Knitted Socks at 15c. per pair.

Facts are stubborn things, and should you question the foregoing facts—you have only to call on Thomas Kelly to get a positive demonstration of the truth.

Why
Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned. Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. Iron offering good building lots and will build solid brick houses, stone walls, stripped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold is of first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. JOHN CARLISLE, Inspector Street, 2nd block west of St. Andrew's Church. wd

LIBERTY STATUE

GREAT DEMONSTRATION IN CONNECTION WITH BARTHOLDI'S STATUE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The wet pavement, mud, chilly air and general discomfort were no appreciable bar to public enthusiasm over the event of Liberty's unveiling. Streams of workingmen and women who usually tread the streets at early morning hours carrying dinner-pails and lunch-baskets, were to-day as early astir, but with the difference that they wore their holiday attire and their faces had expectancy on every feature.

About 8 o'clock the people of the tenement districts began the movement toward the streets and avenues where they might see the pageant and hear the music. They had no money to pay for vantage ground on balconies or in windows on the line of march, and so they went early out from their homes to secure places on the streets. From a boundary line east and west at the river fronts the drift of people moved in families and parties, until, when nearing the line of march they became a tide of human beings jammed up against the police lines and set back its constantly flowing stream to near-by avenues. Meantime the favored dwellers in houses on Fifth-avenue arose at leisure, and servants hung out bunting on the wet fronts of the dwellings where it fluttered in occasional gusts of winds.

The Parade.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—At 9 o'clock the first division of the parade commenced to form on Fifty-eighth-street and Fifth-avenue. The Fifth United States Artillery and the Engineer Corps took position in front of Secretary Whitney's house; next came the Old Guard, who stood near the carriages waiting for the President and his Cabinet to leave Secretary Whitney's residence, where they had spent the night. Promptly at 10 o'clock President Cleveland, accompanied by Secretary Bayard, descended the steps and entered an open carriage. They were followed by Secretary Whitney, Postmaster-General Vilas, Secretary Lamar, Private Secretary Lamont, Rear-Admiral Luce and staff and Major Whipple. The Old Guard preceded the carriages, and at 10.15 commenced the march down Fifth-avenue.

Both sides of the street were crowded with people, who waved their hats and applauded loudly as the President's carriage passed. On all the side streets from Central Park down to the reviewing stand on Twenty-fourth-street, military companies and civic organizations were formed. The carriage containing the President and Cabinet was followed by a battalion of 250 police. The United States naval brigade came next, with the engineer's corps, which consisted of 250 men. The Second Regiment, numbering 326, fell in line at Fifty-Ninth-street, with 200, composing the detachment of Massachusetts volunteer militia. These were followed by the Seventh Regiment, 400 men; Eighth Regiment, 250 men; Twelfth Regiment, 500 men; Eleventh Regiment, 224 men; First Regiment, 300 men, and the French societies, numbering 2500 men. The Governors of Massachusetts, Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, New York, Maryland and their staffs, together with United States Judges, entered carriages at the Windsor Hotel and fell into line behind the French Association.

The Third Brigade, in command of Hugh S. Grant, consisting of the mayors of cities and municipal officials, a battalion of the police force of Philadelphia, 400 men; battalions of the police forces of Brooklyn and Jersey City, 300 men; veterans of the war of 1812, the Aztec Club, Veterans of the Mexican war and the military order of the Loyal Legion.

The fourth, fifth and sixth divisions comprised veteran war organizations, Grand Army of the Republic and more veteran military organizations. The seventh was the educational division. The eight comprised: Independent military organizations, Gen. Washington's carriage drawn by eight horses, escorted by the Continental Guard of Washington, D.C., and by the Old Washington Continental Guard, mounted, and Sons of the Revolution. The ninth was the Brooklyn division. The tenth comprised: Volunteer Firemen's Association, Board of Trade and Transportation, New York and Indiana Uniformed Knights of Pythias, charity associations and other civic societies.

A special detour was made to pass the World office, where an arch seventy-five feet high had been erected. The military part of the procession was over two hours passing.

The naval parade as a spectacle proved a most lamentable failure in consequence of the fog. Still it took place, and those who were near the river front could just dimly perceive the various craft steaming down the river in open order and going at slow speed. There were about 200 vessels in line, including all sorts of craft from the great sound steamers to tug boats and steam launches.

On Bedloe's Island.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The music that was played while the officials and guests were assembling on Bedloe's Island this afternoon was followed by a signal gun that announced the beginning of the ceremonies. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Richard S. Storrs, and Count Ferdinand De Lesseps then delivered an address on behalf of the Franco-American Union. Senator William M. Evarts next made the presentation address. The ceremony of unveiling the Statue of Liberty then took place and was followed by a salvo from all the guns in the harbor. After music Professor Cleveland formally accepted the statue.

An address was then made by the Representative of the Republic of France, Le Ministre Plenipotentiaire Extraordinaire, A. Lefavre. There was more music by Gilmore's Twenty-Second regiment band and then Mr. Chauncey M. Depew delivered the commemoration address. "Old Hundred" was played by the band and the assembly joined in singing the doxology.

The ceremonies were closed with the benediction, pronounced by the Right Rev. Henry C. Potter, D.D., Assistant Bishop of the diocese of New York. A national salute was then fired simultaneously by all the batteries in the harbor afloat and ashore.

Dimensions of the Statue.

The following are the dimensions of the statue:

	Ft.	In.
Height from base to torch	151	1
Foundation of pedestal to torch	305	6
Head to top of head	111	1
Length of hand	16	5
Index finger	8	0
Circumference at second joint	7	6
Size of finger nail	13x10	In.
Head from chin to cranium	17	3
Head thickness from ear to ear	10	0
Distance across the eye	2	6
Length of nose	4	6
Right arm, length	42	0
Right arm, greatest thickness	12	6
Thickness of waist	35	0
Width of mouth	3	0
Tablet, length	23	7
Tablet, width	13	7
Tablet, thickness	2	0
Dimensions of the pedestal:
Height of pedestal	89	0
Square sides of base, each	62	0
Square sides at top, each	40	0
Greatest solidness, above base	72	0
Dimensions of the foundation:
Height of foundation	55	0
Square sides at top	62	7

The statue weighs 450,000 pounds or 225 tons. The bronze alone weighs 200,000 pounds. Forty persons can stand comfortably in the head, and the torch will hold twelve people.

The Goddess of Liberty is the largest work of its kind that has ever been completed. The Colossus of Rhodes could not possibly have had the shape or bigness attributed to it. The statue of Arminius in Bavaria, is about 94 feet in height; that of St. Charles Borromeo on the shores of Lake Maggiore, 75 feet. The Virgin of Puy comes next, 58 feet, and the statue of Bavaria last, scarcely more than a foot shorter.

Lighting of the Torch.

The statue will be lighted by electric lights in and around it. The electric lights in the torch will be so arranged that the flames will not be seen, but a strong reflector placed under the lights will throw powerful rays of light skyward that may be seen far out at sea. Another series of lights will be placed in the torch with another reflector that will throw the rays of light in the face of the statue. Electric lights will also be arranged at each of the four corners at the top of the pedestal. The effect of the combination of these lights will be to illuminate the statue at night, so that it will loom up grandly in the surrounding darkness. To protect the statue from lightning, four rods will be bunched at the top of the torch, which, after passing down through the interior of the statue, will be separated and one of the rods will pass down at each corner of the pedestal, where openings have been left for them, and so down through the ground until water is reached. It is believed that with these rods the statue is perfectly protected from destruction by lightning. In the course of erection it was struck a number of times without damage, thus proving that there need be no apprehension on this score.

The Fireworks Postponed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Owing to unfavorable weather the fireworks demonstration was postponed until Saturday evening. The statue was not lit up to-night. A banquet was given by the New York Chamber of Commerce in honor of the representatives of the French Republic and invited guests.

It Means Nothing.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Daily News, commenting on the dedication of Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty, says: "It is a great mistake to think the statue will increase the friendship between the two countries. America did not want the statue. She took it because it was offered to her. When the last cannon boomed New York was richer by a remarkable statue, and that is about all."

A DOZEN PERSONS KILLED.

A Terrible Accident Caused by an Open Switch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 28.—A despatch from Rio says the limited train ran through an open switch and plunged into a sand bank. The mail, baggage and day coaches were piled on top of it. In the day coach were twelve or fifteen persons. One man and two children were the only ones saved. The others were imprisoned in the car. The man who had escaped had an arm broken and was otherwise bruised. He is now at Columbus and is doing well. A woman whose home was in Winona handed her two children out of the window and she was burned to death in the car. Louis Brinker and Emil Walterdorf of Columbus, Wis., are among the dead. The names and residences of the others cannot be obtained now. Coroner Allen is holding an inquest on the trunks of bodies, all that is left of the ill-fated travelers. The burning of the baggage obliterates the only clue to the identity of the occupants of the burned car, and it may never be known to a certainty how many persons perished.

As far as learned those who perished are: Mrs. C. R. Scherer of Winona, Mrs. Rosina Johns of Winona, her mother-in-law; Louis Brinker, residence unknown. A young woman believed to be Mrs. G. A. Marr of Chicago. Her identity, however, is very uncertain. Emil Wolterdorf, residence unknown; five or more unknown persons and two Sisters of Charity, one believed to be Mother Alexi, Superior of a convent at Winona, Minn., who was in Milwaukee to establish a new convent.

The injured include Conductor Searle of Milwaukee, badly hurt; Brakeman Clark, leg broken; C. F. Smith of Chicago, broken arm and wrist, face cut badly; James Phillips, brakeman, cut badly about the head. No passengers in any of the sleepers were killed.

General Manager Miller returned from the scene of the accident this afternoon. He said he believed twelve persons lost their lives in the wreck.

The Nobility of a Bishop.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 28.—The Milwaukee train bringing the saved from the Rio wreck reached here to-night. Among the passengers were Bishop Whipple and wife. Apart from the great fatigue and nervous prostration the bishop was uninjured. He describes the wreck as the most terrible sight he ever saw. Capt. John Allen, who was in the sleeper, says Bishop Whipple worked heroically to save the passengers imprisoned in the wreck, and brought out the children of Mrs. Scherer of Winona, but could not liberate her. After comparing notes with other passengers the captain thinks there were over fifteen passengers in the day coach.

CAIRO, Oct. 28.—A despatch from Angiers says dynamite cartridges have been found at the doors of the hotels there in which the members of a Catholic Congress are staying. One of the cartridges exploded but did only slight damage.

Crushed to Death.

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., Oct. 26.—Whilst coupling cars in the station yard this afternoon about 2 o'clock Robert Parks, brakesman on a gravel train, was crushed to death.

ON GUARD AT VERNA.

RUSSIA THREATENING IMMEDIATE ACTIVE MEASURES.

SOFIA, Oct. 28.—At a private meeting at Tirnova of deputies belonging to the Government party it was unanimously decided to adhere to the Government's policy towards Russia.

Gen. Kaulbars has telegraphed to the regency advising the raising of the state of siege at Sofia and Varna.

The Russian consul at Varna threatens to order the Russian warships to bombard the town unless the prefect permits free access of Russian-Bulgarian partisans to the Russian consulate, or if he tries to prevent the landing of sailors from the war ships. The members of the sobranje are preparing to elect a regent to replace Karaveloff.

Russia's Guarantee.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 28.—The Herald (a German paper) says there are 400 troops on board the Russian cruisers despatched to Varna, and they have orders to occupy that city if the Russians who were illegally arrested are not released. The Novoe Vremya says the despatching of the cruisers to Varna is the beginning of the end of the crisis. The temporary occupation of Varna will be a guarantee against a fresh violation of the rights of Russian subjects.

The Meeting of the Sobranje Postponed.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—It is rumored that the meeting of the Sobranje has been postponed, pending attempts of the Powers to persuade Russia to nominate a candidate for election to the Bulgarian throne. The Russian consuls at Rustchuk and Bourgos have been notified to expect men-of-war to protect Russian subjects.

TIME FOR HARD-HITTING.

United Ireland Tells Tenants that Political Endurance is no Longer a Virtue.

DUBLIN, Oct. 28.—United Ireland tells the Irish tenants that the time for political endurance is passed and says it is time for them to stand up and fight, hard-hitting from the shoulder. The Unionists, it says, have been in power for six months and have not made an attempt to suppress the National Leagrie, which is stronger, more active and more resolute than ever, and laughs at the Government devices, bluster and threats. The paper taunts the Government with being afraid to use coercion.

Seven Persons Drowned.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The British steamer Borderer, Captain Manley, from Boston, Oct. 16, for London, collided with the Minerva in the Thames. The latter vessel sank and seven persons were drowned. The Borderer sustained no damage.

THE ELECTIONS COMING.

At the Reform demonstration at Guelph last night, Mr. Blake stated that within the last twenty-four hours he had received information that the dissolution of Parliament would be announced immediately.

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

As will be seen by advertisement in another column, a convention of the Liberals of East Peterborough has been called at Norwood for Tuesday, Nov. 9th, for the nomination of candidates for the representation of the riding in the Dominion Parliament and the Ontario Legislature. Everything portends the speedy bringing on of the Dominion elections, and, as it is of th eutmost importance that the completest preparation and most thorough organization should be effected, it is hoped every Liberal in the riding, who can do so, will be at Norwood on Nov. 9th.

A COMPREHENSIVE INDICTMENT.

The following assignment by the Globe, of the present Dominion Government, contains so large a volume of truth in condensed form, and is so pertinent to the present political situation, that no excuse for re-producing it is called for:

The electors of Canada will soon be asked to place the Tory party again in power at Ottawa. Now is the time for people to remember what ensued upon their favorable response to the similar invitations of 1878 and 1882.

Immediately after taking office in the former year the Macdonaldites began to plunder the treasury. They perpetrated the Carillon job, the Section B job, all the Thunder Bay Branch frauds, and the Ouderdonk job in quick succession. In the case of Whitehead's contracts they laid open the public chest to the "influence" of Mr. Charles Mackintosh and numerous other "friends of Tupper." They saddled the country with a bargain which gave the C. P. R. Co. many millions of profit for the purchase of minor lines. They laid on the North-west the curse of a railway monopoly; they created the colonization companies, which, after incalculably retarding prairie settlement, are now being wound up; they instigated the disastrous Manitoba boom to promote the speculations of Dewdney and like grabbers; they locked up the "mile belt" and other reserves with the effect that thousands of industrious settlers "left the country, with a curse," according to their own Winnipeg organ, the Times. All this time Ministers and their friends were elbow deep in the treasury, and so busy in converting their public trusts to private uses that they had no attention for the petitions of the Metis.

In 1882 they received a new lease of power by aid of the "boodlers" and "boomsters" whom they had exalted. Relieved from fear for another term, they became livelier than ever at the business of plundering Ranches, town sites, wild lands, coal mines, timber limits, railway subsidies, land grants—all manner of public property was divided among prominent Tories and their relatives and friends. The Civil Service was nearly doubled; deficits larger than ever before known were incurred under unprecentedly high taxation; the public expenditure was increaseed by $12,000,000 a year, the public debt by $111,000,000. Fourteen prices were paid to Mr. Thomas White's organ for printing, and the whole daily Tory press similarly shared in the spoils. 1y33d

Up to the time of the Saskatchewan rebellion the carnival of corruption was sustained. During its continuance enormous speculations were made by official Tories. The rebellion itself cost 200 precious lives and $5,000,000. It was entirely due to the wanton maladministration of the Government. They had filled the North-West with blackguard officials; they had handed a half-breed settlement over to the White-Jamieson boodlers; they had suffered Dewdney and his gang to administer the Indian Fund in such a way that only $454,000 out of $1,000,000 annually granted by Parliament reached the wards of the nation, for whose benefit the whole sum had been voted. With the Ottawa Ministry engaged entirely in distributing and salting away swag; with the Metis kept seven years out of scrip, and, moreover, harried on their lands; with the Indians told by Dewdney to eat rotten pork or "die and be damned," what wonder that the rebellion broke out?

Such have been the effects of granting two leases of power to Sir John Macdonald. Would it be wise to give him a third term?

THE average Conservative sheet declares that the Riel issue was the only element in defeating the Ross-Taillon Government, but the Montreal Post a strong supporter of the new defunct government in throwing up the sponge, gives the real reason of their defeat. The Post says:—

"Had the Ross-Taillon Government stood fairly on its own merit, the recent polling shows that it would have been sustained. But it has suffered owing to the impression which has prevailed that it was not strong sufficiently independently of the Federal authorities, and for the political crime of its predecessors, which it had not the courage to repudiate."

This is as much as to say that the Ross Government was in bad company and that in punishing the local government by defeat the electors only anticipated the rebuke they will give to the Federal Government, when the time shall come for giving expression to their judgment.

THEY MAY YET BE FRIENDS.

Mr. Dillon on the Responsibility That Rests on English Liberals.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—John Dillon has an article on the Irish question in the November number of the Nineteenth Century. It says: "There are the strongest reasons to expect that a large section of the landlords in Ireland intend to evict tenants during the coming winter. If there is to be another land war, the new faith of the Liberal party may be put to a severe strain. Many bitter things will be said and in spite of all we can do, deeds may be done in Ireland which will shock them deeply. A very great responsibility will rest upon the Liberals. If they will be strong in their faith and sufficiently wide in their sympathies to enter into the bitterness of an oppressed people all will come right very soon and Mr. Gladstone will live to see the two peoples friends."

A CONFERENCE OF ARCHBISHOPS.

The Attitude of the Church Towards the Knights of Labor.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 28.—A conference of archbishops was held to-day at the Cardinal's. The subject under discussion was the attitude of the Catholic Church towards the Knights of Labor. The result of the deliberations was not made public, but a prominent churchman intimated to-night that the prelates were disposed to look favorably on the organization. The matter will be referred to the Vatican for approval, and will be put in the form of a circular which will be taken to Rome by Bishops Keane, of Richmond, and Spalding of Peoria, to whom have been entrusted letters to the Pope relating to the new Catholic university.

Temperance in Politics.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 28.—The Women's Christian Temperance Union convention adjourned sine die last evening. A mass meeting was held at the Casino, the principal address being one on prohibition by Rev. Mary A. Lathrop, who was introduced as the Daniel Webster of temperance reform. She said: "It has not hurt temperance to be taken into the realm of politics, although its advocates may torment politicians. Even the church has offered no check to the legalized political power of the liquor traffic."

Mrs. Stewart's Funeral.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The funeral of Mrs. Cornelia M. Stewart took place to-day from her mansion. No one was admitted except relatives and friends of the deceased. The body was placed in a velvet covered casket with silver trimmings and rested on a floral catafalque. The floral designs were numerous. Bishop Littlejohn and Rev. Arthur Brooks officiated. A special train took the remains and the friends to Garden City, where the obsequies were held in the cathedral.

Seventy-Five Thousand Short.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 28.—On the arrest of F. J. F. Bradley, in Chicago, for defalcation by the Pullman Palace Car Company, an expert accountant was brought to Detroit and an investigation of the books revealed a shortage of $75,000. Several amounts, the largest being $25,000, were taken at different times and changes made in the entries. The investigation has resulted in the discharge of Chief Accountant David Wilson, as being cognizant of Bradley's crookedness.

SACRAMENTAL WINE.

The Bishops Declare that the Use of Unfermented Grape Juice is Unwarranted.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 27.—In the House of Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Convention this morning a message was received from the House of Bishops declaring that in the judgment of the bishops the use of the unfermented juice of the grape in the sacrament is not warranted by the example of our Lord and was an unauthorized departure from the practice of the Catholic Church; and that the mixing of water with the wine used was not objectionable, provided it be not done ritualistically until authorized by a change of the Rubrics. The message did not require any action by the deputies.

An Octogenarian Killed on the Track.

HAMILTON, Oct. 27.—Robert Wade, one of the oldest employes of the Great Western division of the Grand Trunk Railway, was killed this morning. He attempted to cross the track between two cars, when he was caught between them and thrown down, the upper part of his chest being crushed by a wheel of the car. He was 80 years old on Oct. 14. He had been employed in the blacksmith shop of the railway here for 30 years. Half a century ago he came from Norfolk, Eng., to Canada.

England Will Not Be Asked to Evacuate.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The Siecle, in an article similar to that in yesterday's Temps, declares that there is no question of calling upon England to evacuate Egypt. The Paris and France severely criticise the views expressed by the Temps.

Three Times Married.

MONTREAL, Oct 27.—The man named John Trenholme, alias John Brown, who is charged with bigamy has left here for parts unknown. In doing so he has left, so it is alleged, in all three wives, a young one here, one with eight children in Sherbrooke and one with two children in Manitoba.

An Illicit Still Seized.

BRUSSELS, Ont., Oct. 27.—A. Cavan, Collector of Inland Revenue, Stratford, seized an illicit still to-day in the township of Howrick, and had two of the proprietors arrested and sentenced to two months' imprisonment and a penalty of $400.

A Postmaster's Wife Suicides.

LISTOWEL, Ont., Oct. 27.—Mrs. G. W. Watson, wife of the postmaster at Molesworth, committed suicide yesterday by hanging. She had been sick for some time, and is supposed to have been deranged when she committed the rash act.

Broke From Her Tow and Sank.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 27.—During Sunday night's gale the schooner Lady Dufferin broke loose from her tow, the steam barge Wm. Hall, near Cabot's Head and sank. The vessel and cargo are a total loss. No lives were lost.

Three Vessels Wrecked on Superior.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27.—A telegram from Port Arthur reports a heavy storm on Lake Superior. The schooner Pride of America was seen off Princess Bay flying a flag of distress. She is thought to have since been wrecked. The steamer Glasgow is also reported wrecked. The steamer A. Neff was wrecked in Montreux Channel, but no lives were lost.

A few days ago there arrived at Battleford from Saskatoon, eighty-five miles distant, a settler with a load of fresh butter and potatoes.

THIS is a maxim which may be wisely applied to municipal and business matters as well. I would respectfully call attention to the fact that I have just returned from the wholesale markets where I have purchased my well assorted stock of

BOOTS AND SHOES,
For the Fall and Winter Trade.

I would specially call attention to my Boys' and Mens' Balmorals, warranted to keep out wet and snow; Ladies' and Childrens' Boots and Shoes, Rubbers, Overshoes, etc. Altogether the best and cheapest stock of boots and shoes ever placed on the local market. Everything guaranteed first-class. Give me a call at my shop, corner of Sherbrooke and Sherbrooke Sts. and you will save money thereby.

All of my stock has been made by hand. None of it has been sewed by machinery to rip and give out after a few weeks wear.

Repairing neatly and promptly executed at cheap rates.

I wish to return thanks to those who so kindly bestowed their patronage on me since commencing business one year ago, and I trust by giving good value to merit a continuance of the same

RUPTURE CURED
EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 25th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spermatic trusses made in New York State, costing me $36. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; ever to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, Capt. H. Ramsay.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sent; and 95 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send 1 stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your measurement blank, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

R. W. MUNCASTER.

A New Story About Senator Evarts.

A story illustrative of the ready wit of William M. Evarts, comes to Tid-Bits. It has never been published, and, being strictly true, will be of interest.

In the year 1850 Mr. B., a lawyer of prominence in New York city, had a country-seat at White Plains, Westchester county, N. Y.

About that time, Mr. Evarts having to go abroad, and being the possessor of a horse, suggested to his friend B. that he should take the animal and accept the use of him for a few months in return for his "keep," to which B. assented. The horse was taken to White Plains, placed in a livery stable, and used occasionally by B.

Now B. knew a great deal more about law than he did about a horse, and therefore did not recognise the fact that the livery stable keeper was, by economy of "feed," gradually reducing the flesh of the animal, until, on Mr. Evarts' return, in about five months, the poor brute's ribs were painfully apparent.

Upon seeing the horse, Mr. Evarts exclaimed: "Joe, what in the world have you been doing to my horse? He looks as if he had been work on a stone boat!" To which B. replied: "Why, William, he has been up here in C's stable, and we have used him very little, except occasionally to take a short drive about town; and once we went over to Tarrytown, and several times we drove to Rye."

With his peculiar smile, Mr. Evarts replied: "I don't mind, Joe, how often you drove him to Rye, but I do wish you had driven him a little oftener to Oats."
—Tid-Bits.

Rugs in Place of Carpets.

Before another twenty years shall have passed away we venture to predict that there will scarcely be a room in the city which will be covered from end to end and side to side with thick, impenetrable carpet. Apart from all fashion and all theory, it will be recognised as a fact that health demands movable floor coverings, or, failing those, coverings which can be cleansed daily. The ancients understood this perfectly. Socrates waxed eloquent in describing what a house should be, how needful air and sunshine and cleanliness were for health, and imagination calls up the inferiors of that time with their mosaic pavements and the absence of all that would have harbored dust, and in doing so disease. The luxurious native of the East, the inventor of carpets, never even in his most indolent moment conceived the possibility of saving himself the trouble of shaking his carpet by fixing it to the floor, and although we can not credit him with any exalted ideas of cleanliness in his domestic arrangements, we must at least concede that he showed a good deal of common sense in this respect.

Twenty-five years ago physicians began to enter a protest against the enervation of modern houses: thence they passed to detail; the more enlightened entered upon a sort of crusade against floor covering, and declared that infectious diseases were harbored in the woolen hangings and carpets of their well-to-do patients quite as surely as amid the squalor and filth of over-crowded alleys. People no longer sleep (at least sensible people do not) in four-post bedsteads, with woolen curtains drawn closely around them; they are even recognizing the desirability of leaving their windows unincumbered with voluminous folds of velvet and of rep, and going a stage further they are beginning to realize that floors and their coverings are important factors in the question of hygiene.

Rugs are certainly free from many of the most serious objections to carpets, even when they are fixed upon the floor, which in our estimation they never ought to be. It is possible to wash well all around them, to remove the dust from the corners of the room, and even under the edges of the rug itself. But such a condition of affairs is still far from satisfactory. There is always more or less dirt about a stationary carpet, in any room that is much lived in, and the best housemaids in the world can not rid an immovable rug of dust as readily on the floor as they could off it. Carpets ought, as a matter of health, to be taken up once a week, laid over a line and thoroughly beaten, but where is the household where this rule is enforced?

The growing conviction of the superiority of rugs to carpets is shown in the newest houses, in many of which the floors are expressly arranged with stained borders, a parquet flooring, which it is possible to leave entirely uncovered. What a boon this is to persons of small means! Nothing eats into a small sum of money for house-furnishing more disastrously than a carpet. It is useless to buy a cheap one; cheap carpets are never of any use, and the price of a good one is a formidable consideration. This is another argument in favor of rugs—cheap rugs wear a great deal better than cheap carpets, for the obvious reason that they are not pulled and strained in every direction, and are only subjected to limited wear and tear.
—N. Y. Times.

The City of Henderson, in North Carolina, is now said to be the largest in the world. A printer's error is responsible for the fact. It was intended to extend the limits 1,000 yards in each direction from the depot, but the printer made the bill to read "1,000 miles," and the bill passed without the error being noticed. This is one of the cases in the calling of a shovel a spade does not make it one.

MISSING LINKS.

We ate 1,928,000 tons of sugar in America last year.

Negotiations are in progress for the establishment of a gigantic steel mill at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Parke Godwin is now nearing 70. His massive head is covered with a mane of snow-white hair, but he is seemingly as energetic in work as ever.

The Old World's watches are no longer what they used to be in the estimation of the American public. The absolutely accurate and unvarying work of machinery which has attained almost to perfection here has crowded out the foreign made watches, no two of which are alike. There are various reasons for this, one being that the American watches are better, and another that they are much easier and less expensive to repair.

Dr. Lighthall, who died of small-pox at San Antonio, Tex., recently, was the most famous and successful quack in the country. He was a handsome man of 40, with an income, it is said, of fully $100,000 a year from his practice and the sale of his medicines. He usually wore $100,000 worth of diamonds and a $5,000 watch. Frequently he would spend $600 on a crowd of men whom he had never seen before. During the last ten years he had visited every large town in the South and West.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.
The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture holders, they having a first claim, or ever pages on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $900,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.
By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security, on the Easiest Current Rates of Interest.
The Mortgagor may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed.
Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or to any of the Agents.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE.
Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, luxuriant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,
which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

GO.

It is remarkable how our Ulsters, Mantles and Dolmans go.

Our success this season has been unparalleled (considering the fine warm weather,) in making up Ulsters, Mantles and Dolmans from our very complete stock.

The autumn chills, the winter snow,
The heavy dew, the pattering rain,
The frosts that bite, the winds that blow,
Invade our Ulsters all in vain.

In carsken folk's our Ulster thrown,
But, round the human form divine,
The perfect fit will still disclose
The rounding form, the curving line.

Faultless Fit, Correct Styles, Good Variety, Excellent Work

at a great saving in price will be found in Alexander's Mantles, Ulsters and Dolmans made to order. Inspect our stock.

LOCAL NEWS.

Oysters! Oysters!

Choice Baltimore Oysters received daily at Ostrom's.

For the Algoma District.

This morning Mr. R. G. Strickland despatched a gang of 15 men to his lumbering camp at Thessalon, Algoma. The tickets were purchased from the up-town agency of the C. P. R.

Gathering of the Clans.

A convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough is called in Peterborough for Saturday, November 6th, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Dominion and Local elections.

The Twain are One.

Mr. James Reid, Lock Road, left at the EXAMINER office this morning a curiosity in fruit. It consists of two perfectly formed apples grown together on a single stem—this, too, on a young tree in its first fruit-bearing season.

On the Verandah.

Wednesday night about 11 o'clock Mrs. Wood, living at the west end of Sherbrooke street, heard the noise of some one moving about the verandah of her house, but on going to the door could see no one, his burglarship having decamped. Thus was another burglary "nipped in the bud."

Bah for Lakefield.

Two 'bus loads of happy young people drove through the drenching rain and muddy roads last night to the residence of Mr. Jas. Walton, near Lakefield, where a most pleasant evening was spent. Barring a breakdown to one of the vehicles, everything passed off smoothly. Home was reached as the grey light of approaching dawn streaked the horizon.

Amateur Dramatics.

The histrionically inclined members of the P. A. A. A. intend placing a play upon the boards at no distant date. With the experience they had last season and with the encouragement of success to stimulate them, there is little doubt that the "boys" will give the opportunity of witnessing the clever presentation of some popular drama, not yet, however, decided upon.

Young Men's Liberal Club.

A meeting of the members of the Young Men's Liberal Club will be held in the rooms this evening, for the election of officers and for the consideration of such other matters as the present position of political affairs may suggest. It is important that there should be a large attendance, both of members and of those who sympathize with the promotion of success of the cause of Liberalism. There is work to be done, and every young and active Liberal and friend to honest, economical administration of both federal and provincial affairs is urged to lend his assistance.

Returned Home.

Messrs. Edward and John O'Brien, sons of Mr. James O'Brien, Lake street, who left Peterborough early in the season with a staff of men for the "Rookies," to work on the C. P. R. snow sheds there, on the contract of Messrs. McDermott & Ross, returned home Wednesday. Three weeks ago last Monday, while the men were engaged in hoisting, a scaffold gave way, and Edward fell a distance of 20 feet, breaking both his wrists. He was taken to the hospital in connection with the works, which is supported by a monthly contribution of 50 cents from each man, and thence brought home by his brother John and placed under the care of Dr. O'Sullivan. Mr. John O'Brien expects the sheds will be completed by the first of the month, and the Peterborough staff at work thereon may be expected home about the middle of the month. There are about 2 200 men employed on McDermott & Ross' contract.

A Distingtished Honor.

The following highly complimentary reference to Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan, of Toronto, barrister, is from the Irish Canadian:—

"It gives us pleasure to notice that our esteemed fellow-citizen, Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan, barrister, has been honored by Laval University with the degree of Doctor of Laws. Laval is one of the oldest seats of learning in America, and bestows its favors very sparingly. Looking over its "annual" for the current year, we find the names with which Mr. O'Sullivan's has been associated to be those principally of judges and others learned in the law. To be thus classed is indeed a proud distinction; and Mr. O'Sullivan is to be congratulated on his fresh honors, conferred, as we learn, in acknowledgement of his efforts in clearing up some disputed points in the history of the Church of Canada, for the different law books written by him, and for certain miscellaneous writing. The authorities of Laval doubtless also took into account that Mr. O'Sullivan was eligible for the degree of Doctor of Laws in the University of Toronto, and that he was one of its senators, representing the Catholics of this province.

Mr. O'Sullivan's career has certainly been brilliant. He graduated in 1872 in Arts as B.A., and in Law in 1876, taking the degree of M.A. in 1877. He was scholar in law—that is, he stood first every year during the course, with a prize of $120 each year—a position that any student might feel proud of. He has written three law books, on "Wills," on "Conveyancing," and on "Canadian Government," and is the author of papers published in the Canadian Institute Journal, in Donahoe's and other magazines. Mr. O'Sullivan is also a regular contributor to the American Catholic Quarterly Review, in which appeared those researches in ecclesiastical affairs which have won for him his latest honor. Again let us congratulate Mr. O'Sullivan, and wish him long life in its enjoyment, and a still more brilliant and prosperous career."

The Mikado Social.

The Second Night a Fight with the Elements.

There was odious weather for the second night of the Mikado Social. All the first part of the evening there was a steady downdour of rain, and as the public are not amphibious, there were few that braved the aerial deluge, compared to the large number that filled St. John's school room the previous evening. Nevertheless the programme was conscientiously and creditably carried out. By special request several numbers of Wednesday evening's programme were repeated. The chorus of men, "If You Want to Know Who We Are," was sung with such excellent effect as to provoke an encore, which was heartily responded to. Mrs. G. A. Smith followed with a beautiful pianoforte solo, in which her exquisite delicacy of fingering combined with force, as occasion required, were admirably brought out. Mr. Hutchins gave a splendid rendering of of Millard's "When the Tide Comes in," and, in response to the recall that invariably follows his fine singing, he sang an hilariously funny comic character-song. The "Three Little Maids" were rewarded with an encore for the admirable presentation of their haughable trio. Mr. Newbald sang very nicely a serio-humorous song, and gave for an encore a sentimental selection. There then followed several pieces—of delicious nut cake—with a Japanese accompaniment—of tea served in dainty little five-o'clock tea cups. During the service of refreshments Miss Dumble and Miss Wrighton delighted the feasters with a pianoforte duet, the Mikado waltzes. In yesterday's report, mention of the duet performed by these ladies on Wednesday evening was omitted, owing to its not being down on the regular programme. It may be here noted that the promoters of the social are deeply indebted to Miss Dumble, not only for her contributions to the musical programme, but also for her liberal assistance in the way of decorations, etc., which is deserving of their grateful recognition. The second part was opened by Mrs. G. A. Smith in an admirably played imitation pianoforte selection. The "Mikado chorus" again took the house by storm, and an encore was insisted on. Miss Vair's "Sweet Mignonette" was very sweetly sung, and Mrs. Seward's humorous recitation excited the risibility of the audience preparatory to the "Yum Yum" chorus by the full "company" which was sung in a very creditable manner. This brought the programme to a close.

The Mikado social may be pronounced a decided success. It was excellently managed throughout. The success of investing everything with Japanese characteristics was very happy. The costumes of the different artists were excellent, some remarkably so, while the manner in which some of the performers caught the spirit of the characters they represented was very creditable to their histrionic intuitions. The performers deserve especial commendation for the manner in which they filled their several roles, when it is borne in mind that they had only two rehearsals and one dress rehearsal before the public appearance. The success of the social is due largely to the energy and activity of the ladies of the congregation, among whom Mrs. Dunsford and Miss Errett, who, it is stated, originated the Mikado idea, were by no means the least active. Of course Mr. Seward, organist of St. John's, who played the accompaniments on the fine "Baby Grand" Williams piano, belonging to the school room, is to be largely credited with responsibility for the smoothness with which the musical part of the programme moved.

Police Court.

FRIDAY, Oct. 29th.

Hugh Kay, proprietor of the Albion hotel, was charged with a violation of the Scott Act. R. E. Wood, C.C.A., appeared for the prosecution; W. A. Stratton for defence. Only three witnesses were examined. They all swore to having procured ginger ale at the defendant's hotel, but the last one on being pressed admitted what he had was beer, on which he became slightly intoxicated. Defendant was fined $50 and costs.

Personal.

Mr. J. K. Macdonald, managing director of the Confederation Life Association, is in town to-day selecting an agent to represent this county at Peterborough.

"An Echo Answers, Where?"

And the answer comes quickly back again: "Morrow, Tierney & Co.'s for fine groceries."

How is Your Glasses.

Messrs. Sherwood & Co. have been favored with instructions from Mr. Robert Neil to sell by public auction the whole of J. W. Miller's bankrupt stock of boots and shoes at his old stand, under the town clock, commencing at 1 o'clock p.m. to-morrow (Saturday) and in the evening at 7.30. Positively no reserve, as the goods must and shall be sold.

Thieves at School.

For a few months past a number of articles of clothing have been missed from the clothes rack in the hall of the Central Public school, but in only one instance has the stolen article been recovered. Only a few days ago the cape off an ulster was taken, and despite the best efforts of the teachers, no trace of it have yet been found. The teachers are doing their best to stop this pilfering.

Accident.

Yesterday morning Joseph Cahill, (son of Councillor T. Cahill) in the employ of Fortye & Phelan, hardware merchants, was splitting some kindling wood in the cellar, when the axe struck a barrel, glanced off, and cut an ugly gash in the right foot from the toe to the instep. The lad, with difficulty, made his way upstairs, where his wound was dressed in a professional manner by Messrs. T. Lapointe and John Brock. The boot was patrely cut across, and the wonder is the whole foot was not amputated.

Make a Note of It.

The Newark Register says:—"Mr. Stuart Rogers, the inimitable humorist, gave an entertainment last evening in Association hall, and was received with great applause. Mr. Rogers is so well known throughout the States that it seems superfluous to say anything of his ability. His impersonations of the characters of different nationalities are unequalled by any other person who has undertaken the same line of business." Peterborough citizens will have an opportunity of hearing Mr. Rogers in the Opera house Friday next.

A Pair of Presentations.

In the necessarily hurried report in yesterday's EXAMINER of the wedding of Mr. A. W. Brodie and Miss Edmison at St. Andrew's church, mention was omitted of two presentations—one of a silver pickle cruet to the bride, by the pupils of her S. S. class on Wednesday afternoon at the family residence; the other of a family Bible, by the congregation of the church to the newly wedded couple. This latter gift was made in accordance with the honored old-time custom of presenting a Bible to the first couple married in a new church.

Marriage at Ennismore.

Tuesday forenoon in the parish church at Ennismore, Mr. David Crough, son of Wm. Crough, Esq. Reeve of Ennismore was united in holy wedlock to Katie, daughter of Mr. Angus Williams, of Peterborough, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Keilty. The bride was supported by her sister, Flora, and the groomsman was Mr. W. H. Crough. At the wedding the church choir, which Miss Williams organized a few years ago and has had charge of ever since, sang several excellent selections, Miss Annie Crough presiding at the organ. After the ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of intimate friends of both the contracting parties, the married couple had their assembled friends drove to the residence of the brides father, Crescent Street, Peterborough, where they stopped for dinner, and too, returning to their new home at Ennismore, early in the evening, where a most pleasant time ensued. The bride is one of Peterborough's most amiable and accomplished daughters, while of the groom it may be said he is a very popular and estimable young man. Mr. and Mrs. Crough have the best wishes for future happiness of scores of friends in Ennismore and Peterborough.

A Crusade Against Stray Cattle.

At this season of the year when the beautiful lawns of churches and private residences have been rendered soft and impressionable by heavy rains, the utmost care should be taken to guard against their despoliation by stray cattle or other quadrupeds. A cow can in one night do more damage than is at first supposed. When it is remembered, however, that the beauty of lawns consists in their smooth, glossy appearance, and that the small hoofs of cattle would sink several inches in the mucky soil, it can easily be imagined what appearance a lawn would present after having been left for several hours to the tender mercies of one or more cows. Unprotected as they are in the majority of cases by even the slightest apology for a fence, they offer a most tempting pasturage for cattle. Two citizens have already been fined for allowing their cows to stray from their premises, and the police have received instructions to be particularly active in the enforcement of the cow by-law. All parties are given ample warning that vagrant cows will be snatched up and their owners punished for their neglect in not securely housing the animals.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

Rum Stocks.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of previous stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumer, as well as enhancing the profits of home manufacturers. Especially in this the case with Gregg's Aegent Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of the stamp costs per dozen has been added to the size of the bottles containing these medicines, thereby giving each fifth bottle added to the 75 cent size. The Aegent Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps the largest sale of any medicines in the country, the advantage of increased size of the bottles will be highly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

A FEW FACTS WORTH KNOWING!

IT IS A FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling 25 inch, pure, all wool Grey Flannels, plain or twilled, at 18c. per yard.

IT IS A PATENT FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling Heavy Cosumas Dress Goods at 8c. per yard.

IT IS A STUBBORN FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling 28 inch wide Army Flannels for 25c. per yard.

IT IS A WELL KNOWN FACT—that Thomas Kelly has the largest stock of Ladies' and Childrens' Hose in town.

IT IS AN INDISPUTABLE FACT—that Thomas Kelly's Navy Blue Flannel, Plain or Twilled, at 20c. per yard are unequalled.

IT IS A DECIDED FACT—that Thomas Kelly will not be undersold, and that his Melton Dress Goods at 8c. are unexcelled.

IT IS A MOST DECIDED FACT—that Thomas Kelly's Blankets, Flannels, Shirts and Drawers are the best value in town.

IT IS AN INCONTROVERTIBLE and INCORRIGIBLE FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling Mens' Heavy, All Wool, Knitted Socks at 15c. per pair.

Facts are stubborn things, and should you question the foregoing facts—you have only to call on Thomas Kelly to get a positive demonstration of the truth.

Why

Will people pay rent when homes and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned. Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we come to get our business. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building plots and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1886.

BISHOP WHIPPLE.

HIS STORY OF THE TERRIBLE DISASTER AT RIO, WIS.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 29.—Conductor Hankey, of the freight train, who fled into the woods immediately after the accident occurred at Rio, has been found wandering around in a raving condition. He will probably become a hopeless maniac. Conductor Searle is resting comfortably, and it is believed he will recover. The loss to the company by the accident is estimated at $50,000.

Bishop Whipple makes the following statement:

"A freight train reached Rio about twenty minutes before the limited train, which was wrecked, and the switch had been left open. Our train was going at the rate of forty-five miles an hour. The courage and bravery of the engineer cannot be praised too highly. He stayed with the engine, and I have never known an air-break to be set so quickly and strongly as that one was. I was in the first sleeper and had the berth on the end next to the day coach. Mr. McGinnis of Morris was in the berth opposite me. The instant of the shock he sprang from the berth and ran to the front end of the car, but it was impossible to get out at that end, for it had telescoped. He rushed back and cried out: 'Come and help me save these people who are being burned to death!'

"I had been awake but a few minutes before and had looked at my watch. It was 12.30 o'clock. I followed McGinnis in my stocking feet. He ran faster than I, and when I came to the burning coach he had taken two children from a woman near the rear of the coach. She said her name was Sherer of Winona, and asked him to save her children for their father was living. We both tried to lift the woman from the car, but we could not, for she was wedged beneath the broken seats. A moment after we reached her, her dress took fire and she fainted and was burned to death before our eyes. There was comparatively little screaming coming from the cars; there was rather the low moan of suffering, and I believe the most of those who perished were killed outright. The car was telescoped at both ends.

"Mr. Ames, who was on the train, saw the passengers in that coach and so did my wife, and they think that there were seventeen. There were two Sisters of Charity, who boarded the train and were bound for Winona; there was a mother and daughter, whose names are unknown; three young men; a middle-aged man, Mrs. Sherer, her mother and two children; a man that got on at Columbus, two men who boarded the car at Watertown Junction, and the man who climbed out at the top. He and the two children were saved; the others were burned to death.

"In about an hour and a half Mr. Collins, Superintendent of that division, arrived from Milwaukee, and Philip Langley and Mr. Boyden of the company were on the train and everything was done that could be done for the comfort of the passengers who were left. The ladies on the train were especially kind in caring for the two motherless children. One was a little girl about four years old and the other a baby, a little boy. The passengers in the sleeping cars had some slight bruises, but none were seriously injured."

Bishop Whipple said that as for himself, he was in good condition, though the excitement had affected him somewhat. Other passengers say that Bishop Whipple was among the most active and cool-headed of all the passengers, and did gallant service in trying to save the poor woman who was being burned to death, not ceasing his efforts until the flames drove him away.

The Franciscan Sisters who lost their lives by the railway wreck at Rio were Sister Alphonse and Sister Dunpeus. They had been to Chicago and were on their way to Winona Institute with a new candidate from New Canada. All those perished.

The Peterborough Aqueduct.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 29.—The last stone on this stupendous work was laid yesterday in the presence of Chief Engineer Page, Capt. Thompson, engineer of the southern section of the canal; Mr. Ellis, superintendent, and the Mayor and other leading citizens of Welland. Mr. Page expressed himself highly pleased with the successful completion of the undertaking and the excellence of the work. It is expected that next spring the work will be so far completed as to be open for navigation.

An Inaccountable Departure.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—Mr. Knowles, trader of Point St. Charles, has left the city. He was doing a good business. No reason can be given for his departure. The liabilities are about $15,000 with assets about the same. A meeting of creditors will be held at an early date.

The General in the States.

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 29.—Gen. Booth, Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, is here to-day with about 600 soldiers from various posts in the State. Parades, banquet and a lecture by Gen. Booth are the order of exercises.

A Farmer's Suicide.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 29.—On Wednesday Andrew Gould, a farmer living in the Township of Stonington, committed suicide by hanging. He had given signs of insanity for some months.

A FIGHT WITH A DOG.

A MAN AND A BRINDLE BULL STRUGGLE FOR DEAR LIFE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Wm. Klinkhammer's death was reported this morning, and investigation leaves little doubt that it was caused by hydrophobia. Klinkhammer, who was a carpenter, was on his way to work on Sept. 11, when an enormous brindle bulldog rushed furiously upon him. Klinkhammer, though a man about 38 years of age, was possessed of much courage and agility, and seeing no avenue of escape from the brute drew a long open knife from his pocket, and a savage fight ensued between the man and the dog. The fight was a terrible one. In a few minutes the sidewalk was covered with the blood of both the combatants, the man using the knife with deadly effect, while the dog was literally lacerating the limbs of the latter. In at least four different places Klinkhammer inflicted deep, gaping wounds, while the dog's fangs met each other in four places through the man's legs. At length the terrible scene was brought to an end by Klinkhammer making his escape through the sheer exhaustion of the animal from the loss of blood. The poor fellow painfully dragged his mangled limbs to his home and lay down upon what proved to be his death bed. In one week he had to be removed to the hospital and remained there till a week ago Monday. During his stay there the doctors discovered symptoms of blood poisoning and wanted to amputate the affected limbs. Klinkhammer obstinately refused to allow this, and was taken back to his home. Within twenty-four hours the symptoms of the frightful malady which is supposed to have caused his death had increased to an alarming extent. On the second day he raved and on the third he was a violent and dangerous maniac. Death ended his agonies yesterday afternoon, four men being obliged to hold him down in bed.

THE CHECK TO TRADE.

Bradstreet Reports Quietness with no Prospect of Immediate Improvement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's reflect on the whole a continuance of the late check to general trade. While this appears to be of a reasonable character, after the recent period of active trading, there is little in sight at most to suggest an immediate improvement although public confidence in its appearance in the near future is unabated. At most of the cities reporting a better business cooler weather preceded it. The demand for funds for general commercial and industrial enterprise at most of the large cities continues marked. The distribution of dry goods from eastern centers has been noticeably checked, though prices are strongly held. The demand for raw wool from manufacturers is not so large as in September though the decreased demand from the Eastern knitting mills has caused no weakness yet. The strength recently shown in iron and steel is fully maintained.

A MINING PANIC EXPECTED.

The Premier of Queensland Warns Investors Against Gold Mine Frauds.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The attention of the Government of Queensland having been drawn in the Legislative Assembly to the gold mine shares which are being offered in England, Premier Griffith has sent a cable despatch to the agent general for the colony in London, saying that he doubts whether the schemes in question are bona fide and cautioning investors against them. It is believed that the warning will produce a mining panic to-morrow.

SPROULE IS HANGED.

After Much Delay the Kootenay Mines Murderer Pays the Penalty.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 29.—Robert Evan Sproule, the American citizen, was hanged here this morning for the murder of Thomas Hammell in June, 1885, at the Kootenay mines. Sproule ascended the scaffold without a tremor and made a short speech, protesting his innocence.

The Gunboats Mean Business.

SOFIA, Oct. 29.—Gen. Kaulbars, the Russian military agent, has addressed a fresh note to the Bulgarian Foreign Minister, in which he says: "In view of the arrival at Varna of Government emissaries who are spreading reports that the presence of the Russian gunboats there is without importance, I am compelled to inform you that these gunboats will vigorously affirm their importance if events render it necessary."

How Gen. Kaulbars' Ambition Was Thwarted

VIENNA, Oct. 29.—The Neue Freie Presse says a proposed meeting at Sofia to overthrow the present Bulgarian Government and proclaim a ministry under Zeancoff, with Gen. Kaulbars as the head of the army, was frustrated by the proclamation of a state of siege at Sofia.

Snubbed Again.

VIENNA, Oct. 29.—The Political Correspondent says the regency of Bulgaria have sent a communication to Gen. Kaulbars informing him of their refusal to raise a state of seige at Sofia and Varna as he advised.

The Last Big Express Robbery.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—D. S. Fotheringham, Adams' express messenger, whose car was robbed last Monday, is still here. He has not been arrested, though accompanied wherever he goes by a detective. Suspicion is expressed that several employes of the express and railroad companies carefully planned the robbery with the knowledge of Fotheringham and divided the money between them. Claims have been made to the company which will swell the amount stolen to $81,000. A majority of these claims have been settled.

The Transcontinental Railroads.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—The trans-continental railroads have unanimously adopted an agreement to discontinue all commissions on the part of all the roads except the Iowa lines, who are allowed to retain one dollar commission on each first-class passenger. It also provides that each road shall retain its own office and that the Canadian Pacific and Pacific Mail lines will not be recognized as competing lines.

American Women's Suffrage Association.

TOPEKA, Ks., Oct. 29.—The meeting of the American Women's Suffrage Association closed last evening. Hon. William Dudley Folke was re-elected President, Lucy Stone, Chairman, Julia Ward Howe Corresponding Secretary, Vice-Presidents and Executive Committees from every state and territory. The platform recommends municipal and presidential suffrage by statute and amendments of state and national constitutions.

Strike Among Printers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Eighteen of the thirty-six compositors on the Tribune struck last night by order of the Typographical Union. The men claim that, although the Tribune pays more per 1000 ems for composition than any other paper in the city, yet by reason of not being continuously employed they cannot make so much as under the common system.

THE LINE HURON ASHORE.

She Strikes a Boulder in the Channel and Has to be Beached.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29.—The steamship Lake Huron of the Beaver Line, from Liverpool, grounded at Madame Island and sustained serious injury to her bottom. She, however, steamed up as far as Indian Point, about seven miles below this city, where they ran her for shore, when she sank. The vessel struck a boulder between the Bellechasse and St. Laurent lights, the water being at low tide. The engines were immediately stopped and the well sounded, which showed six feet of water in her fore compartment. The pumps were then started, but the water poured in so rapidly that the pilot headed her for shore and beached her. Fortunately she is lying on a good mud bottom. One plate was started; three compartments are full of water and the cargo in the compartments up to between the decks is badly damaged. Steam pumps are working at her and three large holds of cargo have been discharged. An effort will be made to bring the vessel to Louise basin at Quebec, where she will be discharged and surveyed. The Lake Huron was built in Glasgow and registers 4649 tons. Lighters are still at work.

The Pavonia Also Ashore.

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—The steamer Pavonia of the Cunard Line from Liverpool got ashore near Duxbury in a thick fog last night three miles north of Gurnet Point. She has 60 cabin, 42 intermediate, and 300 steerage passengers.

This evening at 6 o'clock the Pavonia was floated.

All Lost on the Eureka.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 29.—The propeller Ste. Marie arrived yesterday from Life-Saving Station No. 12, 24 miles above the wreck of the schooner Eureka, and called at all stations from there to White Fish Point, but could get no news of the crew. The steamer went to the wreck and found the yawl-boat attached to the davits. The entire crew must have perished.

An English Colonel's Will.

William Robert Brudenell Smith, late colonel in Her Majesty's army, died at his home in Middlesex County, England, April 8 last. He died testate and left a personality in York County of 122 shares in the Consumers' Gas Company of Toronto, valued at $6100. The will was drawn in England Sept. 15, 1885, and was proved there. The testator's son, Lieut. Wm. Charles Smith, and his son-in-law, Augustus Edmund Warren, being the executors as well as the legatees. They ask for probate in the Surrogate Court of the County.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1886.

PREPARE FOR ACTION.

There is no lack of signs indicating that the general elections for the Commons will be brought on immediately. Hon. Mr. Blake at Guelph declared his belief, from information he had received, that an immediate dissolution of the present Parliament had been decided on. Hon. Mr. Blake is not a man given to sensational statements, nor a man likely to make so important an announcement unless he had good grounds for so doing. The adverse verdict against the Dominion Government, implied by the result of the Quebec elections, has doubtless influenced the Cabinet to precipitate the election contest. Futile attempts to buy Mr. Mercier's supporters and the firm determination of Lieut.-Governor Masson to adhere to constitutional methods, and refuse to postpone the calling of the Legislature till March, and thus allow the Ross-Taillon Government to hold power till that time, have had a heavy influence. The Lieut.-Governor asserts that as soon as the Official Gazette gives the whole returns, he will instruct Premier Ross to assemble the House, and then, of course, he must resign, and then good-bye to his chance of helping Sir John. The latter therefore would like to bring on the elections at once, while his Quebec allies technically hold office and control the patronage of the province, in order that it may be exercised in his favor. Again the party wirepullers and the contractors who supply the sinews of war are flocking to Ottawa, in close conference with cabinet ministers. Public opinion is every day growing against the Government of Sir John. He fears the revelations of corruption and misgovernment another session will certainly bring forth. He finds a dead set of public political opinion against him in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec. Ontario shows a hostile attitude, and Manitoba does not promise the assistance counted on some time ago. In fact, the outlook is everywhere discouraging. Sir John's Government is like a shaky business house, the longer it goes on the worse its condition is, and it is no wonder he decides to have the agony over and know the worst. All things combined go to show as certainly as anything short of an official declaration can indicate, that the general elections are a thing of the immediate future. In view of this fact the Liberals of Ontario are warned, that the time for prompt action is come. There is no time for delay. Every preparation should at once be made and every untoward result likely to arise from an election contest, being sprung upon the Liberal party, should be discounted by complete organization. With earnest effort the work can be done. All over the country, except in odd constituencies, the greatest activity prevails in Liberal circles, and this activity should become universal. Never before since 1872 was there such a prospect of success for the Liberals opened up to united effort and action. A united Liberal onset against the wavering, disheartened ranks of the army of Government supporters, will win, and the days of boodleism, land grabbing, charter selling, illicit printing, corrupt administration, wasteful extravagance, and government of the people by fraud, will have passed away. Let every individual Liberal arouse himself and fall into his place in the ranks. Let perfect organization be effected. The greatest ray of joy in the dismal outlook of Sir John would be the knowledge that he could spring the elections upon the country with the Liberal party unprepared.

THE WHY OF THEIR FAITH.

The Halifax Herald explains that a recent article on whiskey which appeared in its columns was a paid advertisement. Was the explanation necessary? asks an exchange. There is nothing at all new or singular in the statement that Tory newspaper articles are paid for. It fact the Public Accounts would indicate that Tory newspapers in Canada publish very few articles that they are not paid for. For instance, in the past three years for advertising and printing pamphlets the undermentioned Tory organs have been paid for their services at the following rates:

	1883.	1884.	1885.
Montreal Gazette	$3,240	$ 2 968	$ 7,183
Hamilton Spectator		6,894	1,475
Mail and Mail Printing Company	4,478	11,082	7,316
London Free Press	5,448	6,416	10,726
H. W. Bennett and Prescott Messenger	2,681	6,288	2,280
J. J. Foote, of Quebec Chronicle	1,190	4,288	5 068

The total paid in 1883 for immigration pamphlets was $42,605.69, the paper for the same cost $16,371.66; the total paid in 1884 for immigration pamphlets was $81,667.69, the paper for the same cost $27,689.79; the total paid in 1885 for papers, printing, and subscriptions through the Immigration Department was $30,812.69; the total paid for advertising in 1883 was about $20,000, in 1884 $54,079 85, in 1885 $56,000. Grand total, $413,197.66. In the face of these figures it is not necessary for any Tory organ to explain that some of its articles are paid for. The difficulty is to determine what articles the organs publish that are not paid for, and paid for at very extravagant rates.

Something for the farmers to paste in their hats. "Wheat, 70c. per bushel; duty on a self-binder, $60.

The Tories of Welland have nominated Dr. Ferguson as their candidate for the Commons. He was a very "promising" candidate at the last election, but if the doughty doctor doesn't succeed better in getting votes in this election than he has done in getting the town of Welland made a port of entry, he will have to drop the literary suffix that now adorns his surname.

What is Needed

By every man and woman if they desire to secure comfort in this world is a corn sheller. Putnam's Corn Extractor shells corns in two or three days and without discomfort or pain. A hundred imitations prove the merit of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, which is always sure, safe and painless. See signature of Polson & Co., on each bottle. Sold by medicine dealers 6dw43

A Severe Trial.

Those who endure the torturing pangs of neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, and similar painful complaints are severely tried, but there is a speedy relief in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, as thousands who have used it joyfully testify. It banishes pain and lameness quickly. 1w43d

Early Education Neglected.

A correspondent wants to know "how human skin can be tanned." He must have been a remarkably good boy when he went to school not to have learned that.

Ready to Have.

The most useful medicine you can have in the household is Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cures rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat, aches, sprains, bruises, burns, and all external or internal painful conditions. Keep it at hand for ready use. 1w43d

The Duty on Fish.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 29—The Collector of Customs at Bangor, Maine, has been instructed that fresh fish which have been intentionally frozen in order to preserve them are not to be considered as intended for immediate consumption, and are therefore subject to duty at the rate of 50 cents per 100 pounds.

Results Tell.

The proof of the pudding is the eating, and the proof of the extraordinary power over pain of Polson's Nerviline is in using it. Polson's Nerviline never fails to perform wonders in every case of pain. It cannot fail, for it is composed of powerful pain subduing remedies. It goes right to the bottom and pain is banished at once. Nerviline cures all kind of pain, internal or external. Go to any drug store and get a 10 or 25cent bottle, and be delighted by its promptitude in doing its work. 6dw43

A Complete Breakdown.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 20 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spermatism trusses made in York State, costing me $16. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. H. KING.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

BEFORE THE STORY.

I.—The Trial.

The gentlemen of the jury retired to consider their verdict.

Their foreman was a person doubly distinguished among his colleagues. He had the clearest head and the readiest tongue. For once the right man was in the right place.

Of the eleven jurymen four showed their characters on the surface. They were:

The hungry juryman, who wanted his dinner.

The inattentive juryman, who drew pictures on his blotting paper.

The nervous juryman, who suffered from fidgets.

The silent juryman, who decided the verdict.

Of the seven remaining members one was a little drowsy man who gave no trouble; one was an irritable invalid who served under protest; and five represented that vast majority of the population—easily governed, tranquilly happy—which has no opinion of its own.

The foreman took his place at the head of the table. His colleagues seated themselves on either side of him. Then there fell upon that assembly of men a silence—never known among an assembly of women—the silence which proceeds from a general reluctance to be the person who speaks first.

It was the foreman's duty, under these circumstances, to treat his deliberative brethren as we treat our watches when they stop—he wound the jury up and set them going.

"Gentlemen," he began, "have you formed any decided opinion on the case thus far?"

Some of them said yes and some of them said no. The little drowsy man said nothing. The fretful invalid cried "Go on!" The nervous juryman suddenly rose. His brethren all looked at him, inspired by the same fear of having got an orator among them. He was an essentially polite man, and he hastened to relieve their minds. "Pray don't be alarmed, gentlemen; I am not going to make a speech. I suffer from fidgets. Excuse me if I occasionally change my position." The hungry juryman (who dined early) looked at his watch. "Half-past four," he said. "For heaven's sake cut it short." He was the fattest person present; and he suggested a subject to the inattentive juryman who drew pictures on his blotting-paper. Deeply interested in the progress of the likeness, his neighbors on either side looked over his shoulders. The little drowsy man woke with a start, and begged pardon of everybody. The fretful invalid said to himself: "D——d fools, all of them!" The patient foreman, biding his time, stated the case.

"The prisoner waiting our verdict, gentlemen, is the Hon. Roderick Westerfield, younger brother of the present Lord le Basque. He is charged with willfully casting away the British bark John Jerminan, under his command; for the purpose of fraudulently obtaining a share of the insurance money, and further of possessing himself of certain Brazilian diamonds, which formed part of the cargo. In plain words, here is a gentleman born in the higher ranks of life accused of being a thief. Before we attempt to arrive at a decision, we shall only be doing him justice if we try to form some general estimate of his character, based on the evidence—and we may fairly begin by inquiring into his relations with the noble family to which he belongs. The evidence, so far, is not altogether creditable to him. Being at the time an officer in the royal navy, he appears to have outraged the feelings of his family by marrying a barmaid at a public house."

The drowsy juryman, happening to be awake at the moment, surprised the foreman by interposing a statement. "Talking of barmaids," he said, "I know a curate's daughter. She's in distressed circumstances, poor thing; and she's a barmaid somewhere in the north of England. Curiously enough the name of the town has escaped my memory. If we had a map of England——" There he was interrupted, cruelly interrupted, by one of his brethren.

"And by what right," cried the greedy juryman, speaking under the exasperating influence of hunger—"by what right does Mr. Westerfield's family dare to suppose that a barmaid may not be a perfectly virtuous woman?"

Hearing this, the restless gentleman (in the act of changing his position) was suddenly inspired with interest in the proceedings. "Pardon me for putting myself forward," he said, with his customary politeness, "Speaking as an abstainer from fermented liquors, I must really protest against these allusions to barmaids."

"Speaking as a consumer of fermented liquors," the invalid remarked, "I wish I had a barmaid and a bottle of champagne before me now!"

Superior to interruption the admirable foreman went on.

"Whatever you may think, gentlemen, of the prisoner's marriage, we have it in evidence that his relatives turned their backs on him from that moment—with the one merciful exception of the head of the family. Lord le Basque exerted his influence with the admiralty, and obtained for his brother (then out of employment) an appointment to a ship. All the witnesses agree that Mr. Westerfield thoroughly understood his profession. If he could have controlled himself, he might have risen to high rank in the navy. His temper was his ruin. He quarreled with one of his superior officers——"

"Under strong provocation?" said a member of the jury.

"Under strong provocation," the foreman admitted. "But provocation is not an excuse, judged by the rules of discipline. The prisoner challenged the officer on duty to fight a duel at the first opportunity on shore, and, receiving a contemptuous refusal, struck him on the quarter-deck. As a matter of course Mr. Westerfield was tried by court-martial, and was dismissed the service. Lord le Basque's patience was not exhausted yet. The merchant service offered a last chance to the prisoner of retrieving his position, to some extent, at least. He was fit for the sea, and fit for nothing else. At my lord's earnest request the owners of the John Jerminan, trading between Liverpool and Rio, took Mr. Westerfield on trial as first mate; and, to his credit be it said, he justified his brother's faith in him. In a tempest off the coast of Africa the captain was washed overboard and the first mate succeeded to the command. His seamanship and courage saved the vessel under circumstances of danger which paralyzed the efforts of the other officers. He was confirmed, rightly confirmed, in the command of the ship. And, so far, we shall certainly not be wrong if we view his character on the favorable side."

There the foreman paused to collect his ideas.

Certain members of the assembly—led by the juryman who wanted his dinner, and supported by his inattentive colleague, then engaged in drawing a ship in a storm and a captain falling overboard—proposed the acquittal of the prisoner without further consideration. But the fretful invalid cried "stuff!" and the five jurymen who had no opinions of their own, struck by the admirable brevity with which he expressed his sentiments, sang out in chorus: "Hear! hear! hear!" The silent juryman, hitherto overlooked, now attracted attention. He was a bald-headed person of uncertain age, buttoned up tight in a long frock-coat, and wearing his gloves all through the proceedings. When the chorus of five cheered he smiled mysteriously. Everybody wondered what that smile meant. The silent juryman kept his opinion to himself. From that moment he began to exercise a furtive influence over the jury. Even the foreman looked at him on resuming the narrative.

"After a certain term of service, gentlemen, during which we learn nothing to his disadvantage, the prisoner's merits appear to have received their reward. He was presented with a share in the ship which he commanded, in addition to his regular salary as master. With these improved prospects he sailed from Liverpool on his last voyage to Brazil; and no one, his wife included, had the faintest suspicion that he left England under circumstances of serious pecuniary embarrassment. The testimony of his creditors, and of other persons with whom he associated, distinctly proves that his leisure hours on shore had been employed in card-playing and in betting on horse races. After an unusually long run of luck, his good fortune seems to have deserted him. He suffered considerable losses, and was at last driven to borrowing at a high rate of interest, without any reasonable prospect of being able to repay the money-lenders into whose hands he had fallen. When he left Rio on the homeward voyage there is no sort of doubt that he was returning to England to face creditors whom he was unable to pay. There, gentlemen, is a noticeable side to his character, lucky, sir; I have got twelve, and my life is a burden to me, owing to the difficulty of making both ends meet."—"Gentlemen! gentlemen! we are wandering again. Is the captain guilty or not? Mr. Foreman, we none of us intended to offend you. Will you tell us what you think?"

No. The foreman kept his word. "Decide for yourselves first," was his only reply.

In this emergency the member afflicted with fidgets suddenly assumed a position of importance. He started a new idea.

"Suppose we try a show of hands!" he suggested. "Gentlemen who find the prisoner guilty will please hold up their hands."

Three votes were at once registered in this way, including the vote of the foreman. After a moment of doubt the chorus of five decided on following the opinion which happened to be the first opinion expressed in point of time. Thereupon the show of hands for the condemnation of the prisoner rose to eight. Would this result have an effect on the merciful minority of four? In any case, they were invited to declare themselves next. Only three hands were held up. One incomprehensible man abstained from expressing his sentiments even by a sign. Is it necessary to say who that man was? A mysterious change had now presented itself in his appearance, which made him an object of greater interest than ever. His inexplicable smile had vanished. He sat immovable, with closed eyes. Was he meditating profoundly, or was he only asleep? The quick-witted foreman had long since suspected him of being simply the stupidest person present—with just cunning enough to conceal his own dullness by holding his tongue. The jury arrived at no such sensible conclusion. Impressed by the intense solemnity of his countenance, they believed him to be absorbed in reflections of the utmost importance to the verdict. After a heated conference among themselves, they decided on securing unanimity of opinion by submitting to the arbitration of the one independent member present—the member who had taken no part in their proceedings. "Which way does your view of the verdict incline, sir? Guilty or not guilty?"

The eyes of the silent juryman opened with the slow and solemn dilation of the eyes of an owl. Placed between the alternatives of declaring himself in one word or two, his taciturn wisdom chose the shortest form of speech. "Guilty," he answered—and shut his eyes again, as if he had had enough of it already.

An unutterable sense of relief pervaded the meeting. Enmities were forgotten, and friendly looks were exchanged. With one accord the jury rose to return to court. The prisoner's fate was sealed. The verdict was guilty.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested the power in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Fifty cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections. THE BLOOD is the LIFE. Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-Bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all Admitted.

It is admitted on all hands that we are passing through a very peculiar Season's trade; even the most sanguine have been disappointed in their estimate of the volume of business to be done.

Various reasons have been assigned for the decline, but whether they are right or wrong none will question that the next two months must give us our Fall business.

We have Decided to Clear Out our Stock of Ready-made Mantles and Ulsters.

Customers may rest assured that they will get Extra Good Value for their money.

PLATERS, Ready-Made, ...$1.00 Up.
MANTLES, " " ....$2.00 Up.

Our MILLINERY is as popular as ever.

JAMES ALEXANDER

The Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1886.

LOCAL NEWS.

Oysters! Oysters!

Choice Baltimore Oysters received daily at Ormon's.

Hallow E'en.

To-morrow night is Hallow E'en. Failing as it does this year on Sunday, the boys will either have to defer their pranks until after midnight or postpone the celebration till Monday night. However, it would be well for all citizens to loose the watch dog and securely fasten the front gate before retiring Sunday night.

Justin McCarthy on Home Rule.

Tickets have been issued for the lecture of Mr. Justin McCarthy, in the Opera House, on Nov. 25th, on "The Cause of Ireland." Judging from the reputation of this great champion of Home Rule for Ireland, there is every probability that Mr. Minore, who is bringing Mr. McCarthy to town, will be rewarded with a bumper house.

The Railway Commission.

Mr. J. J. McBain, of Peterborough, grain merchant, gave evidence Thursday before the railway commission at Toronto, which is collecting evidence as to the advisability of establishing a court for the adjustment of railway freight rates. He was against the appointment of a commission. He did know of any existing unfairness in the granting of special rates. His remarks only applied to what he had encountered in his own business.

R. L. C. Assembly.

Last night in the town hall, Ashburnham, the Riverside Lacrosse Club held an assembly at which about fifty couples were present. The orchestra of the Fire Brigade band furnished choice music for dancing. Supper was furnished in the hall by Mr. Wm. Ruth, the well known caterer, who set a luxurious table. The party broke up about 4 a.m., having spent a most pleasant time. An overcoat owned by Mr. Jas. Goulie, was lost. Anyone returning it will be rewarded.

Who Owns the Watch.

For the past few days a seedy looking individual has been going through the north ward trying to sell a gold watch and chain for $3. This modest price at once arouses the suspicions of everyone asked to buy, and they, naturally presuming that it is a stolen article, of course refuse. The police should light on this person and make him disgorge the secret of how it came into his possession, and why he is so anxious to sell it.

The Grand Old Man.

Next thing to hearing and seeing Gladstone himself is the privilege of listening to Stuart Rogers, the well known American impersonator and reciter, who gives an exact representation in voice, manner and tone of the G. O. M., delivering his now celebrated speech on Home Rule. Mr. Rogers also gives exact reproductions of the style and speech of Irving, Edwin Booth and Lawrence Hassett, the three great tragedians; also of Oscar Wilde, the Apostle of Æstheticism and Sam Jones, the Revivalist. He can be seen in these characters on Friday next in Bradburn's Opera House. Secure tickets at A. L. Davis & Co's.

Why Not?

In referring to the proposed baseball league for 1887, comprising the following:—Ottawa, Kingston, Brockville, Port Hope and Peterborough, the Cobourg Sentinel Star says:—"The above would make a good league, but would never be a success financially." And in another column it has the following:—"An effort is being made to organize a baseball league for the Midland district for next season. A meeting will probably be held in Port Hope on Thanksgiving Day." The latter paragraph explains the first. Cobourg does not want to be left out in the cold in baseball matters next season, and is agitating the formation of a Midland league, in which she might have a chance of representation.

Football Match.

The Norwood Rugby Football Club arrived in town this morning to play a match with a "scratch" team of the Peterborough club. Play commences about 2 o'clock.

A Run Off.

About 4 o'clock this morning a broken wheel caused a car of stock on a G. P. R. freight train to leave the track near Havelock. The 5.20 and 7.50 express trains were delayed and several freight trains held at Peterborough a few hours. The damage was slight.

Noted for Promptness.

Mr. James A. Gillogly, of Lindsay, on Friday, 15th inst., met with an accident which practically laid him on the shelf for a week. Fortunately Mr. Gillogly has an accident policy in the Sun's Life and Accident Assurance Co., of Canada. On Saturday last he made application to Mr. D. J. King (formerly reporter in the EXAMINER), local agent for the Sun, for indemnity. The claim papers were made out on Monday, and on Thursday Mr. Gillogly received a cheque for the amount of indemnity for which he was insured. The Sun is noted for promptness.—Post.

A Query.

Why is it in a town of Peterborough's size not a single drug store is open during the night for the fulfillment prescriptions, as the prompt compounding of which might depend a life? The other night a gentleman had to wait three hours, while the druggist was awakened in his house, taken to his laboratory and the prescription made up. There are seven large drug stores in town. Could not arrangements be made by which one at least of these would be kept open through the night? It might, however, be suggested that in two or three of the drug stores, the clerks sleep in rooms above the stores and could be easily aroused.

The "City" Proposal.

Though the committee charged with the duty have not reported in reference to the matter of making Peterborough a city, yet the subject is quietly discussed. Some think the expense of government will be increased and others that the town is not yet far enough advanced to creditably sustain the name of city. Neither objections are sound. Of course, taxes are high enough now, but it must be borne in mind that Bellegbem sells his splendid furniture at such reasonable prices that the increased taxes arising from a city status would not be felt, and his furniture is of such high artistic quality and and his establishment of such magnitude, that with such an institution in its midst, Peterborough need not fear of sustaining, in a creditable manner, the character of a city.

An Unpractical Critic.

The Port Hope Times thus assails this journal:—"The Peterborough EXAMINER is a "stickler" for big words. Speaking of the series of burglaries taking place in that town, it discharges the following on an unoffending public: 'The temeritous tramp may count on having the integrity of his skin spoiled, if he persists in his burglarious business.' In every day language, that means that if the burglar doesn't stop stealing, he'll get shot." The criticism of the Times loses a good deal of its force when it is shown that in the same column it inserts two news paragraphs from the EXAMINER without the change—to its own chaste style—of a singe word, and without protecting its literary reputation by giving the usual journalistic credit.

A Novel Post Office.

Mr. J. T. White, of Kingston, tells of a post office on the Opeongo road, in Renfrew County, which is conducted without a postmaster. It consists of a soap box nailed to a tree at a point where the road forks. The mail is brought from the front by anyone of the settlers who happens that way, placed in the box, where each one expecting a letter sorts the mail over, and returns what does not belong to him, together with any letters he may wish to send away. The next person going to the front takes these letters addressed to distant places to the nearest established postoffice, whence they are despatched with the government mail. Strange as it may seem, cases of letters miscarried or lost are as unfrequent as at a regularly appointed office. Registered letters are, of course, unknown in the Opeongo district.

A Welcome Home.

Despite the heavy downpour of rain Thursday night, a large number of intimate friends and acquaintances of Mrs. Fairbairn, Miss Roger and Miss Rachael Roger gathered at St. Paul's Church to formally welcome them back to their old homes and positions in the church. Rev. E. F. Torrance made an address of welcome on behalf of the congregation, dwelling largely upon the fact that the family had ever taken the warmest interest in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the church, Mr. Roger having been prominently interested in its inception. These remarks were heartily endorsed by those present. A pleasant social evening was spent, old friendships were renewed, and new acquaintanceships formed. Music and refreshments were dispensed, after which the assembled friends departed, more than ever bound to each other by ties of love and friendship.

The Durham Battery.

Speaking of the recent brigade camp at Kingston, Major Sam Hughes says:—"The contest for the driving shift was keenly contested. Durham Field Battery, under Major McLean, of Port Hope, Lieut. Twigg, Dr. Brereton, Sergt. Gillies and others, of Manvers, and Sergt.-Major Metheral and a squad from Peterborough, did splendid work. The competition consists in harnessing the horses to the cannon, galloping around a certain space, along certain lines, unlimbering, loading, firing, limbering up front and rear, and reaching original position. All this the Durham Field Battery did in 1.53 minutes, the Kingston Field Battery in 2.06. The time of the Durham Field Battery is the best in Canada, and entitles them to the trophy, a massive silver one. The Field Battery, especially Major McLean, Lieut. Twigg, and the Manvers and Peterborough men, may well feel proud. The victory will compensate Major McLean for the loss of his splendid horse by an accident in camp.

Young Men's Liberal Club.

At a meeting held in the rooms of the Young Men's Liberal Club, on Friday evening, for re-organization, the following officers were elected:—

PRESIDENT.—Andrew Macfarlane.
1ST VICE-PRESIDENT.—Dr. Bell.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT.—J. J. Hartley.
SECRETARY.—James Henry.
TREASURER.—Joseph Griffin.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—Messrs. R. B. Stone, Wm. Hickey, John McGrath, E. W. Cox, Geo. Stenton, Frank Fairen, H. S. Kirby, T. Gillespie, A. Clegg, Clement Gordon, Geo. Walker, John Miller, Wm. White, John Hurley, Geo. Schofield, Thos. Hickey, Thos. Dutin, John Duignan, W. J. Morrow and W. Radkins.

Resolutions of thanks to the retiring officers, and to Mr. Geo. A. Cox for his liberality in placing commodious and well-equipped apartments at the service of the club, were passed, and matters connected with organization for the coming campaign discussed.

Miss White will be pleased to receive your orders for Millinery at the Golden Lion.

Police Court.

SATURDAY, Oct. 30th.

Yesterday afternoon three Scott Act cases were disposed of. The charge against Mrs. Prenevean, of Belmont, was dismissed; Hugh Beckett and Oscar Beennan, of Norwood, were each fined $20 and costs. Inspector Darling laid the information.

TWO MONTHS' IMPRISONMENT.

The adjourned case against R. N. Roddy was called at the police court this morning, but neither the defendant nor his counsel appeared. After waiting a few minutes Police Magistrate Dumble announced that two previous convictions having been made, he would sentence the defendant to two months' imprisonment. Mr. J. Green, the defendant's counsel, at this juncture entered the court room, and applied for a further enlargement. He objected to the sentence on the ground that charges for third offences against other parties had not been pushed, and he could not see why it should be pressed on this occasion. The magistrate replied that every chance had been given the defendant, and that it only remained for him to impose the prescribed penalty.

When the police went to Mr. Roddy's hotel to execute the sentence he was not to be found.

Church Chimes.

Services will be held in the school room of the Gaelic Methodist Church tomorrow as the repairs to the auditorium are not being quickly executed.

The funeral procession of the late Mrs. E. B. Stone passed down George street this afternoon. A large number of sorrowing friends followed the remains to their last resting place.

W. C. T. U.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will organize a Young Women's Christian Temperance Union in Mr. P. Green's studio Monday evening at half-past seven o'clock. All young ladies and members of the Union are requested to attend.

Market Items.

The market was as usual very large this morning. Apples and cabbages seemed to be the principal commodities. Very few potatoes were seen. Prices were:—Potatoes, 60c. bag; apples, 60 to 70c. bag. $2.50 per bbl.; cabbage, turnips, onions, beets, etc., sold at usual prices; mutton, 6 to 8c.; beef, 4½ to 5½c.; pork, 7, 8 and 9c.; chickens, 35 and 40c. pair; geese, 60 and 65c. each; turkeys, 60 to 75c.; roll butter, 20 to 22c.; keg butter, 19 and 20c.; eggs for local use, 19 to 20c. dozen.

A Modern Miracle.

In a recent letter from R. W. Dowson, of Deloraine, Ont., he states that he has recovered from the worst form of dyspepsia, after suffering for fifteen years; and when a council of doctors pronounced him incurable he tried Burdock Blood Bitters, six bottles of which restored his health. 1w43d

What Every Mother Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and most reliable cough medicine ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual medicines given by physicians, as it does away up a cough and leave the disease in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house or one when the diseases like their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of sickness often. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. FIRE AND LUNATICS.

A WING OF THE INSANE ASYLUM AT HAMILTON BURNED.

HAMILTON, Oct. 31.—About 1 o'clock this afternoon a fire started in the drying room of the laundry department of the Ontario Government Insane Asylum on the mountain. The drying room is heated by steam and that a fire could start there was not thought possible. It evidently had been smouldering some time. The asylum employes attempted to put it out with the apparatus belonging to the building, but the work was too much for them and they telephoned for the city fire department. The asylum is on too high an elevation to be supplied with water from the city reservoir direct, and is served by a private pump situated at the foot of the mountain.

When the brigade reached the asylum they found the fire had gained great headway and destroyed nearly one half of the wing which juts out to the rear of the centre of the main building, and that they were going to be hampered for want of water. This wing contained the steam-heating apparatus, apartments of the domestic servants, cooking rooms, dining hall and the theatre. It is connected with the main building by a narrow, enclosed hallway on each floor. The fire brigade, under Chief Aitchison, did magnificent work. They had only two streams of water with which to fight the flames, and could not get much advantage from the steam engine they brought with them, owing to lack of sufficient water supply, to keep the pump of the steamer going. Their work was, however, so well planned by the chief that by the time the fire had spread to the roof of the connecting hall way the flames found all the wood work and roof chopped away, and stopped for the want of material to devour. Before this was accomplished, however, a tremendous amount of dangerous work had to be done about the upper stories and roof of the flaming wing. Finally the fire was conquered without its touching the main building.

Meantime the asylum attendants under the direction of Dr. Wallace, the physician in charge, and Drs. Montgomery, Reynolds, and other asylum officers, had got all the patients out of the main building into the "airing" yards in the rear and there they were watched from the fence tops by an efficient force of attendants and police. Some patients became very excited and for a while there was a perfect panic. Chief of Police Stewart and a number of citizens aided the attendants to dispose of the worst cases among the patients, who ultimately were all restored to their apartments in the main building. A call was made on the members of the Thirteenth Battalion to march to the fire and aid to keep the immense crowd of people in order, and under Lieut.-Col. Gibson they rendered valuable assistance.

The total loss is estimated at from $50,000 to $60,000, including building and fixtures, all covered by insurance. The personal loss of Mrs. Kugan, the matron, in clothing and jewelry was large. The domestics lost everything. Kivas Tully, Government Architect, is here and has ordered the grounds cleared for work to-morrow morning. Dr. O'Reilly, Inspector of Asylums, is also here.

Man Into a Rock.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 31.—An extra freight on the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's road ran into a rock near Alkali this morning. The engine and fifteen cars were piled up in a heap. L. Silvia, fireman, was instantly killed; F. F. Burke, head brakeman, who had a leg broken and was badly scalded, died in a few minutes; Engineer Tucker was also injured, but not fatally.

A Banker's Residence Burnt.

WALLACEBURG, Oct. 31.—About ten o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the upper rooms of a house owned by L. H. Gellard and occupied by A. W. Murton, manager of the Traders' Bank here. Loss about $1500, covered by insurance. The dwelling is insured in the Western, and the contents in the Citizens.

A Hamilton Man Drowned.

HAMILTON, Oct. 31.—W. Duffy, a workman, and Wm. Lockman, foreman of the Hamilton Bridge and Tool Works, living in this city, met with an accident while putting up a bridge at Sturgeon Bay yesterday. Part of the bridge fell and Duffy was stunned, dropped into the water and was drowned. Lockman had his leg broken.

Politics in Quebec.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—There is little new about the political situation. It looks, however, as if the Ross Government will not be able to continue long in office. The Legislature will be called almost immediately. King Senecal has been offering to bet large sums that Mr. Mercier will not be the new Premier.

Bargains in Carpets and Oil Cloths at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

EASTERN WAR CLOUD.

RELEASE OF THE PLOTTERS AGAINST PRINCE ALEXANDER.

SOFIA, Oct. 30.—Gen. Kaulbars has issued an ultimatum to the Bulgarian Government. He complains that Russians in Bulgaria are maltreated and terrorized, and says that if in three days he does not receive a satisfactory answer to his ultimatum he will rupture his relations with the Regency and leave Sofia, taking with him the whole personnel of the Russian consulate. The government has sent a circular to the various prefects commanding them to adopt stringent measures for the protection of Russians. A copy of the circular was sent to Gen. Kaulbars, with a request that he furnish the names of the Russians whom he alleged had been molested.

The Government has ordered that the Russian language shall no longer be taught in the public schools of Bulgaria, but that the German language shall be taught instead.

Lieut.-Col. Filoff, the commander at Rustchuk, who, at the instance of Gen. Kaulbars, telegraphed to the Government demanding the release of those persons concerned in the deposition of Prince Alexander, has been sentenced to one month's imprisonment and has been deprived of his command.

The Meeting of the Sobranje.

TIENOVA, Oct. 30.—All the Bulgarian Ministers except M. Nicolaieff, Minister of War, have arrived here to attend the meeting of the Sobranje to elect a successor to Prince Alexander. M. Karaveloff has finally stated that he will not attend the meeting. The Sobranje will open to-morrow. It is believed that ten days will be occupied in verifying the election of Deputies. The Ministry will abandon the idea of sending a deputation to the Powers to explain the Bulgarian attitude.

TIENOVA, Oct. 31.—M. Stambuloff opened the Sobranje to-day in the presence of all the regents and the members of the cabinet. Patriotic addresses were made, the speakers dwelling upon the importance of maintaining the independence of Bulgaria.

Fears of a Russian Occupation.

PESTH, Oct. 30.—Increased fear is manifested in political circles here that Russia will occupy Bulgaria. It is believed that Austria will not acquiesce in such action on the part of Russia. In the event of the occupation of Bulgaria by Russia the Hungarian Government will make the maintenance of Prime Minister Tisza's policy, as announced in the Diet, a Cabinet question.

The Conspirators Released.

SOFIA, Oct. 31.—In compliance with the demand of Gen. Kaulbars all of the plotters against Prince Alexander have been released. There is a general feeling of indignation in Bulgaria over this action, although the Government is not blamed, as it is believed the authorities only yielded to necessity.

THE PACIFIC AUSTRALIAN CABLE.

The Telegraphic Project From England to Australia Via Canada.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The draft of the prospectus of the proposed Pacific Australian Cable shows that the promoters contemplate asking for two millions sterling, $10,000,000, and expect to get a 6 penny rate across the Atlantic and a 2½ pence rate across Canada to Vancouver Island, and intend charging the public 4 shillings per word from England to Australia, and the press a shilling. They purpose raising one million in £10 shares and one million in 4 per cent. stock, secured on the expected Imperial-Colonial guarantee of £100,000. It is hoped that Canada will contribute £12,000, Australasia £36,000, and the Imperial exchequer £50,000. The promoters talk of earning a net profit straightway of £150,000. The project is generally regarded as much to sanguine. The only actual promise yet made comes from Hawaii of $20,000 annually. Canada may offer a subsidy, but neither the Imperial nor Australian Governments exhibit much eagerness.

ON THE WHOLE A FLAT WEEK.

Collapse of the Rise in American Railway and Cable Shares.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—During the past week there was no active enquiry for discount at 3½ to 3⅝. The stock exchange loan rate was 5 to 4½ under the heavy settlement. Business on the stock exchange was dull and most changes were downward. There was a persistent decline in American railway securities early in the week owing to sales by weak operators for a rise. The fall seemed to have been checked after Wednesday, but yesterday the depression was renewed. Most changes were adverse. The recent rise in cable shares is collapsing under a report that final overtures made by the pool at the instance of the French Co. to the Commercial Co. have been rejected. Anglos have fallen three and do. preferred and deferred two. Gold mine shares closed with a general decline on the day of ½. The warning from the Premier of Queensland has decisively checked the boom in gold mine shares, affecting also mines in other countries.

TO OPPOSE THE PRIMROSE LEAGUE.

Organization in England of a Women's Liberal Association.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—It was recently suggested by a correspondent in the Daily News that Mr. Gladstone should be asked to retire from the leadership of the Liberal party. This has provoked a storm of replies indignantly repudiating such a course. Mr. Gladstone has indicated that his share in politics is to be confined strictly to the Irish question. It is well known that the actual leaders of the party will be John Morley and Sir William Harcourt. Mr. Morley's speech at Leeds will be of the greatest importance as outlining the Liberal policy of the immediate future.

A great demonstration of Liberal women was held at Cheshire last night at which it was decided to found a Women's Liberal Association to combat the work of the Primrose League.

THE WHITE STAR LINE BOYCOTTED.

Because Some Nationalist Workmen Have Grievances Against the Co.'s Builders.

DUBLIN, Oct. 31.—The Glen (County Limerick) branch of the National League, owing to the treatment which the Nationalists employed by Harland & Wolffe, the White Star steamship builders of Queen's Island, received with the connivance of the chief of the firm, calls upon members of the league everywhere to see that Irishmen boycott the White Star Line until the firm reinstates the Nationalist workmen.

On Saturday last M. R. Kelly, a Magistrate of Fairgrove, County Clare, was wounded with a gun while returning from the Ennis quarter sessions. Six arrests.

Slandering an American.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Le Monde recently published a slanderous article against a wealthy American resident, Dr. Herz, charging him with being a bankrupt and a Prussian spy. Herz sent seconds to Havard, the writer of the article, who now publishes a card withdrawing the charges, apologizing for having made them and expressing the deepest regret for having been so deluded. Dr. Herz is satisfied with the apology. The attack on Herz is supposed to have been due to his friendship for the Radical leaders.

A DISASTROUS FIRE IN CHICAGO.

One or Two Lives Lost and Seven or Eight Firemen and Others Seriously Injured.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 31.—A conflagration causing the loss of nearly a quarter of a million dollars and probably several lives occurred in Knight & Leonard's six-story building, 109 and 111 East Madison-street, between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning. The inmates of the dozen of gambling houses in the vicinity were unaware of the fire at the outset, and it made such rapid headway that no one stirred from the tables until the lives of most of them were imperilled. Then a wild stampede ensued. The proprietors hurried their gold and greenbacks into satchels, others shovelled the ivory chips into bags, and a few rushed down stairs with roulette wheels, faro tables and gambling paraphernalia of every description. The majority of the dealers, lookouts and players rose together and came tearing out of the buildings, many hatless and coatless and all frightened.

After an hour's work by the firemen the flames were under comparative control. At this time six men of the Insurance Patrol were in the building slinging tarpaulins over the stock of the Goodyear Rubber Company. Suddenly there was a terrible crash, followed by a dense wave of smoke and sparks. The roof and top floor had fallen through to the basement, burying the men of the Insurance Patrol in the ruins. A minute after the crash a detachment of firemen and Insurance Patrol men, led by Chief Swennie, rushed to the rescue. George Furnell and Wm. Darby were taken out slightly injured. Capt. Hume had both legs crushed and his left foot turned completely round. P. L. Mullins was fearfully bruised and cut, Gus. Boergemeek had an arm broken and a leg shattered. A heavy piece of machinery fell on him and it took three-quarters of an hour to rescue him, the whole of which time he was praying to be killed outright. C. Papineau, aged 30, was taken out dead. In the recovery of the corpse another fireman was fatally injured and a patrol man seriously wounded.

The fire and the fall of the roof had damaged many telephone and telegraph wires. Gangs of linesmen were sent to the roof adjoining to straighten the tangled mass. They were requested to wait until the firemen found Papineau's body, but the wiremen did not comply. While pulling a heavy cable over a wall a piece of jagged iron cornice was dislodged and struck a fireman, Michael McGovern, in the small of the back. While his companions picked him up policemen hurried to the roof and intercepted the linesmen. While helping to carry out the wounded man, Wm. Cornwell of the Insurance Patrol fell through a hole in the broken sidewalk and was so seriously injured that he had to be taken to the hospital. McGovern was horribly mangled by the cornice and is dying. Eighteen of the linesmen were put under arrest but afterwards released, the telegraph officials becoming their sureties. The building was occupied by a number of large firms.

Great preparations are being made for the meeting of the National Liberal Federation at Leeds on Wednesday. The number of delegates is expected to be beyond precedent. Several Liberal Unionists are expected to take part. John Morley will preside.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Secretary for Ireland, in a speech at Fairford, Saturday, said that visitors to Ireland should not believe more than half of what they heard or saw. He declined to indicate the Irish policy of the Government.

The Carlists at Madrid and at Paris, under cover of seeking to have masses said for the recovery of Don Jaime, the son of Don Carlos, are displaying great political activity. Some of the bishops and archbishops are opposing the movement and refuse to allow special prayers in behalf of Don Jaime.

A MONTREAL LOTTERY.

A Local Enterprise that is Being Extensively Advertised,

But About Which it is Difficult to Discover the Facts.

The following, which refers to a company organized by several Peterborough citizens, whose names are not all to hand, is taken from the Montreal Gazette. It is said that a charter was secured from the Quebec Legislature:—

Some days ago we received an enquiry from the State of Ohio in regard to the bona fides of a Royal Canadian lottery that is being extensively advertised there. Yesterday a letter was received from Scotland, enclosing the following advertisement, cut from a paper published in the town where the writer lived, and asking for such particulars as could be gathered in regard to the scheme:—

ROYAL COLONIZATION LOTTERY, DOMINION OF CANADA.

AUTHORIZED BY ACT OF PARLIAMENT.

A GRAND CHANCE TO SECURE A FORTUNE.

$50,000 TO BE GIVEN AWAY.

OVER 2,200 PRIZES, RANGING FROM $5,000 DOWNWARDS.

IT WILL COST BUT FIVE SHILLINGS TO TRY YOUR LUCK! AND IT MAY BRING YOU $5,000.

BANKERS: THE BANK OF MONTREAL, MONTREAL.

The first great drawing of the Royal Colonization Lottery, Dominion of Canada, will take place in the city of Montreal, Canada,

ON THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1886, when Fifty Thousand Pounds worth of Real Estate and other valuable property will be distributed. The following is the

GRAND PRIZE LIST:

			Value.
One capital prize, real estate			£ 5,000
One do.	do.		3,0 0
One do	do.		2,000
Two splendid prizes	do.	£1,000 each	2,000
Four do.	do.	500 "	2,000
100 homestead farms	at	200 "	20,000
50 lovely lots	at	100 "	5,000
100 do.	at	50 "	5 000
1,000 prizes	at	4 "	4,000
1,000 prizes	at	2 "	2 000
Grand total to be given away			£50,0.0

☞ The real estate is warranted to be worth the money value placed upon it, and while the lottery is to assist a Colonization society to settle the fertile lands of the magnificent Province of Quebec, it is prepared to find a purchaser for the lands within sixty days from the day of the drawing, at a discount of 5 per cent., should winners of prizes prefer cash.

Tickets, five shillings each, will be promptly forwarded on receipt of price. To clubs or individuals purchasing 10 tickets, 5 per cent. discount will be made; 25 tickets, 10 per cent discount; 50 tickets, 15 per cent. discount; 100 tickets, 17½ per cent. discount; 200, 20 per cent. discount; 500 and over, 25 per cent. discount will be made. A limited number of live agents wanted.

All money to be sent by registered letter, P.O. order or bank draft. Address:

JAMES A. ELLIS, SEC.-TREAS.,
157 ST. JAMES STREET,
MONTREAL, CANADA.

The thing is evidently a brazen fraud, got up for the sole purpose of swindling whoever may be foolish enough to use their money in buying tickets. No Royal Colonization or any other lottery has been authorized by the Canadian Parliament. The Bank of Montreal, through its general manager, when enquiries were made of that gentleman, repudiated all knowledge of the matter, and the use of their name in the "prospectus" is altogether unauthorized. Enquiry at 157 St. James street, showed that nothing was known of James A. Ellis. The number is that of the Standard Insurance Company building, to the manager of which Ellis is unknown. At the post office, also, nothing could be learned of the Royal Colonization lottery, or of its manager, to whose address it has not been noticed that any letters have been received. The attention of the authorities having been called to the matter, however, the mails will be closely watched and if possible a stop will be put to the fraud, as was done in the case of the St. Stephen lottery a year or so ago. The advertisements have evidently been extensively circulated both in the old country and the United States. This work must have been done recently, as the crop of letters that such advertisements never fail to draw forth from those anxious to make money without working for it has not begun to show itself. Some tickets have, it is known, been sold in Scotland, and possibly in other places as well. This may have been done by local agents and no money need have been sent to this city. There is some reason to think that parties in Peterborough, Ont., may be concerned in the matter. Whether Ellis hails from that town, however, is not known. Probably the name is an assumed one, under which some agent, possibly a local confederate, was to receive the letters and remit the plunder. It is known that persons in Peterborough were not long since looking for office accommodation in this city with some such object in view. The rest is conjecture.

The Montreal Star also contains the following:—

A BARE-FACED SWINDLE.

A lottery called the Royal Colonization Lottery, Dominion of Canada, with a secretary-treasurer, James A. Ellis, 157 St. James street, Montreal, is being advertised in foreign papers. It claims to be authorized by act of Parliament, and to have as bankers the Bank of Montreal. Such is, of course, not the case, and the whole thing is a bare-faced swindle. The post office authorities will take care of any mail coming to the indefinite individual styling himself James A. Ellis. He has no office at the address given.

KNOW-NOTHINGISM IN CHICAGO.

Two Societies Opposed to Foreigners and Roman Catholics.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Under the heading of "A Sensation in Local Politics" the Daily News this morning says: "It is not generally known that there exists in Chicago two societies which are directly the outgrowth of the 'Know-Nothing' political party, which reached the zenith of its power and entered the decade of its death in 1856. Out of its ashes have risen in later years the 'Patriotic Sons of America' and the 'United Order of Deputies.' The principles and objects of these orders are the same as those of the old party. They aim to promote the election of native born Americans to the offices of the Government and oppose foreign interference with state interests; to foster public education through the medium of free schools; to oppose the union of church and state and ecclesiastical interference with public affairs. Both orders declare that there shall be no discrimination against the American in his land in favor of the alien; urge that every alien shall remain here twenty-one years before being permitted to vote; that the American shall be preferred to any foreigner for such offices as are the gift of the people. The main object, in short, is to prevent the election to political office of all foreigners. Both orders confer degrees and enjoin secrecy upon their members, who are sworn not to vote for any foreign born candidates for office. There are nine 'camps' of the 'Sons of America' in Chicago, claiming a membership of about 1500 votes, and seven councils of the 'United Order of Deputies.' The 'Order of Deputies' are taking very active interest in the present campaign, and by means of secret circulars and private meetings are endeavoring to work up a feeling against foreign-born candidates, particularly those of the Roman Catholic faith."

IN FAVOR OF THE KNIGHTS.

General Master Workman Powderly Interviews Cardinal Gibbons.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 30.—General Master Workman T. V. Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, was in the city Thursday and called on Cardinal Gibbons at his residence, where a conference of prelates was held to discuss questions affecting the welfare of the Catholic Church in the United States, principally the relation and duties of Catholics who are Knights of Labor. Mr. Powderly had two interviews with the Cardinal, and laid before him the constitution and bylaws of the order. He also spoke of the purposes of the Knights, and how, in his opinion, they were an organization not included in the prescription of the church against secret societies, which promise blind obedience. The utterances of Mr. Powderly were carefully noted and presented to the bishops. It is said he went away from Baltimore assured that his organization would not be interfered with. Several Catholic priests said yesterday: The Knights of Labor is a lawful organization. Mr. Powderly is a strict Catholic and a weekly communicant, and would not countenance any society which in its workings antagonized the decrees of the Catholic Church. John J. McCartney, District Master Workman of Assembly 41, who is also a Catholic, had a lengthy interview this week with Monsignor McColgan, pastor of St. Peter's Church. The Monsignor had the District Master Workman explain in detail the constitution of the Knights of Labor, their attitude on boycotts and other important features of the organization. Then Monsignor McColgan wrote the Cardinal in favor of the knights.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 28th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses sold in York State, costing me $25. Nothing would retain my Rupture. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. R. KING.

This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; it is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child it wears; and 25 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for your complaint; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

3.—The Sentence.

The low hum of talk among the persons in court ceased when the jury returned to their places. Curiosity now found its center of attraction in the prisoner's wife—who had been present throughout the trial. The question of the moment was: How will she bear the interval of delay which precedes the giving of the verdict?

In the popular phrase, Mrs. Westerfield was a showy woman. Her commanding figure was finely robed in dark colors; her profuse light hair hung over her forehead in little clusters of ringlets; her features, firmly but not delicately shaped, were on a large scale. No outward betrayal of the wife's emotion rewarded the public curiosity; her bold, light-gray eyes sustained the general gaze without flinching. To the surprise of the women present, she had brought her two young children with her to the trial. The eldest was a pretty little girl of 10 years old; the second child (a boy) sat on his mother's knee. It was generally observed that Mrs. Westerfield took no notice of her eldest child, when she whispered a word from time to time, it was always addressed to her son. She fondled him when he grew restless, but she never looked round to see if the girl at her side was as weary of the proceedings as the boy.

The judge took his seat, and the order was given to bring the prisoner up for judgment.

There was a long pause. The audience—remembering his ghastly face when he first appeared before them—whispered to each other: "He's taken ill"; and the audience proved to be right.

The surgeon of the prison entered the witness box, and being duly sworn, made his medical statement.

The prisoner's heart had been diseased for some time past, and the malady had been neglected. He had fainted under the prolonged suspense of waiting for the verdict. The swoon had proved to be of such a serious nature that the witness refused to answer for consequences if a second fainting-fit was produced by the excitement of facing the court and the jury.

Under these circumstances the verdict was formally recorded and sentence was deferred. Once more the spectators looked at the prisoner's wife.

She had risen to leave the court. In the event of an adverse verdict her husband had asked for a farewell interview, and the governor of the prison, after consultation with the surgeon, had granted the request. It was observed, when she retired, that she held her boy by the hand and left the girl to follow. A compassionate lady near her offered to take care of the children while she was absent. Mrs. Westerfield answered, quietly and coldly: "Thank you; their father wishes to see them."

The prisoner was dying; nobody could look at him and doubt it.

His eyes opened wearily when his wife and children approached the bed on which he lay helpless—the wreck of a grandly made man. He struggled for breath, but he could still speak a word or two at a time. "I don't ask you what the verdict is," he said to his wife; "I see it in your face."

Tearless and silent she waited by her husband's side. He had only noticed her for a moment. All his interest seemed to be centered in his children. The girl stood nearest to him; he looked at her with a faint smile.

The poor child understood him. Crying piteously, she put her arms round his neck and kissed him. "Dear papa," she said, "come home and let me nurse you."

The surgeon, watching the father's face, saw a change in him which the other persons present had not observed. The failing heart felt that parting moment, and sank under it. "Take the child away," the surgeon whispered to the mother. Brandy was near him; he administered it while he spoke, and touched the fluttering pulse. It felt, just felt, the stimulant. He revived for a moment, and looked wistfully for his son. "The boy," he murmured; "I want my boy." As his wife brought the child to him, the surgeon whispered to her again. "If you have anything to say to him be quick about it!" She shuddered; she took his cold hand. Her touch seemed to nerve him with new strength; he asked her to stoop over him. "They won't let me write here," he whispered, "unless they see my—my letter." He paused to get his breath again. "Lift up my left arm," he gasped. "Open the wristband."

She detached the stud which closed the wristband of the shirt. On the inner side of the linen there was a line written in red letters—red of the color of blood. She saw these words: Look in the lining of my cuff.

"What for?" she asked.

The failing light in his eyes flashed on her a dreadful look of doubt. His lips fell apart in the vain effort to answer. His last sigh fluttered the light ringlets of her hair as she bent over him.

The surgeon pointed to her children. "Take the poor things home," he said; "they have seen the last of their father."

Mrs. Westerfield obeyed in silence. She had her own reasons for being in a hurry to get home. Leaving the children under the servant's care, she locked herself up in the dead man's room and emptied his trunk of the few clothes that had been left in it.

The lining which she was now to examine was of the customary material, and of the usual striped pattern in blue and white. Her fingers were not sufficiently sensitive to feel anything under the surface, when she tried it with her hand. Turning the empty trunk with the inner side of the lid toward the light, she discovered, on one of the blue stripes of the lining, a thin little shining stain which looked like a stain of dried gum. After a moment's consideration she cut the gummed line with a penknife. Something of a white color appeared through the aperture. She drew out a folded sheet of paper.

It proved to be a letter in her husband's handwriting. An inclosure dropped to the floor when she opened it, in the shape of a paper. She picked it up. The morsel of paper presented letters, figures, and crosses arranged in lines and columns, together in what looked like a series of tables.

4.—The Letter.

Mrs. Westerfield laid the incomprehensible slip of paper aside for the letter. Here again she found herself in a state of perplexity. Dressed to "Mrs. Redgrift Westerfield," the letter began abruptly, without the customary form of address. Did it mean that her husband was angry with her when he wrote? Is meant that he doubted her?

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Surgeon, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—I am pleased to be able to state to you that I am now free from Catarrh. It is almost incredible that in so short a time I could have been cured of Catarrh, which has affected my health for years. A little over two months ago I took treatment from you, and to-day the Catarrh is entirely cured. Your treatment is simply a marvel. I will heartily recommend any of my friends pe son lly, and would suggest to all thus troubled the advisability of consulting you immediately. Accept my many thanks.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on deposits deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the interest yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1000 each, are secured by an endowment, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, offering a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $900,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that amount.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

Collections for Y. M. C. A.

The ladies of the different churches who have been collecting for the Y. M. C. A., are requested to meet at the Association parlor next Thursday, (Nov. 4th) at 3 o'clock, to make their returns. M. J. SANDERSON, Secretary of committee.

A Painful Accident.

Friday afternoon last Mr. Tom Walton, employed in Belleghem's furniture factory, was using the circular saw, when the stick he was cutting became clogged in the teeth. In attempting to remove the obstruction, the stick twirled round and threw his hand directly on the saw, cutting a deep gash from the knuckle of the first finger to the wrist, and almost amputating his whole hand. He will be laid up for a few weeks.

Oscar Wilde.

Go and see his double on Friday, November the 5th in the Opera House Peterboro, admission 25 and 50 cents. A Long Island paper says of the entertainment:—"The second part consisted of personations in character, the changes of dress being made instantaneously upon the stage. His comic roles are wonderfully taken. Mr. Rogers has astonishing mobility of feature and a flexity of intonation which renders his changes impressive and pleasingly sensational. Amaryntha's visit to the Centennial created much mirth. He concluded his evening with a close and unexaggerated personation of Oscar Wilde, in dress, manner, and delivery."

The Coming Terrible Wars.

Saturday night in the mission school room over China Hall, about forty persons assembled to listen to Rev. Mr. Baxter's discourse on the thrilling events of the near future. He proved, by his reasoning from several passages of Scripture and various Biblical commentators, that between 1857 and 1900 a three-and-a-half years' slaughter of millions of Christians would be instituted by a Napoleonic Anti-Christ, who would be finally overcome and destroyed at Christ's descent at the battle of Armageddon, when the millenium of 1,000 years would begin. He also assumed to prove that the progress of Irish Home Rule and Socialism, the Charleston earthquakes, and recent religious revivals are predicted signs of Christ's speedy advent.

Hunting 'Coons.

For some time past residents of the suburbs have been greatly annoyed by the persistent efforts of tramps to enter their barns or other outhouses for protection from the night's frosts. Last night some of the "boys," one of them armed with a shotgun, made a raid on a barn in the north part of the town and captured a hardened specimen of the genius tramp, who refused to be cajoled or coerced into leaving his comfortable quarters in the hay loft for the cold outside world, until the gun was brought to light, and he was peremptorily ordered to "vamoose" before he was "riddled with buckshot." This demand he hastened to comply with, and his movements were quickened by the premature discharge of a blank shot. The boys say hunting "coons" is better sport than going to the north after "b'ar," and not nearly so dangerous.

Commendable Generosity.

For about four years past several devoted ladies of St. John's congregation have, in the face of the greatest difficulties and discouragements, kept a mission Sunday school open in the South Ward. This they have accomplished, chiefly through the use of their own resources of zeal and means. One of the greatest drawbacks has been the lack of a fixed place of meeting. Through the kindness of the School Board, one of the rooms of the South Ward school building has been used for about a year. Now, however, the ladies have secured a school room of their own. Miss Chamberlen has crowned a long course of active and zealous exertion in the interests of the welfare of the Sunday school, by the free and unsolicited gift of a fine plot of ground on the corner of Bethune and Dalhousie streets, as site for the erection of a school house. But as funds were not available for this purpose, the dwelling on the lot has been, by the removal of the partitions, etc., converted into a fairly commodious school room, and was occupied on Sunday for the first time. To effect the necessary repairs it was found unavoidable to draw upon the funds collected by the ladies for building a new school room. It is desired to replace the sum thus taken, and it is to be hoped that the members of the congregation will not withhold their assistance. The school requires a new library, and texts and mottoes for adorning the walls would be most acceptable gifts. If the arduous labor, sacrifice of personal comfort and convenience, and self-denying devotion to duty, cheerfully rendered by the ladies of this school were generally known by Christian people, such a worthy and, under the circumstances, successful Christian enterprise would be given more liberal assistance.

Hallow E'en.

The Superstitions in Regard to it—The Customs in the Old Land.

Last night was Hallow E'en. It falling on Sunday night the boys for once forbore their usual practices. Old superstitions die hard, and it will be long before the festival of Halloween becomes a thing of the past. Long before the christian faith made way among the untutored peoples of ancient Britain, the Druids had special rites on Hallowmas eve. Fires were lit, mystic rites performed, the help of the true God implored, the machinations of evil powers protested against. The earliest records witness the universal belief that this night the powers of darkness muster in great force, that all supernatural beings hold revel within the sphere, of humanity and that it behooved all persons to be careful on this night, for any sin rendered the perpetrator liable to the influence of some evil spirit throughout a whole year thereafter. To this day any child born in Scotland on the eve of the 31st of October is supposed to be in possession of certain mysterious faculties, to bold, if not consciously, at least unconsciously in the midnight hours when the senses are obscured by sleep, communion with the supernatural world, and to be at all times a person whose actions, however eccentric, must be regarded charitably. When, later on, All-hallow eve became a christian observance, the old customs pertinent to its celebration did not pass into disuse; on the contrary, they became more and more deeply established, every here and there accumulating some new superstition, or annexing some old belief that had long lingered without direct association with any special day, season or locality. Bon-fires are still lit on Hallowmas eve, though perhaps only one or two among the members of innumerable village communities, who thus celebrate, know that the practice is a remnant of paganism. In Protestant countries the vigil of All-souls is no longer a religious observance, or, at any rate, is not so in Scotland, England or Germany. It may be said that Halloween, as we understand it, is only celebrated by the Teutonic and Celtic races; with the Latins it is merely a religious vigil, round its observance clinging few, if any, wild legends or superstitions. It is in Scotland and Ireland that Halloween is kept in its entirety; in the former, curiously enough, more in the east, mid-country and Lowlands than in the remoter Highland districts, is other words, more among the Scots proper than among the pure Celts. The best chronicle of Hallowmas eve that exists is the well known poem of Burns, containing record of the most generally practiced customs. Its superstitious observances must undoubtedly pass away—have, indeed, to a great extent, already become obsolete—but the good fellowship, the laughter, the nut roasting, the apple ducking, and the candle singeing ought long to be especially associated with the 31st of October.

Personal.

Mr. H. H. Burnham, of Port Hope, is in town to-day.

Messrs. Alex. Elliott, D. H. Moore and Jas. Henry have about recovered from their recent illness.

Mr. M. H. McWilliams left town this morning for Minden to take a lucrative position in Hazlitt's lumbering camp at that place.

Rev. A. H. Munro has been engaged to deliver a lecture in town on the Tower of London, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., some time about the holidays.

Mr. Geo. A. Bennett, recently in Messrs. Ormond & Walsh's drug store, left on Friday evening for San Francisco, where he will pass the winter for the benefit of his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lane and Miss Clara Lane, father, mother and sister of the late Mrs. E. B. Stone, and Mr. and Mrs. Jno. R. Scott, of Napanee; Rev. S. G. Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Dingman, of Toronto, and Mr. Stone, of Percy township, attended the funeral obsequies of the wife of Mr. E. B. Stone, barrister.

Genuine Japanese.

On Tuesday evening in Bradburn's Opera House, a novel and interesting exhibition will open a week's season. The Japanese Colony of San Ban, consisting of genuine Japanese artizans, will be shown engaged working at their respective trades in real Japanese style, in real Japanese costumes. Mr. Takahashi's lecture on the customs and habits of the Japanese nation and a neat stage performance, will be included in the list of attractions, accessible by the small admission fee of 10 cents. Every afternoon and evening. An interesting entertainment worthy of liberal patronage.

Our Boys.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—Will you allow me through the columns of your valuable journal to draw the attention of parents to the vast influence for good which the study of orchestral instruments would have on the health and morals of the youth of this city. No better remedy can be found for those who are deficient in lung breathing power and nerve strength than the study of brass instruments—say the B flat cornet. The exertion needed for sounding it expands the lungs and vivifies the system generally. Bandsmen are as a rule very healthy men, and looking over the annals of crime we very rarely find musicians brought before the courts for offence against the law.

Let a boy in his earlier years learn the use of an orchestral instrument and you add to his life many hours of innocent pleasure. Music always refines a youth, drawing his attention from the coarser vicesof gambling, drinking, cards, etc. With regard to boy's voices, they all change about the age of fourteen, and do not become fit for use for several years. Thus the best years of a boy's life when memory is at its best, are lost as regards music. Now, we find that all boys are very fond of band music. Let our boys take up the study of band instruments, and in one year's time withonehour's daily practice surprising results are obtained, even to the extent of playing together as a uniformed band, easy marches, etc. A few years elapse and the lads find themselves indispensible factors in the social life of the city they live in.

I have consulted with members of the Board in this city, and find that teachers can be secured for teaching boys in large classes, as is the custom in Germany and Austria, thus reducing the price of tuition to a very low figure. The classes could be taught from five to seven p.m., thus enabling the lads to get to their homes in due season. The instruments can be sold on the instalment plan on very easy terms, or by paying extra tuition fees, the use of the instruments allowed only in the Practicing Rooms. There is no earthly reason why, if our citizens will take this matter up with some little enthusiasm, why we should not see in one year's time a band of one hundred performers in becoming uniform marching through the streets of this bright and pretty city of Peterborough.

I have spoken to many of the boys, and they are delighted at the idea. Now it only remains for the ladies of Peterborough to take the matter up, coax the hard-hearted fathers to purchase an instrument, and we shall have in a short time the happiest lot of boys in all Canada, as they find themselves continually improving, and giving pleasure to their parents and friends.

And now a few words on the religious side of the question. Every clergyman and teacher of a Sunday school knows that the boys are their greatest source of anxiety in the efforts necessary to keep up a successful Sunday school. The big boys very seldom sing, and in fact think it is beneath their sense of manly dignity. These same lads, brimful of nervous energy, can be changed so as to become the strongest element for good in the schools. Let every Sunday school have its uniformed band lead the singing, and what a change would come over the schools. The boys now would feel a sense of dignity and importance from their position as leaders in the musical exercises of the much despised girls.

During the summer months let the Sunday schools unite in holding their exercises in the open air under the shade of some pretty grove of trees in the suburbs of Peterborough. The united bands, full of rivalry against each other, would lead the singing. Can any one doubt for an instant that the parents and friends of the children would come and be delighted listeners? The march to and from the grounds would be looked forward to by the boys and soon become a red letter day with them. In the winter months the children could assemble in the Opera House at 4 p.m., and the bands would lead in a special song service. This is actually done in Melbourne, Australia, the bands of the city combining for the purpose. The children and parents pack the Opera House of that city. Can any one doubt that the musical instincts of our children would be wonderfully quickened if this scheme were taken hold of with some little energy on the part of our citizens. I appeal to the parents of the boys who would favor a movement of this kind to send in their names to the editor of this paper, who will probably publish them so as to bring general interest to bear on a plan which I am convinced can be easily carried out, and will, I am sure, add greatly to the future happiness of the boys and girls of Peterborough.

L. SEWARD.

Church Chimes.

At the Charlotte street Methodist Church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. Mr. Wallace, preached the funeral sermon of the late Mrs. E. B. Stone. The text was from Proverbs 3, 11:—"My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; neither be weary of his correction." The minister spoke touchingly of the severe afflictions Mr. Stone has been obliged to bear in the loss of one child and his wife within three months. The deceased lady had been an earnest church worker, and a kind and loving wife and mother, and would be greatly missed by everyone. Mr. Stone received the most heartfelt sympathy in his double affliction.

At the George street Methodist Church Sunday evening Rev. S. G. Stone, associate editor of the Christian Guardian, Toronto, delivered an impassioned sermon to a large congregation on the wondrous love and forgiveness of the Saviour. The text was from the Gospel of St. John, 3rd chap., 16th and 17th verses.

Peterborough Boys Lose a Game to Norwood at Association Football.

Saturday afternoon a match game of football (Association) was played on the P. A. A. A. grounds between Norwood club and a "scratch" team selected from the Peterborough Rugby club, resulting in favor of the visitors by three goals to one. This defeat was solely caused by the lack of practice on the part of the home team, and the fact that not being accustomed to playing Association football, their playing was wild, their "fouls" were numerous, and made at critical moments. Collectively they were larger and heavier than the Norwood team, and at their own game would, doubtless, have shut the visitors out altogether. Some brilliant individual play was made on both sides. One goal had been made by each team when half-time was called, after which Norwood scored two more. Following are the names and positions of each of the teams:—

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

A Wild Runaway.

Saturday evening a team of horses, owned by James Crowley, of Otonabee, ran away from Rathbun's wood and coal yard on Bethune street with a load of shingles behind. They ran down Aylmer street to Hunter, where, in turning the corner, they snapped off the tie-post and "straddled" the telegraph pole. The waggon was broken up by the concussion and the shingles thrown several feet in the air, alighting dangerously near the windows of Mr. R. H. Green's grocery store. The horses were not injured, and the harness only slightly.

Almost a Fire.

What might have been a very serious fire occurred in Bethany a few days ago. Some rubbish around the grain store house caught fire, and only for the timely assistance of the fire engine a heavy loss might have been sustained, Messrs. Preston & Touchburn having several thousand bushels of grain on hand at the time.—Times.

Omemee's Big Fire.

A fire broke out in Laidley & Waugh's grain storehouse, Omemee, on Saturday morning about 2 o'clock. The building and its contents was destroyed. The loss is over $7,000. The total loss is swelled by the damage to several Grand Trunk cars on an adjacent siding.

A Precedent.

A precedent is not wanting for the magnificent autumn weather of to-day. Four years ago to-day, All Saints, the opening of St. John's restored church was held and the sun shone as brilliantly and the air was as warm and genial as to-day's has been.

"An Echo Answers, Where?"

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned. Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am off-ering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. BRITAIN'S ATTITUDE.

A CONFERENCE PROPOSED ON THE BULGARIAN DIFFICULTY.

TRENOVA, Nov. 1.—Major Gruoff and Captain Benderoff, who were engaged in the revolution which resulted in the dethronement of Prince Alexander, were permitted to leave prison yesterday evening after giving bail.

The Time Arrived for Action.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 1.—Both the Novoe Vremya and the Novosti declare that the opening of the Sobranje is a fresh anti-Russian demonstration, which jeopardizes the success of Gen. Kaulbars' negotiations with the Bulgarian Government, and may render the despatch of Russian men-of-war to Varna fruitless. The Novoe Vremya says the Bulgarian people are not a political factor to be reckoned with. The army of Bulgaria, which is the only existing power that has hitherto been controlled by the regency, might be reduced to a band of armed political adventurers who would not shrink from the most desperate measures to save themselves and their instigators at Sofia. Continuing the paper says: "A settlement to conform with Russia's intentions must not cost Russia more than the matter is worth. The future depends on finishing in one way or the other with the regency. We believe that the best course to pursue is to discontinue forthwith the negotiations with the regency. Enough words have been wasted. Now Russia must act."

England Proposes a Conference.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Cabinet, at the first council since the recess, decided to instruct Sir Wm. White, British Ambassador at Constantinople, to insist upon an immediate conference at Constantinople to consider the Bulgarian question and to demand the suspension of Russian intervention, diplomatic and active, pending the decisions of such conference. The Porte is renewing its entente cordiale with England and is in favor of the proposed conference. Italy concurs, while Russia and France oppose the project. Germany and Austria remain neutral.

A Candidate for the Throne.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Prince Conza, half brother of King Milan, has become a candidate for the Bulgarian throne. He is a relative of M. De Giers, the Russian Foreign Minister.

Russia Pacifically Inclined.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 1.—The official press asserts that it is an entire misconception to attribute the resumption of diplomatic relations with France to an agreement based upon a common policy against England. Russia, the official organs say, does not desire to take the initiative in any coalition against England and there is no chance that the warlike counsels given Russia by certain papers will be followed unless the course adopted by other powers should compel the Government to abandon the pacific views which form the basis of its present policy.

England Intends to Stay.

CAIRO, Nov. 1.—It is officially announced that the English Government is determined to maintain public safety in Egypt, and not to leave the country to disorder and possibly to a fresh and disastrous revolution.

Britain's Foreign Policy.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Cabinet Council today discussed little except the Bulgarian and Egyptian questions. It is believed that the Government will shortly send a circular to the Powers, explaining the financial position of Egypt.

If Russia refuses to recognise the Sobranje's candidate for the Bulgarian throne, England will probably propose a conference to consider the whole question.

The Ministers are not inclined to call Parliament before the middle of January. They will come to a final decision on this question on Saturday.

BISMARCK'S RADICAL RING.

He Declines to Read a Hygienic Work Because it is Printed in Roman.

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—The municipal authorities of Berlin some time ago caused to be completed an elaborate work referring to hygienic and medical institutions of Berlin. Copies were circulated among members of the Congress of Scientists, recently held in this city, and a copy was sent to Prince Bismarck at Varzin. The Chancellor in reply thanked the municipality for the gift, but bluntly told them that he would not read its contents because it was printed in Roman characters. The editors, who included Prof. Virchow, had so printed the work for the convenience of foreign readers. Prince Bismarck at once denounced the authorities of Berlin as of Radical ring.

Bargains in Carpets and Oil Cloths at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

POLITICS IN ENGLAND.

MR. GLADSTONE URGED TO ADOPT A MORE RADICAL PLATFORM.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—John Morley, accompanied by Sir Wm. V. Harcourt, visited Hawarden to-day with the special object of inducing Mr. Gladstone to assent to a radical extension of the Leeds program. There is small reason to expect that Mr. Gladstone will agree to make either the question of reform of the House of Lords or the Church question a plank in the platform.

The business of the conference as arranged will be opened by Mr. Kitson, Chairman, who will introduce a motion expressing unabated confidence in Mr. Gladstone. Mr. Morley will move that the conference reaffirm its belief in the Home Rule project and renew its declarations upon the questions of land, local government and free education. The absence of a developed policy discontents the Radicals.

The Pall Mall Gazette declares that the Liberal party has become merely an association of men, saying "Ditto" to Mr. Gladstone and that the decadence of Mr. Gladstone is watched with dismay by his followers, some of whom look forward to the Tories remaining in power for the next ten years.

A section of the delegates intend to urge the conference to consider a proposal to reconcile the Unionists by affirming that every act or order of the Irish Parliament interfering with the powers of the Imperial Parliament or contrary to existing imperial acts will be held void and inoperative.

A TRAGEDY RECALLED.

The Boy Who Slew His Father to Avenge a Mother's Wrongs.

SARATOGA, N.Y., Nov. 1.—The death of Frank H. Walworth here yesterday in his 31st year of pneumonia, recalls the tragedy of 1873, when he figured as the murderer of his own father, an author of some note in those days. Mr. and Mrs. Walworth did not live happily together and were early divorced. Mr. Walworth never ceased to trouble his wife with threatening and insulting letters, and her son, who was deeply attached to her, soon learned to hate his father. By some unfortunate circumstance the letters which impugned his mother's virtue and the legitimacy of his own birth fell into the hands of Frank, now 18 years of age. He was a youth of high spirit, and he was determined not to submit to the defamation of the mother whom he so dearly loved and his own disgrace. After warning his father to desist writing, without avail, he went to New York, sent for him to come to his room in the Sturtevant House and there shot him dead. He then went down stairs and enquired for the nearest police station, where he surrendered himself as a parricide. He was tried before Judge Davis, and in spite of the able defence of his lawyers, was found guilty of murder in the second degree. He was sentenced to imprisonment for life and was taken to Sing Sing in July, 1873, and was transferred from there to Auburn in December of the following year.

In 1877 he was pardoned by Governor Robinson. In May, 1881, he was admitted to the New York Bar.

BEEF-KILLERS ON STRIKE.

Six Thousand Quit Work Rather than Return to the Ten-Hour System.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—The threatened strike among the beef men at the stock yards was commenced this morning, and nearly 6000 men are now out from the slaughter houses of G. F. Swift & Co. and Nelson Morris. The trouble is over the adoption of the ten-hour system, the men refusing to work the two extra hours without additional pay. In these two houses there are no hogs killed, and the employes say they cannot accept the ten-hour system. Each of the firms employ about 3000 men, and at present many of them are congregated about the streets and on the corners near the big houses. There is a great deal of excitement, but the men are orderly, and insist that no act of theirs will precipitate any trouble. There is no indication that the police will be called upon, but it is yet too early to determine the intention of the two firms.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS AT SAMOA.

A Huge Volcano Thrown Up From the Bottom of a Deep Lake.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—A letter published in this evening's Bulletin under date of Opia, Oct. 15, says that authentic news has reached Samoa to the effect that on the morning of Sept. 10 over 100 heavy shocks of earthquake occurred on the island of Pinafore, one of the Tonga group, and that from the bottom of the lake, which is 2000 feet deep, a mountain has arisen to the height of 300 feet above its surface; also that this mountain has burst out in flames and thrown out hot stones and sand in such quantities as to destroy two-thirds of the cocoa trees on the island. In Samoa light shocks of earthquake occur so frequently now that they no longer cause any alarms.

A BIG NATIONALIST MEETING.

Ten Thousand Enthusiastic People Present—The White Star Boycott.

DUBLIN, Nov. 1.—Messrs. Dillon, Redmond and Sheedy, M. P.s, addressed a Nationalist meeting to-day at Gort, County Galway. Great enthusiasm was manifested. A supposed land grabber was hooted and ejected from the hall. Ten thousand persons were present. They favored a policy that would unite Ireland.

The Sarsfield Branch of the National League has rejected the resolution of the Glin Branch to boycott the White Star Line on the ground that such action against that line would prove injurious to Irish industry.

THE CHEF OF THE ASTOR HOUSE.

A German Waiter Shoots at Him and Then Commits Suicide.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—An old feud between a German waiter named Ott and Chas. Babin, chef of the Astor House, culminated to-night in Ott's shooting Babin twice. Thinking he had killed Babin, Ott fled, and was found an hour later dead. He had shot himself. Babin is not fatally hurt.

The Brewers' Strike in Detroit.

DETROIT, Nov. 1.—The brewers' strike in this city has arrived at that point where the employers are dictating terms of settlement to their men. The strikers asked for a conference. They were told that a conference would be held after the men refunded the fines imposed on the employing brewers for not yielding to the demands of a few men. The strikers decided not to make the concession. Three hundred or 400 men are out. Beer is imported from Toledo to supply the union demands.

Records of the Anarchist Trial.

A large assortment of bombs, empty and loaded, fuse, daggers, Winchester rifles, revolvers, red flags and clippings from the Arbeiter Zeitung will accompany the papers.

WHERE HAVE THEY GONE?

Mr. Adam Darling and family Disappear from Montreal.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—There is comment on the street at the absence from the city of Mr. Adam Darling, wholesale importer of china, 417 St. Paul-street, and proprietor of the retail establishment, 208 St. James-street. The family it appears left their residence, 463 St. Urbain-street, about a fortnight ago without giving any notice to the landlord, Mr. James Baxter, until Saturday last, when the key was brought to him by a friend of the family, with the message that they had left Canada for good, but that the quarter's rent would be paid regularly until the house was re-let. Mr. Darling had a lease of the house for three years, a considerable portion of which is yet unexpired. Yesterday Mr. Baxter visited the house and found that everything had been removed. As soon as the rumor became current that Mr. Darling and his family had left the city, Mr. Jas. Benning, of Benning & Barsalow, who is a creditor of Mr. Darling for a considerable amount, took steps to protect his interests and made arrangements to have the business placed in liquidation. Mr. P. S. Ross has been asked to act as curator and proceedings with this end in view will be taken at once. Mr. Darling for some time had been engaged in a heavy lawsuit against the estate of his late brother, Mr. William Darling. The case had been before the Toronto courts for a number of years, but shortly before his departure a settlement had been effected and $43,000 was paid to him. His bookkeeper says he went to Toronto to settle this dispute, and that he expects Mr. Darling back daily.

AN OPEN LETTER

Addressed by Hon. O. Mowat to Rev. G. M. Milligan.

Protestantism Not in Danger*—The Premier Vindicates his Government—A Thorough, Earnest and Exhaustive Review of Matters Lately in Controversy.

Hon. Mr. Mowat has addressed the following letter to Rev. G. M. Milligan which is deserving of being read with attention by every person who has perused or heard of the inflammatory appeals of certain Conservative journals to religious passion. The following letter, an instalment of which will be published from day to day till completed should be read by all. It is a calm clear statement of the facts whereof it treats:—

Rev. G. M. Milligan, B. A., Minister of Old St Andrew's Church, Toronto.

REV. AND DEAR SIR,—I cordially recognise the friendly spirit in which your recently published letters were written. I am glad to know from these letters and otherwise, that as regards your own political creed, you are a Liberal, and that you have been an outspoken Liberal; and I unreservedly accept what you say as to your object in writing having been to strengthen my hands by furnishing me with evidence to which (if necessary) I could point any of my colleagues who might counsel the granting of favors on account of religion. Though neither Mr. Macdonnell nor Mr. McLeod states this friendly purpose to be the object of their letters, yet as Mr. Macdonnell, though a Conservative, is said to have voted for a supporter of the present Ontario Government at the last general election, and as Mr. McLeod has always been understood to be a Liberal like yourself, I am satisfied that the letter of neither was written with any adverse political design. But I presume you have observed that all three letters have been made use of by the Conservative press to injure the Liberal party at the coming elections, and thereby, as you and I believe, to injure the Province; and as the letters indicate the impressions of three justly esteemed ministers of our Church, they may naturally be expected to have more or less the effect which our political opponents desire. I therefore feel it my duty to make a personal statement of the facts bearing on the matters to which the letters refer; and I do so in the present form, rather than by a speech at one of the great Reform gatherings which are taking place in different parts of the Province, because I have been advised, in consequence of my recent recovery from a second somewhat severe illness, to avoid for a time speaking at public meetings.

All three letters express an apprehension that the Church of Rome is exercising an undue and injurious influence with the present Ontario Government, and that unwarrantable influences by the Roman Catholic clergy have been permitted; and you all refer to certain transactions as, or in relation to, the Central Prison as affording examples or illustrations of its influence and of its danger. The Presbyterian Review has had a number of articles on the same subject, written, however, in a very different spirit from the letters. These articles greatly enlarge the indictment, and manifest a strong animus against the Government and a strong desire to do us all the harm possible. I shall show you the injustice of those articles, and shall show you some of the errors into which (I say with great respect) you have all fallen, and but for which I am sure the letters would not have been written.

As a Protestant, I heartily recognise the reasonableness, and the duty, of your taking an active interest in preventing injurious concessions to the "Romish hierarchy," or any other hierarchy, or to any other body, and also in resisting any undue influence or unwarrantable interference. But I emphatically and unequivocally affirm that, as regards the present Ontario Government, there have been no such concessions as have been suggested and no such influence; and that there is no danger of anything of the kind as long as that Government is constituted as it is now; every statement to the contrary notwithstanding.

Before going into any details let me observe, that the policy of the Liberal party, as I have always understood it, is, to be just to Roman Catholics, and to be unjust to none. There may be an honest difference of opinion as to what justice requires or warrants; but our views on that subject, and our practice in carrying them out, are now what they have been always, and they have hitherto received as large a measure of public approval as a Government could look for. It has been my good fortune, with the assistance of able colleagues and Liberal supporters, so to conduct the Government and guide the Legislation of this Province during the last fourteen years as to have had during this period the entire confidence of the Liberal party, and to a large extent the approval of intelligent Conservatives also; and, as a consequence, it is notorious that, in regard to the general election which is now approaching, the Opposition are hopeless of success from ordinary methods. But in a community so largely Protestant as ours, the cry of "Protestantism in danger," if the people can be got to believe it, may overpower all other issues. Accordingly in the extremity of the Conservative opposition, and for the sole purpose of getting votes, the leading Conservative organ here began some months ago to cry "No Popery"; the Conservative press generally took up the cry; and all these journals have ever since persistently endeavored to create the belief, or the fear, that new and objectionable legislation in the interest of the Roman Catholic portion of the people is contemplated, and that new and peculiar privileges or advantages are intended to be given to them. But all this I am in a position to positively and emphatically deny. Nothing of the kind has ever been under our consideration; or been from any quarter proposed or suggested for our consideration; and I have not the slightest reason for supposing that anything of the kind has been thought of by any of my colleagues, or (I ought in justice to add) by any Roman Catholic authority. I do not doubt that, as a Liberal and a Protestant, you will be glad of this statement of mine, and that any other Protestant Liberals, who from any cause have been led to believe or apprehend that the case was otherwise, will feel glad to have their confidence strengthened. They know that I have never deceived them hitherto. They and you will justly believe that I do not deceive now.

You refer to our civil and religious liberties as being in danger, or possible danger. I take as deep an interest in the liberties, civil and religious, of my native Province as any man can. Office is no advantage to me, involving as it does pecuniary loss, unceasing and exhausting labor, continual misrepresentation and abuse by political opponents, and occasionally, as in the present case, misunderstandings on the part of friends. If office did not afford the opportunity of doing good service to my province, or if power could only be maintained by submitting to undue and pernicious influence of any kind, I could not endure my position for a day. One of the advantages of that position is, that it enables me to know whether and when there is danger of the kind which you and some others apprehend, and should it arise to avert it.

THE PRESBYTERIAN REVIEW.

I did not see the Review articles when they appeared, having been ill when the first of them was published, and having afterwards been for a considerable time absent from the Province; but within the last few days a friend has collected them for me. Though, speaking for the Review, the writer repeatedly disclaims any political leanings; I have no doubt, from these articles, that he personally has political leanings, and very strong ones. The manager is well known to be a pronounced Conservative.

THE CENTRAL PRISON—THE COMMISSION.

The first article was (I presume) that which appeared in the Review of the 22nd July. In that article the writer finds evidence of Romish influence with the Government, even in the issuing of a Commission for enquiring into the charges which had been made against the Warden, and which the Conservative press had for months before been parading before the public. He says: "the Government yielded to the pressure, [it is of Roman Catholic pressure he is speaking] so far as to nominate a Commission." Yet a Commission is the ordinary way of dealing with complaints which cannot be set at rest by the action of the Inspectors. In this case, besides, it was the repeatedly expressed desire of the Warden himself that a Commission should be issued; he thought that a public investigation by a Commission would afford a sure means, and the best means, of exculpating him from the charges against him.

I have no doubt that the agitation against the Warden was raised by Roman Catholics who were unfriendly to the Government; and being so raised, it was taken advantage of by our political opponents generally, to injure the Warden whom we had appointed, and to injure the Government whose officer he is. The Review writer ascribes the agitation to Roman Catholic prisoners being permitted to attend the Protestant Sunday Schools; and the same thing is said in Mr. McLeod's letter. I do not remember hearing of this before reading that letter. The matter was not brought to the attention of the Government by either party, nor to that of the Provincial Secretary, as he informs me. I understand the rule for all our Provincial institutions to have always been, before my time, and still, that the Protestant inmates shall receive their religious instruction from Protestant teachers, and the Roman Catholic inmates from Roman Catholic teachers; and, on the other hand, that Protestant prisoners shall not receive Roman Catholic instruction. Reference to the Inspector's Reports for 1878 and 1879 show that in the Central Prison the rule had not been carried out in those years. In the report of 1878 the Inspector said:—"Respecting all these services, it was noticed that a considerable number of prisoners classed as Protestants attended the Roman Catholic service in the morning, and that many Roman Catholic prisoners were at both the Protestant school and service. Such attendance is entirely voluntary on the part of the prisoners, and, so far, no complaint has been made by any of the teachers or clergy. It is evident, however, that circumstances might arise through this practice, upon which charges of proselytism might be based. To avoid all ground for this, the Warden is instructed to give orders to allow the Protestant and Roman Catholic prisoners to only attend the services and schools of their respective denominations; more particularly as the practice of attending the services is apparently followed more for the purpose of relieving the monotony of cell life for a time than for that of receiving instruction on each occasion." There is a similar paragraph in the report for the following year.

I think that, on the whole, the rule thus stated is a good one. The chance (so to speak) of the conversion of a Roman Catholic convict to Protestantism is too slight, humanly speaking, to be taken into account as against the evils which facilities for proselytism would create. Good, happily, is sometimes done among the Protestant prisoners by Protestant teachers, and among the Roman Catholic prisoners by Roman Catholic teachers; and it does seem well that the efforts of each class of teachers should be confined to the prisoners of their own religious; this work is quite wide enough without Protestant prisoners being received at the Roman Catholic Sunday School, or Roman Catholic prisoners at the Protestant Sunday School. Any other system would be a new departure which, I venture to say, would, on reflection, be as distasteful to Protestants as to Roman Catholics. Outside of the prison walls either class may go to any church or Sunday School they choose; but how many Roman Catholics of this class outside of the prison have in Toronto become Protestants so far as you know or have heard of? There could be no harmony or peace in any of our institutions if proselytism were permitted on either side; and any one who would be of service in governing a mixed community like ours must be broad-minded enough to recognise the consequent necessities of prison management, however strong his own views of religious truth may be. The commissioners also were of that opinion. They expressly recommended in their report "that Catholics and Protestants be compelled to go to their own service, and be prevented from going to any other, unless with the written consent of the clergyman of whom they are in charge."

It may be correct that the Warden's action in this matter (whatever it was) had something to do with the agitation against him; but from what I now know, I have little doubt that the agitation originated with certain ill-conducted prisoners and certain misdemeanants, [illegible] the guards. They formulated hostility against Roman Catholic officers and Roman Catholic prisoners; guards and prisoners invented stories against the Warden; they gave a false coloring to acts of his which involved no wrong; they secretly told their falsehoods to newspaper men, and to Roman Catholic clergymen who attended the prison, and whose hostility they desired thereby to excite or stimulate. While the agitation was going on the Warden made no complaint to me, and I know from the Provincial Secretary, the Minister to whose Department the charge of the Central Prison belongs, that no complaint was made to his department, except in the case of the Rev. Father Jeffcott. That complaint was transmitted to the Archbishop for his information. His Grace thereupon appointed another priest in the place of the Rev. Father Jeffcott. You are aware that the clergymen who attend, whether Protestant or Catholic, are not appointed or paid by the Government. The Warden has stated in one of his published letters that the priest who now attends has made himself acceptable to all the officers of the prison, not excluding the Warden himself.

[Owing to the pressure on our space which the continuation of the publication of the above letter would create, we have arranged to issue it entire in supplement form in a day or two.—ED. EXAMINER.]

A Wide Range.

A wide range of painful affections may be met with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. James M. Lawson, of Woodville, Ont., speaks of it in high terms for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and many painful complaints too numerous to mention. It is used internally or externally. 2w44d

Try it.

Two of the most troublesome complaints to relieve are asthma and whooping cough, but Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam seldom fails, either in these, or other prevailing throat and lung troubles. All dealers in medicine have this remedy for sale. 2w44d

Can be seen as well in the Dark as the Light.

EVERYBODY should have One.

R. W. MUNCASTER.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

In these terms he expressed himself:

"I write to you before my trial takes place. If the verdict goes in my favor I shall destroy what I have written. If I am found guilty I must leave it to you to do what I should otherwise have done for myself.

"The undeserved misfortune that has overtaken me began with the arrival of my ship in the port of Rio. Our second mate (his duty for the day being done) asked leave to go on shore—and never returned. What motive determined him on deserting I am not able to say. It was my own wish to supply his place by promoting the best seaman on board. My owners' agents overruled me, and appointed a man of their own choosing.

"What nation he belonged to, I don't know. The name he gave was Beljames, and he was reported to be a broken-down gentleman. Whoever he might be, his manner and his talk were captivating. Everybody liked him.

"After the two calamities of the loss of the ship and the disappearance of the diamonds—these latter being valued at £5,000—I returned to England by the first opportunity that offered, having Beljames for a companion.

"Shortly after getting back to my house in London I was privately warned by a good friend that my owners had decided to prosecute me for willfully casting away the ship, and (crueller still) for having stolen the missing diamonds. The second mate, who had been in command of the vessel when she struck the rock, was similarly charged along with me. Knowing myself to be innocent I determined, of course, to stand my trial. My wonder was what Beljames would do. Would he follow my example, or, if he got a chance, would he try to make his escape?

"I might have thought it only friendly to give this person a word of warning, if I had known where to find him. We had separated when the ship reached the port of Falmouth, in Cornwall, and had not met since. I gave him my address in London, but he gave me no address in return.

"On the voyage home Beljames told me that a legacy had been left to him, being a small freehold house and garden in St John's Wood, London. His agent, writing to him on the subject, had reported the place to be sadly out of repair and had advised him to find somebody who would take it off his hands on reasonable terms. This seemed to point to a likelihood of his being still in London, trying to sell his house.

"While my mind was running on these recollections I was told that a decent elderly woman wanted to see me. She proved to be the landlady of the house in which Beljames lodged; and she brought an alarming message. The man was dying, and desired to see me. I went to him immediately.

"Few words are best, when one has to write about one's own troubles.

"Beljames had heard of the intended prosecution. How he had been made aware of it, death left him no time to tell me. The miserable wretch had poisoned himself—whether in terror of standing his trial, or in remorse of conscience, it is not any business of mine to decide. Most unluckily for me, he first ordered the doctor and the landlady out of the room—and then, when we two were alone, owned that he had purposely altered the course of the ship, and had stolen the diamonds.

"To do him justice, he was eager to save me from suffering for his fault.

"Having eased his mind by confession, he gave me the slip of paper (written in cipher) which you will find inclosed in this. 'There is my note of the place where the diamonds are hidden,' he said. Among the many ignorant people who know nothing of ciphers, I am one—and I told him so. 'That's how I keep my secret,' he said; 'write from my dictation, and you shall know what it means. Lift me up first.' As I did it, he rolled his head to and fro, evidently in pain. But he managed to point to pen, ink, and paper on a table hard by, on which his doctor had been writing. I left him for a moment to pull the table nearer to the bed—and, in that moment, he groaned and cried out for help. I ran to the room down-stairs where the doctor was waiting. When we got back to him he was in convulsions. It was all over with Beljames.

"The lawyers who are to defend me have tried to get experts, as they call them, to interpret the cipher. The experts have all failed. They will declare, if they are called as witnesses, that the signs on the paper are not according to any known rules, and are marks made at random meaning nothing.

"As for any statement, on my part, of the confession made to me, the law refuses to hear it except from the mouth of a witness. I might prove that the ship's course was changed, contrary to my directions after I had gone below to rest, if I could find the man who was steering at the time. God only knows where that man is.

"On the other hand, the errors of my past life and my being in debt are circumstances dead against me. The lawyers seem to trust almost entirely in a famous counsel, whom they have engaged to defend me. For my own part I go to my trial with little or no hope.

"If you are now my widow, and if you may have any love left for my memory, never rest until you have found somebody who can interpret these cursed signs. Do for me, I say, what I cannot do for myself. Recover the diamonds; and, when you restore them, show my owners this letter.

"Kiss the children for me. I wish them, when they are old enough, to read this defense of myself and to know that their father, who loved them dearly, died an innocent man. My good brother will take care of you for my sake. I have done.

"RODERICK WESTERFIELD."

Mrs. Westerfield took up the cipher once more. She looked at it as if it was a living thing that defied her.

"If I am ever able to read this gibberish," she decided, "I know what I'll do with the diamonds!"

A—The Sequel.

One year exactly after the fatal day of the trial Mrs. Westerfield, enclosed in the sanctuary of her bathroom, celebrated her release from the obligation of wearing widow's weeds.

The conventional gradations in the outward expression of grief which lead from black clothing to gray formed no part of this afflicted lady's system of mourning. She laid her best blue walking dress, and her new bonnet to match, on the bed and admired them to her heart's content. Her discarded garments were left on the floor. "Thank heaven, I've done with you!" she said, and kicked her rusty mourning out of the way as she advanced to the fireplace to ring the bell.

"Where is my little boy?" she asked, when the landlady entered the room.

"He's down with me in the kitchen, ma'am; I'm teaching him to make a plum cake for himself. He's so happy! I hope you don't want him just now?"

"Not the least in the world. I want you to take care of him while I am away. By the bye, where's Sydney?"

The eldest child (the girl) had been christened Sydney, in compliment to one of her father's female relatives. The name was not liked by her mother—who had shortened it to Syd, by way of leaving as little of it as possible. With a look at Mrs. Westerfield which expressed ill-concealed aversion, the landlady answered: "She's up in the lumber-room, poor child. She says you sent her there to be out of the way."

"Ah, to be sure, so I did."

"There's no fireplace in the garret, ma'am. I'm afraid the little girl must be cold and lonely."

It was useless to plead for Syd—Mrs. Westerfield was not listening. Her attention was absorbed by her own plump and pretty hands. She took a tiny file from her dressing-table, and put a few finishing touches to her nails. "Send me some hot water," she said; "I want to dress."

The servant girl who carried the hot water up-stairs was new to the ways of the house. After having waited on Mrs. Westerfield, she had been instructed by the kind-hearted landlady to go on to the top floor. "You will find a pretty little girl in the garret, all by herself. Say you are to bring her down to my room as soon as her mamma has gone out."

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Surgeon, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—I am pleased to be able to state to you that I am now free from Catarrh. It is almost incredible that a so short a time I could have been cured of Catarrh, which has affected my health for years. A little over two months ago I took treatment from you, and to-day the Catarrh is entirely cured. Your treatment is simply a marvel. I will heartily recommend any of my friends pe sonally, and would suggest to all thus troubled the advisability, of consulting you immediately. Accept my many thanks.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by cheque in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mer gage on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $900,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

The Mortgage may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed.

A Deep Well.

Last week Mr. Thomas Leary, of North Monaghan, sunk a tubular and drill well on the farm of Mr. Wm. Laugh, Cavan. Great difficulty was experienced in finding water, a depth of 190 feet being reached before a vein was struck.

A Close Call.

When the G. T. train from the north came in to Port Hope on Saturday night, an almost fatal accident occurred. Mr. Fred. Spratlin, a carpenter living on Protestant Hill who had been at work in Millbrook was returning with his basket of tools and attempting to get off while the train was passing the old station, was very severely hurt. On being picked up it was found that he had a severe cut over the right eye, another under the chin, and his tongue was cut; he also received a rupture. It was providential that he was not killed outright.

The Prize Pumpkin.

Yesterday closed the contest among the farmers for the $12 overcoat offered by Gough, the cheap clothier, for the largest pumpkin grown in the county. The 127 pound bulb entered by Mr. Nathan Mollmoyle, of Smith, capped all competitors, but the judges are doubtful of its being a genuine pumpkin. Mr. Walsh, of Ormond & Walsh, from whom the seed was purchased, vouches for the purity of the monster specimen. However, the judges will meet again Saturday, when with the aid of several experienced seedsmen, it is expected an unbiassed decision will be reached.

Boys Will be Boys.

Some lads celebrated Hallow E'en last night, though the sport was not general, and the damage, in consequence, slight. Some rustic chairs left on a gentleman's lawn in the north ward were found on a neighbor's premises, a few houses on George street were painted "red" with tired hen fruit, decayed vegetables were thrown promiscuously at doors and windows, numerous gates took excursions to the other side of the road, etc., but on the whole the celebration was very tame. The boys intend making full amends to the public next year, when Hallow E'en will fall on Monday.

Treating a Tramp.

Last night a tramp called at the residence of Mr. Joseph Mills, Weller street. The bell was answered by Mrs. Mills, who, having been annoyed during the evening by the Hallow E'en pranks of the incorrigible "small boy," armed herself with a stout stick before opening the door. The tramp asked if the "boss" was in, and receiving a negative reply, made a hasty grab at the gold chain hanging around Mrs. Mills' neck. But he reckoned without his host. The lady, with true Amazonian spirit, plied the rod vigorously about the tramp's head and shoulders, causing him such pain that he beat a rapid retreat and left that house in peace for the rest of the night.

The Two Races.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock a lively foot race of 100 yards, b at two in three heats, was announced to take place on the Ashburnham cricket grounds, between Mr. Thos. Robson, of the Grand Central, and Mr. A. W. Elliott. Both men are noted sprinters, and the contest was expected to have been most exciting. The purse is $100 a side.

The trotting match, arranged a few weeks ago, between "Little Ned" (owned by Mr. A. P. Morgan) and "Fanny B," (owned by Mr. Daly) has since been declared off, and will likely take place in the winter. It was to have occurred this afternoon at the Driving Park.

High Court of Justice.

Court's Bench Division—Peterborough Assizes, Mr. Justice Rose Presiding.

SECOND DAY—TUESDAY.

The case of McCann vs. Provencen, an action of false imprisonment and slander arising out of previous litigation between the parties, was concluded this morning. The parties to this suit have figured in such an one court for several terms, and the details are too well known to need reiteration. The jury brought in a verdict for plaintiff of $500 with full costs. Messrs. Sawers and Blackstock for plaintiff.

FERGUSON VS. SANDERSON.

In 1884 Mr. William Ferguson, of Cartwright, desiring to get a home near Peterborough, negotiated with his brother-in-law, Edward Sanderson, of Cavan, for the exchange of farms. The latter, not entertaining the proposal, directed Mr. Ferguson to his (Sanderson's) brother Joseph, who was looking for a larger farm, to whom he proposed the exchange of 109 acres of his Cartwright land for 100 acres of Joseph Sanderson's land, each hundred being valued at $70 per acre, and to sell his remaining 60 acres to Joseph for $4,000. This offer was finally accepted, but Ferguson stated that if he effected a trade with Joseph, Edward was prepared to take Joseph's farm at $7,000. Edward denied that he ever made such an offer, and says he finally closed the contract with Ferguson for $6,600. The latter got Joseph Sanderson to convey his Cavan farm direct to Edward, leaving in the deed the consideration of $7,000. When this deed was presented to Edward he objected to the consideration being $7,000, stating that all he had agreed to pay was $6,600. Joseph told him it was all right, as it made no difference what was in the deed as long as it was receipted. Edward accepted the deed. After being paid $6,600, Ferguson sought to recover $400 from either Joseph or Edward Sanderson. Each denied liability, and this action was brought to fix on either one or the other the liability to pay the $400. Kerr (Macdonald & Co.) for plaintiff, Mr. Dumble and Mr. Patterson for defendant. The jury were charged after 2 o'clock, and at latest writing were deliberating on the verdict.

The charge of bigamy against Jos. Whiteman will occupy the attention of the court this afternoon.

Young Men's Christain Association.

Annual Week of Prayer—Statistics of Associations Throughout the World.

The annual week of prayer for young men begins Sunday, November 14th. This appointment is made by the World's Conference and the American International Convention of Young Men's Christian Associations. This will be the 21st observance of this season, and the indications are that it will be more widely observed by the Associations in this country particularly, than is any previous year.

According to the latest gathered statistics there are in the world 3,372 associations. In America there are 1,071, with an aggregate membership of 140,000; annual current expenses of $785,000, and a total net property, consisting of 90 buildings, 365 libraries of 250,000 volumes, 74 building funds, etc., of $5,040,178. Five hundred and ninety-two associations report young men's Bible classes, and 555 report young men's prayer meetings, 579 have educational classes; 1,903 lectures were given last year. There are 444 reading rooms, 107 gymnasiums, 487 general secretaries and other paid officers, 148 boys' departments, 66 railroad branches, 13 German branches, 226 college and 27 colored associations. The early establishment of the international organization in America, with an efficient managing committee and visiting secretaries, the subsequent establishment, through this parent agency, of strong State organizations, with effective executive committees and travelling secretaries, together with the large increase in the number of local secretaries, are among the principal causes of the marvellous growth of the American Association.

Police Paragraphs.

At the police station yesterday a report was received of an attempted burglary at Mr. Geo. W. Hall's residence, Simcoe street, Sunday night. It seems the house-breaker succeeded in raising the window until stopped by a patent catch. Mr. Hall heard the noise, jumped from bed, and just caught sight of a man passing out the gate. Footprints in the earth and dirty hand-marks on the window were noticed next morning.

A disgraceful row took place in a house on Water street Sunday night. Persons, in passing, heard cries of "murder," but, happily, no serious injury was done any one. It is said the trouble was between father and son.

A Discharged Inspector's Revenge.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Surveyor-of-the-Port Beattie was shot about noon to-day in his office at the custom-house by a discharged inspector, who fired five or six shots. He was wounded in two places. One of the bullets, it is said, entered the groin. Mr. Beattie is lying in the custom-house. The attendants state that his condition is not considered serious. The inspector who fired the shot is named Borrall, and was discharged last week.

Coroner Levy took the ante-mortem statement of Surveyor Beattie this afternoon. The surveyor was sitting at his desk when his door was thrown open and the prisoner, who had been removed from the post of inspector on the recommendation of the surveyor for illegally taking money from an immigrant girl, entered with a pistol in his hand, exclaiming: "Now, by God, I'll teach you." He fired three shots, two of which took effect, one through the fleshy part of the surveyor's left hand, and the other struck the fingers of the illum, glancing in an inward and upward direction. The ball has not yet been extracted. The prisoner was perfectly calm. He admitted the shooting and said he did it because Beattie refused to listen to the men who went to him to appeal for his reinstatement. He added that he did not take the $3 of which he was accused from the immigrant girl. The surveyor has been taken home.

A Vicious Vicar.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Bishop of Carlisle has ordered the assembling of a diocesan court for the trial of Rev. G. A. Dwyer, vicar of Grayrigg, near Kendal, against whom serious charges have been made by one of his servant girls. This action has been taken in accordance with the report of a commission of inquiry appointed by the bishop to the effect that a prima facie case had been made out for further proceedings against the defendant. The charges in detail will not bear repetition in print.

A Peaceful Winter Probable.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's report to the Cabinet with reference to the condition of Ireland shows that there has been a marked cessation of outrages, that tenants are paying their rents under the landlords' reduction, and that the prospects are good for a peaceful winter.

All Gains and No Losses.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Municipal elections were held throughout England and Wales yesterday. The returns up to midnight show a Conservative gain of 70, a Liberal gain of 65, and a Union-Liberal gain of 2.

Tragedy on a Train.

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico, Nov. 1.—Vicente Recendes, a common loafer, being jealous of his wife, approached her on the train as if intending to embrace her, instead of which he placed a revolver to her head and killed her. Along with Mrs. Recendez was her two children, aged 6 and 8. The murderer also shot and killed the youngor of the children. He was arrested.

Montreal Liberals Astir.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—At a meeting of prominent Liberals here steps have been taken to organize for the Dominion elections, which they believe are close at hand. A committee was appointed to suggest the names of candidates for Montreal West and Centre. It is also understood that if C. J. Coursol, M.P., who was a bolter on the Riel question, would support Mr. Blake, he would be elected by acclamation in Montreal East, so far as the Liberals were concerned.

The Intercollegiate Missionary Alliance.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—The first business session of the Canadian Intercollegiate Missionary Alliance Convention was held here today, when papers were read by J. B. Kennedy, B.A., McMaster Hall, Toronto; Rev. R. J. Bapher, Montreal, and F. W. Macallum of Montreal. Reports of the Outlook Committee on Japan and Madagascar work were of a gratifying nature.

French Rights in Egypt.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Journal des Debats says England must understand that France will not surrender her share of the influence assured her in Egypt by her past, her position as a great power and her colonial interests, and declares that as long as England refuses to satisfy the just demands of France a cordial reciprocal British-French policy is impossible.

English Sympathy for American Workmen.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A public meeting will be held in London on Monday of workingmen and land reformers, the object of which will be to support the policy of restoration and to express sympathy with American workingmen in their efforts to elect Henry George, Mayor of New York. Among those who will sit on the platform are Dr. MacDonald and Dr. Clark, M. P., Helen Taylor, Rev. Mr. Headlam, Mr. Saunders, ex-M. P., and S. Mainville of New York.

Chinese Attack on Tonquin.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—A despatch from Tonquin says a force of Chinese armed with repeating rifles attacked from an ambush a body of Tonquinese riflemen at Phunh in the Province of Namdiuh, killing thirty of them. At the same time 1900 Chinese attacked the posts at Dong Song, but were repulsed after a desperate fight.

Londonderry's Bishop and Home Rule.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Protestant Bishop of Londonderry addressed a meeting Saturday in furtherance of a testimonial to Mr. Lewis, who was recently defeated by Justin McCarthy in the contested election case. The bishop made an attack on the National League and said he trusted that God would prevent the consummation of Home Rule.

It is probable that the act respecting the reorganization of the judicial districts in the Northwest territories, passed last session, will come into force on January 1 next. As soon as the Northwest Council now in session shall have determined the several judicial districts the organization of the judiciary will be proceeded with.

A fight between a 2-year-old alligator and a gila from Arizona in the building occupied by the Fish Commission at Washington created much interest there yesterday. The gila is a species of lizard fourteen inches long whose bite is poisonous. He fixed his fangs on the alligator's paw and held them there. The alligator moaned in pain, but all efforts to release him were for a long time fruitless. The alligator will die.

"By the way," exclaimed Smithers, "have you two fives for a ten?" "I have," responded John—n. "Then hand me one of them."

Why Does Hagyard's Yellow Oil

The proprietors of this well known remedy have used it in their families for a few years and considered it the best remedy ever introduced. It is without doubt the most reliable and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy relief and final cure of Coughs, Colds and the Throat and Lung diseases. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual preparations given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary relieves the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases like their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

A Pointer for Hotel-Keepers.

At the Toronto Assizes James Heme sued R. Wilson for damages for injuries sustained while Wilson was ejecting Heme from his barroom. Justice Cameron directed the jury that an hotelkeeper is bound to receive a guest when he conducts himself properly, but just as soon as he acts in a disorderly manner the hotelkeeper can assume the duties of a peace officer, and if he discharges those duties in a proper manner, as a peace officer would, he cannot be held liable for damages.

A Cure for Croup.

It is a valuable fact for mothers to know that there is no better or more certain remedy for croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil used internally and externally. This handy household remedy may be had of any druggist. 2w44d

The Scourge of America.

The one terrible blight of our country is scrofula—from impure blood—it causes consumption and many wasting, lingering and fatal diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters cures scrofula if taken in time. 2w44d

A Bar-itone.

A recent comic song is called "Soap." It comes in bars.

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d
